Long's Aid Flouts Court Order; Calls More Troops

Senator Jokes About Situation; Says He Asked Removal.

Senator Faces Contempt Charge

Soldiers Keep Process Servers From State Official.

New Orleans, Aug. 3 (AP).—Senator Huey P. Long today jested broadly about the tense political war between his faction and that of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley as authorities moved to cite both the Senator and Adjt. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming for contempt.

The ground would be that they refused to obey a court order to disband the National Guard.

The adjutant general dodged service on the court order for demobilization and instead of disbanding ordered his force strengthened. All day the adjutant general sat in Jackson Barracks surrounded by fully armed troops who denied admittance to the process servers.

Counsel for the Walmsley faction said the court could cite both Long and Fleming for contempt and demand their delivery in court under arrest.

Senator Long made a fast automobile trip to Baton Rouge. There, chuckling, he announced he had asked Gov. O. K. Allen, a lieutenant in his political machine, to disband the militia and that the Governor had defied him.

Allen "Disobeys" Long.

"He told me to go to hell," said the grinning Senator, who has dictated State policy undisputed for five years.

"I'm just trying to be a good citizen," Long added. "The court told me to come up and tell the Governor to disband the militia and I did."

"Does that mean that the militia will remain on duty in New Orleans?" newsmen asked.

"I don't know. You'll have to ask the Governor. I don't think he'll talk to you."

Gov. Allen, who had stood silently by during the jocular exchange, maintained his silence.

He has spent most of the week in Senator Long's hotel suite in New Orleans. Their meeting in the capital stirred reports that a quick special session of the Legislature was being planned if decisions go against the State in two actions brought by the hostile city government. No official comment was obtainable.

Police Board Test Monday.

On Monday a hearing will be held on the validity of the new police board which the Long-controlled Legislature decreed for New Orleans and which the city seeks to enjoin from functioning.

Senator Long and Adjt. Gen. Raymond H. Fleming have been ordered to show cause on Tuesday why they should not be en-

Bachman Wins In Tennessee

Memphis Vote Gives Late Senate Race Victory; McKellar Named.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3 (AP).—Trailing after approximately two-thirds of the State's precincts had been counted, Senator Nathan L. Bachman came from behind today to win a smashing victory over Representative Gordon Browning for the Democratic short term nomination to the United States Senate.

In contrast, Senator Kenneth McKellar took the lead from the start in yesterday's primary and easily outdistanced John R. Neal for the long-term nomination.

Gov. Hill McAlister also was renominated by the Democrats over Lewis S. Pope, Nashville lawyer. They faced each other previously in the primaries of 1928 and 1932, with McAlister winning both times.

Bachman, appointed to the Senate by Gov. McAlister, when Cordell Hull resigned to become Secretary of State, piled up his victory on returns from the City of Memphis.

McKellar, the senior Senator, will meet Ben W. Hooper, of Newport, in the November election. Dwayne Maddox, of Huntington, is the Republican nominee for the two-year Senate term.

Both Senator McKellar and Senator Bachman are warm supporters of the Roosevelt program.

Cutting Not to See President.

Los Angeles, Aug. 3 (AP).—United States Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, arrived here today by airplane from Santa Fe en route to Alaska for a two weeks' vacation, but said he would not confer in Portland with President Roosevelt.

All Germany Pays Hindenburg Tribute

Neudeck, Germany, Aug. 3 (AP).—Commoners, nobility and royalty came today to pay their last private tribute to Paul von Hindenburg as he lay in state in his manor house.

The "Sturdy Oak," whose death Wednesday shocked and grieved all Germany, lay in his bed, surrounded by objects he loved in life.

The former Crown Prince, Friedrich Wilhelm, was one of the early visitors, coming as a representative of the family which once ruled Germany.

Franz von Papen, long a close friend of the dead Reichspresident, spent 45 minutes in the death chamber.

Von Papen has been preparing to leave the office of vice chancellor, which Von Hindenburg saved for him at least once, to accept an appointment as envoy to Austria. Acceptance of the minister-designate has not yet been received.

Many others, from high position and low, went to the room, and news correspondents also were given an opportunity to view the body.

It was stated reliably that the procession to Tannenberg, where a national funeral will be held Tuesday, will start from here at midnight Monday.

The march will be one of unusual pomp and military display for a distance of 60 miles.

Whether the Tannenberg memorial, erected to commemorate Von Hindenburg's famous victory over the Russian army, will be his final resting place remained undecided.

The family indicated today that burial will be in the family plot on the Neudeck estate, probably to be followed later by the building of a mausoleum in the estate park.

Von Hindenburg himself once pointed out the spot in Neudeck where he wanted to be buried.

Should the family yield at last to the government and the people and allow the body to remain at Tannenberg, there would be a parallel to the burial of Frederick the Great, whose political descendants the Nazis claim to be.

Frederick the Great wished to be buried on his favorite estate, but instead was laid to rest in Garrison

Jurors Ask Kelly Ouster In Arlington

A special Arlington County jury ended four days' deliberations yesterday with the recommendation that Lyman M. Kelly, 34, chairman of the county board, be removed immediately from public office for "malfeasance, misfeasance and gross neglect."

The jury's presentment accused Kelly of "unlawfully" soliciting a bribe of $200, of making other attempts at bribery and of participating in the profits of his father's bonding firm, which bonded various companies doing business with the company.

No indictment was handed down. The young man sat quietly by his father's side in the courtroom when County Clerk John A. Petty read the presentment and then walked out of the room. Judge Walter T. McCarthy declared that he would take under consideration the issuance of a ruling whereby Kelly would be given ten days to show cause why he should not be removed from office.

Action Without Precedent.

The extraordinary proceeding, which is without precedent in Arlington County, ended at 3:45 p. m. yesterday after the examination of 21 witnesses, frequent consultations with Commonwealth Attorney Lawrence Douglas and lengthy deliberations by the jury. Kelly himself had sought permission to appear before the body, but the permission was refused by Judge McCarthy.

The jury's presentment made the direct accusation that the county chairman "did unlawfully solicit a bribe from Roger Daniel (an Arligton contractor) in the sum of $250 for special services rendered. After he, Daniel, had received a contract with the county in 1933, $200 of this amount was paid."

It was charged that Kelly made another attempt to "shake down" Daniel this year, but that the contractor stated he could not afford to put up any money. When the

Johnson Acts As Mediator In Yards Row

Confers With Leaders of Chicago Strike as Trading Resumes.

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Leaders of the stockyards strike were closeted with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson in a lengthy discussion of the walkout today as trading in the live-stock market was resumed under police protection.

That the NRA chief was being drawn into an active role in the mediation activities was indicated when Gen. Johnson's hotel reservation was extended to include tonight. Previously he had indicated his intention of returning to Washington today.

After Johnson conferred more than an hour in his hotel suite with Redmond S. Brennan, of Kansas City, attorney for the striking handlers, and John Gorman and John Sprecher, officers of the handlers' local, the meeting was augmented by the arrival of Carl Steffensen, deputy secretary of the Chicago Regional Labor Board.

A shower of bricks which greeted a farmer waiting to move his cattle into the yards was the only violence accompanying the resumption of trade. The farmer drove away unharmed.

There were few buyers and trading was dull. Arrivals by train and truck were in keeping with the usual volume for Friday, hogs reached a top of $5.10, the best price since June 26, and cattle quotations were 25 cents and more higher. Only 4,000 commercial cattle were received and 1,500 of these were not on sale.

One hundred policemen were stationed at the main gate of the stockyards and 50 more were held in reserve as trading was resumed.

Lost Woman Identified As Mrs. Jean Shinault

San Francisco, Aug. 3 (AP).—Chief of Police James E. Davis of Los Angeles today notified Chief William J. Quinn here that he had identified the woman amnesia victim found wandering near the ferry building as Mrs. Jean Shinault, 31, widow of "Ginger" Shinault, former baseball catcher.

Uneaten olives and cherries and other things are used over and over again in drinks by drink mixers hidden from the eyes of their customers, the District Commissioners were told yesterday by representatives of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes Alliance.

Representatives of the alliance and others urged the Commissioners to do away with the present requirement that makes hidden bars mandatory.

"Draw up a regulation which you believe would meet the situation and submit it to us," Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen, who presided at the hearing, told opponents of the hidden bars.

A startling verbal picture of post-repeal drink-mixing and serving was painted by those who appeared. They told of bottles being refilled, of dirty, insanitary bars, of beer glasses being used over and over without being washed, of the leavings of one drink being used in another, of ill-located, unventilated drink-mixing bars, some without running water, and about every other criticism which ever was leveled at a public drinking or eating place.

Charles E. Sands, business agent of the alliance, headed the protestants against the hidden bars and what he said was their inevitable evils.

Denny Hughes, attorney, spoke for the Elks Club. He urged that customers be permitted to pour their own drinks.

"Experience shows that when persons are permitted to pour their own drinks they will, in a majority of cases, take a smaller drink than is considered the standard drink served from the present hidden bars," Mr. Hughes said.

E. J. Roche, of the District Central Labor Union, also urged abandonment of the hidden bars. He joined with Mr. Sands and other workers in protesting that working conditions were dangerous to the health of employes as well as customers.

Tuberculosis and other diseases may be spread by the present system, the Commissioners were told.

Leader's Move Likened to Napoleon's by Observers.

New Monarchy May Be in Offing

Personal Loyalty Oath Extended to Include Elite Guards.

Berlin, Aug. 3 (AP).—The events of the last few days, coupled with an historical parallel, caused some observers to wonder tonight whether Germany is headed again toward monarchy — with Adolf Hitler on the throne instead of a Hohenzollern.

Hitler's assumption of the chief executive's powers and functions after the death of President Paul von Hindenburg and his demand for a plebiscite seemed strikingly in line with the practices of Napoleon III.

On November 7, 1852, Napoleon was elevated by the Senate from the presidency to the throne, and five days later a plebiscite put the stamp of popular approval on the action.

Hitler to Be Kaiser.

The association of ideas with Napoleon put the thoughts of some speculative minds on this question:

Is the presidency of Hitler (even though he hasn't the title) but the forerunner of a "Volkskaisertum" or rule by the peoples' kaiser, who, in this Nazi-dominated state, could be no other than Hitler himself?

That the plebiscite will result in overwhelming approval of the action of Hitler was taken for granted throughout the country.

At the same time, Von Hindenburg's death, like many previous tragedies and crises, was turned into excellent political capital by the Nazis.

Greatest Nazi of All Now.

In life the old field marshal was a check on many Hitlerite plans; in death he became to the Nazi orators the greatest Nazi of them all.

The passing of Von Hindenburg was followed quickly by the administration of the army, navy and the Schutz Staffel (elite guards) of an oath of personal allegiance to Hitler.

(It was pointed out yesterday that the oath was quite different from those previously administered,

Duce Quells Fascist "Plot"

(Copyright, 1934, by the United Press.)

Rome, Aug. 3.—A drastic—though bloodless—"purge" of the Bologna branch of the Fascist party has been effected under orders of Premier Benito Mussolini, it was announced today.

Twenty Fascists at Bologna were expelled from the party on orders issued through Achille Starace, secretary-general, on behalf of Il Duce.

Among the former leaders expelled were Leandro Arpinati, erstwhile undersecretary of the interior, and Mario Ghinelli, former secretary of the Fascist party in Bologna province.

A communique said the ousted men "showed an attitude slightly in contrast with the traditional spirit of Fascism, manifesting it by solidarity with a Fascist who was expelled because he opposed party orders."

Arpinati, the expelled Fascist, was arrested July 25 and sentenced to five years' "enforced domicile" on the bleak Lipari Islands, Italy's "Devil's Island." It was reported that in an altercation he exchanged blows with Starace.

Dog Stories for Dog Days

Every dog has his day. These are the days—dog days.

Every dog owner has his favorite story about his pet.

The Post would like to pass the stories on for the benefit of other dog owners and readers generally.

So The Post is asking you to mail in your favorite story about your dog, the story that shows the dog's intelligence, loyalty, bravery, ability to do things out of the ordinary. It makes no difference whether the dog has a long pedigree or is just an uncertain variety of pooch.

For the best dog story submitted each week The Post will pay $10. Stories will be judged on the way they are written as well as on their interest. The Post naturally reserves the right to edit them.

If you have a clear picture illustrating your story, send it along. The Post will print such pictures as can be reproduced. However, it is not necessary to send in a picture in order to win a prize.

Write your dog story legibly on one side of the paper only. Limit it to 250 words. Send it to the Dog Story Editor, Washington Post.

U. S. Plans Control of Power, Security for Aged, Jobless Insurance, Says Roosevelt

Electricity Sources to Become Public, He Declares.

Bonneville, Oreg., Aug. 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt returned to the continental United States today and on the banks of the Columbia River stated plainly that the Government will take over electric power control and will undertake to protect the security of the aged citizens and afford unemployment insurance.

Addressing "my friends of Oregon and Washington" at the site of the $31,000,000 Government project on the Columbia River here, the Chief Executive said the power "that we are developing here is going to be the power which for all time is going to be controlled by the Government."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to Government power development projects as "yardsticks" which would show whether the public is "paying the proper price for the electricity of our times."

Envisions Great Link.

The Chief Executive spoke of envisioning the time when the Columbia River would be opened to seagoing commerce far northward into Washington State and eastward into Idaho.

"That is a dream, my friends," he continued, "and not an idle dream. While we are improving navigation we are creating power. * * * I don't believe that you can have enough power for a long time to come."

Mr. Roosevelt said Government projects which would constitute "yardsticks" for determining power costs were those on the Colorado River (Boulder Dam), the Tennessee and the Columbia (the latter being the project here), the $63,000,000 project at Grand Coulee, and one on the St. Lawrence.

May Order Sea Locks.

In a brief talk to the thousands gathered here, the President intimated that sea locks may be ordered for the $31,000,000 Bonneville power and navigation dam here, permitting ocean-going vessels to "pass up as far as The Dalles."

"There are many people who want to come to a portion of this country," the President said of the West, "where there will be better chances for themselves and their children."

He declared "we should make room for crowded families" after having spoken of "many sections of this country" where conditions are bad, where the fertility of the land has become exhausted, and where the soil has been put to the wrong kind of use.

Security Is Promised.

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the Northwest as a land "already peopled by Americans who know whither America is bound—people who are thinking about advantages for mankind, good education, some play, and above all a chance to live their own lives without wondering what is going to happen tomorrow, security for old age, security against the ills and accidents that come to people, above all, security to earn your own living."

The Presidential party continued Eastward by special train at 4:47 p. m. (Pacific Standard Time). Spokane was to be the next stop.

Welcome Is Tumultuous.

Fittingly, the President spoke his ideas of power and navigation on a space overlooking the $31,000,000 dam under construction with the aid of public works; a spot 40 miles up from Portland, where he received a tumultuous welcome back home earlier today.

The President also revealed that Secretary of War Dern had completed a survey which showed that the Government "hopes it is the part of wisdom to enter these projects so that our ocean-going ships will pass up as far as The Dalles."

Mr. Roosevelt added that "then we hope we can enlarge so there will be barge transportation right up to the wheat country."

"I regard, and have regarded, the Columbia River as one of the greatest assets not only of the Northwest but of the whole United States," he said.

"It is an old saying that seeing is believing," he remarked, looking out over the people to the steaming dredges and plugging trucks building this Government leash on the swiftly moving Columbia.

First Lady Joins Him.

1,300 Revenue Men Sent Out To Smash Stills

Two-Way Offensive on Problems of Repeal Is Launched.

By Robert C. Albright.

With moonshine liquor production topping prohibition levels, the Internal Revenue Bureau has rounded up 1,300 agents, lectured them a bit, and assigned them to seeking out bootleg hideouts and smashing stills.

All of the old ardor of the prohibition crusade is again evident in the bustle and hurry of the bureau's reorganized liquor unit, marshaled in nearly its former force under Deputy Commissioner A. J. Mellott.

Confronted with the need for scrupulously regulating the legitimate industry, and solving the same old problem of brimming bootleg stills, the bureau is attacking the repeal situation in a two-way offensive.

One unit, into which 700 former prohibition agents have been mustered, is performing its traditionally unpleasant function of tracking down moonshiners and cutting off the illicit liquor supply.

Army Near Prerepeal Size.

These 700 Federal officers, together with the 650 agents to which the bureau was cut before repeal forced expansion, form an army now aggressively active in both dry and wet States.

Although this force is still below the prohibition peak, some dry organizations here, solicitous lest borders of dry States be violated by the tidal wave of the new liquor, say they have assurances additional enlistments will bring the bureau's police staff up to prerepeal levels. Treasury authorities are silent on this score.

If the corps of "storekeeper gaugers," inspectors and supervisers used in the second wing of the bureau's drive is totaled, however, the agency's present investigative staff is already nearing the former massed prohibition army.

Moonshiners Ignore Repeal.

All this activity is provided by the persistent refusal of moonshiners to recognize that repeal makes the slightest difference in their business opportunities, and to the racket

First Aerial Mail Train Is Landed Here

Glider, Cut Loose From Mother Craft, Comes Down Safely.

Cut loose from the plane which towed it, a glider circled six times above the Ellipse at midday yesterday and slipped silently down to a perfect landing on the grass—completing the inaugural run of the first aerial mail train.

Loaded with 4,000 letters, each bearing a special cachet for collectors, the glider was the last of three which started out from New York Thursday in tow of the plane. Its pilot was John O'Meara, 1933 glider champion.

The train reached Philadelphia Thursday, where the first glider was cut loose. It made a good landing, but a little later the plane and the other two gliders were forced back to Philadelphia by a storm.

The train got under way again at 8:55 a. m., today. The second glider was cut loose at Baltimore, where it was landed. The plane and last glider also had to land there because the gasoline supply was running low. So after another take-off, it was almost 1 p. m. when the glider touched the ground here.

The glider, painted black and white, blunt-nosed and with its single cockpit ahead of the wing, was expertly managed by O'Meara, who gave a buzzard sharing the heavens with him some lessons in soaring. He was cut off at about 1,000 feet and made six big circles before losing enough altitude to slant down onto the Ellipse.

The single wheel of the glider had just touched the ground when the Ellipse was swarming with spectators. They clustered around the ship, and O'Meara drafted several to wheel the glider over to the north side adjacent to the White House.

Among the first to greet O'Meara was Elias Lustig, sponsor of the

New Deal Hit As Thousands Laud Coolidge

Plymouth, Vt., Aug. 3 (AP).—Nearly 5,000 persons gathered today in the mountain valley where Calvin Coolidge lies to venerate a departed President and to hear criticisms of the Roosevelt Administration.

On the eleventh anniversary of the induction into office of the former farm boy, Senator Warren R. Austin, of Vermont; Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, and other speakers charged the New Deal had brought regimentation, bureaucracy and economic dictatorship. The Vermont Republican committee sponsored the program.

"The New Deal, or misdeal," said Beck, "assumes that the State, working through bureaucratic agencies, knows better what is for the welfare of a man than the man himself. The theory of the divine right of kings has become the divine right of dictators."

Talks in Natural Theater.

He spoke in a natural amphitheater on the apron of Notch Mountain.

It was in the old Coolidge homestead nearby that Calvin Coolidge took the oath of office, administered by his father, Col. John Coolidge, when President Harding died.

A grandstand, covered with canvas, had been erected across the road from the country graveyard where the former President is buried beside his son, Calvin, jr. Amplifiers sent the voices of speakers reverberating among the peaks.

The audience, mostly Vermonters, was arrayed on the grass. All morning long they had drifted into the tiny hamlet, many from distant places. Many came afoot, out of the hills and across the fields once again to pay respects to the man they knew as "Cal." Some carried lunch baskets, others wild flowers

'Sistie' and 'Buzzie' See Fair With Dad; Mother on Way Here

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—The White House youngsters—"Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall—did the World's Fair today.

They were escorted by their father, Curtis B. Dall, who had received them a few hours earlier through the proxy of a nurse from their mother, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall.

The President's grandchildren rode with Mr. Dall in a huge boardwalk chair up the Avenue of Flags to the Administration Building. They stopped there briefly while Century of Progress officials extended an informal welcome.

Theoretically, the visit was incognito. Actually, it had been until the halt at the Administration Building. Then attention was attracted by the famous Roosevelt smiles—"Sistie's" without the benefit of several front teeth.

The Dalls, divorced Monday at Minden, Nev., did not meet when the youngsters were transferred at the North Western Railroad terminal. The nurse took them down the platform to be gathered into their father's arms shortly after the train from the West arrived. They went at once to the Blackstone Hotel. Mrs. Dall left later for the Palmer House. She lunched with Mrs. Charles Breasted, daughter of Representative Isabella Greenway, of Arizona.

Mrs. Dall would not discuss terms of the children's custody incorporated in the divorce decree. She said they would stay with their father "a couple of weeks" and then return to her. Dall had no comment.

The President's tall daughter summarized her immediate future in this statement:

"I am going home to work. I have more than the usual amount of writing to do while mother is away. All this chatter about my marrying again is just rumor." She left in midafternoon for Washington.

Dall was reticent about his plans.

with him and the sons, James, Franklin and John, through an almost unbroken line of waving folks from Portland here.

Mr. Roosevelt boarded a special train here to continue his National inspection trip to Washington. He traveled tonight into the State of Washington and there tomorrow will survey the Grand Coulee project harnessing the upper Columbia River.

The President remarked that Representative Martin, of Oregon, Democratic aspirant for Governor of Oregon, today recalled that just ten months ago the funds were allocated for the Bonneville Dam, now well along in construction.

Was Absent Thirty-three Days.

At 2:49 p. m. (Pacific Standard Time), he left the gangplank of the cruiser U. S. S. Houston, his home on an epochal sea voyage which carried him to the Latin-American countries and to the tropic territories of the United States.

A reunion of his family was foremost for Mr. Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt, ending a motoring vacation through California and Oregon, boarded the Houston shortly before noon. James Roosevelt boarded the Houston last night and John and Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr., had been with the President during his voyage.

Secretary of War Dern and Secretary of Interior Ickes followed Mrs. Roosevelt aboard to head a welcoming delegation which included Gov. Julius L. Meier and a committee of prominent citizens.

Waves Hat at Crowd.

The President chatted in a low voice with members of his family and with those of his party. To others and to the thousands crowded for a glimpse of him, he waved his Panama hat, tossed his head in characteristic gesture and smiled.

After debarking, the Presidential party was escorted throughout the city, the President in an open car, the second of the parade formation. Mrs. Roosevelt was with him in the rear seat, and Gov. Meier sat between them.

The caravan proceeded up the scenic highway route to the site of the Booneville Dam, where other tens of thousands had waited for hours to see the President and hear him speak at the site of the project.

Two Pedestrians Injured by Trucks

Traffic mishaps yesterday caused serious injury to two pedestrians, one an 80-year-old man and the other a 4-year-old child.

Frank E. Kirby, of 6309 Third street northwest, suffered a fractured leg and severe head lacerations when knocked down by a truck at Eleventh and Water streets southwest. Physicians at Emergency Hospital said that Kirby's condition was serious because of his advanced age. James A. Cassidy, 23, of the 600 block of Sixth street northwest, alleged driver of the truck, was released pending outcome of Kirby's injuries.

Alice Brown, of 642 Eleventh street northeast, suffered a broken nose, a possible cerebral concussion, and internal injuries when a truck knocked her down as she darted into the street in front of her home. At Casualty Hospital it was said last night that her condition was favorable.

Harvey M. Epps, of Baltimore, alleged driver of the truck, which is owned by the Singer Transfer Co., Inc., was detained by Ninth Precinct police.

Mourners Take To Heels as Live 'Corpse' Appears

Chestertown, Md., Aug. 3 (AP).—No serious injuries were reported here today after a gathering of colored mourners had scattered to the winds on the belief they saw a "corpse" walking.

The scattering commenced when Wilbur Stewart, 50, in a white gown, arrived in a hearse, and walked into his house.

He had ridden in the hearse because the local ambulance was out of fix and there was no other way to bring him one from the Easton hospital. When the hearse was sent for Stewart, his family believed he had died.

In deep mourning they stood about as the hearse drew up. Then suddenly out walked Wilbur. In a few seconds Wilbur had the neighborhood to himself. Friends and family took flight. Two went out of a second-story window. One mourner dashed through a screen door without waiting to open it.

Prison Laxity Blamed In Last Indiana Break

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 3 (AP).—Wayne Coy, undersecretary to Gov. Paul V. McNutt, today made public a report on his investigation into the escape last Saturday of five prisoners, four of whom have been recaptured. Blame for the escape was placed on Capt. W. C. Griswold, night captain, and four other prison employes.

The report contained a recommendation to the Governor for a drastic shake-up in the prison personnel.

Federal Cash Keeps Oregon for New Deal

Bonneville Dam and Relief Funds Supply $100 Per Capita, Cushioning Strike Effects and Silencing Criticism by Skeptics.

Portland, Oreg., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Oregon, though normally 3 to 1 Republican, continues friendly toward President Roosevelt and many features of his program.

It is especially pleased over the $31,000,000 Bonneville Dam which Mr. Roosevelt inspected in the initial construction stages today. This and other Federal aid has brought a total of about $100 New Deal money into the State for each man, woman and child.

Everybody is happy over that. Even one of the power company executives says he's for what Mr. Roosevelt has done, including the Bonneville Dam, despite the fact that this great Federal power enterprise hangs like the sword of Damocles over private power companies out here. He has some ideas as to what should be done with the Bonneville project when it has been built, however, and that is where the fight is coming.

Men Obtain Jobs.

Just now Federal money is pouring in and men are being given jobs, to some extent cushioning the blow which Portland and all Oregon has suffered from the nine weeks' tie-up of shipping by the longshoremen's strike. The San Francisco longshoremen's strike, because it branched out into a general strike, has monopolized the Nation's attention; but Portland's dock strike, which has just ended this week, has been more deadly in its effect on the community than the general strike was on San Francisco.

Lumber is Portland's greatest industry. It is to this area what cotton is to the South and wheat to Kansas. Lumber production in June was 46 per cent below May and 40 per cent below June of last year. It went even lower in July. Inventories, on the contrary, are 27 per cent above those of a year ago, which means that lumber is piled up on docks and in the mills. The two largest furniture factories closed down. One threw 1,700 persons out of work, and is still shut. The other recently opened on a curtailed schedule.

Portland has eight flour mills. They are operating at 40 per cent capacity now, as against 60 per cent during the last year. Wheat and flour, like lumber, are mostly shipped from here by water. Farmers, more than half of whom sack their wheat instead of handling it in bulk, as do Midwest farmers, have been hampered by inability to get bags, which come in by water. Their wheat lay in the sun, dried out and shriveled.

Business Shows Decline.

Business generally in the Portland area stands at an index figure of about 50 points as against 60.26 a month ago and 65.52 a year ago. There was no export trade last month.

All this has affected general retail trade. One jeweler reports a drop in sales of 30 per cent below June. As gems are luxuries, this represents about the maximum damage in consumer trade.

While conditions are worse than they were a year ago, the fact that much of the trouble is attributable directly to the strike relieves the Administration of the criticism that otherwise would accompany such a recession. There is strong criticism here, however, of the Administration's handling of the strike situation, or rather of its alleged inactivity in the early stages, when the difficulty might have been more easily ironed out.

Secretary of Labor Perkins is the target of most of the complaint. Employers also blame section 7(a) and the haziness of the Administration as to what it means for much of their strike trouble. Working conditions of longshoremen and seamen have been bad and employers admit there were legitimate grievances. They say, however, that the Administration permitted labor picketers to take charge of the docks during the strike and exclude even ship owners from going through the lines without permits from strike headquarters, all in the name of section 7(a).

Democrats May Suffer.

The fight is all over, and the only significance in the complaint is that business men are now nursing a grievance against the Administration. Being mostly Republicans, they are in danger of wandering out of the Democratic ranks, especially when campaign collectors call. Representative Charles H. Martin, retired Army general, is dropping out of Congress to be the Democratic candidate for Governor. He is conceded the edge, but to win over Joseph Dunne must hold Republican votes. His backers need Republican money for campaign purposes. They are so concerned over the clarification of section 7(a)—as to whether it means labor can insist on a closed shop—that they persuaded Postmaster General Farley on his recent visit to intercede in an effort to have President Roosevelt make a definite statement when he lands here. Farley wrote Louis M. Howe, the President's secretary, urging him to impress upon Mr. Roosevelt when the Houston arrives, the political importance of the situation.

NRA generally is accepted here. One outstanding exception is in the lumber industry, where some manufacturers are on the warpath. One of them, a Democrat, is violently bitter over the quota assigned to him. He manufactures largely for export and has been operating three shifts 24 hours a day. He was given a quota permitting him to operate 24 hours a week, the same schedule as another mill of similar capacity which had operated day shifts only. He contends that so long as he can sell his lumber abroad, he should be permitted to operate at full schedule if his orders justify.

On Point of Rebellion.

"Lumber code authority officials admit this is unjust and is ruining my business, but they say that nothing can be done about it," this manufacturer said. "I have reached the point where I am going to do something about it. I am just going to ignore the quota and go ahead and sell my lumber. If they want to take away the Blue Eagle that's all right with me. I am for the wages and hours regulations of NRA and am prepared to continue to observe them. That is something that should be retained. But it is unfair and stifling to business enterprise to restrict a manufacturer, particularly one whose principal business is in the export trade, to a quota far below mill capacity. This policy is in contradiction to the policy of the Administration on foreign trade generally. It discourages rather than encourages it."

Some lumbermen also complain that minimum prices, which incidentally have been lowered recently, have been fixed to meet the costs of one of the largest manufacturers in the Pacific Northwest, which is staggering under a heavy bonded indebtedness. This increases the profit margin of the more efficient producer theoretically. But one of them objects that it holds the price of lumber up too high and leads buyers to substitute other materials and actually reduces profits for the whole industry by driving away trade.

Barrage Is Built Up.

These specific instances rather than the general theory of NRA arouse the real bitterness among business men. Grievances of one kind or another are found in practically every line of industry, and the cumulative effect of them is to build up a barrage of criticism.

But the subject which starts an argument wherever a few gather in Portland is the Bonneville Dam. Some describe it as pure pork. Others describe it as the instrument which will bring industry and prosperity to the Pacific Northwest. No one is indifferent about it. Practically every politician in the State is claiming credit for having put it across. Many did have a hand in the earlier agitation. But when the proposal came up to Secretary of Interior Ickes in his capacity as public works administrator, he rejected it. There did not seem to be sufficient market for the power. Existing facilities in this area have a capacity twice the present consumption.

But it was finally approved through the efforts of Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, who not only is a Republican but is the leader of his party in the Senate. He flew to Washington last summer and persuaded President Roosevelt to overrule Secretary Ickes. Whether there is any connection or not, Senator McNary has been so kindly disposed to the Administration program ever since that he is out of favor with the group controlling the Republican National Committee.

Knockers Are Unpopular.

There is drama in Bonneville which has appealed to the whole Northwest. It has stirred the imagination of this section to the point where any one who speaks skeptically of it is put on the defensive as a knocker devoid of the pride which a true Oregonian should have.

The great Columbia River rushes sharply down to the sea through a deep chasm. It is lavish with untamed water power. At Bonneville it sweeps through a gorge 3,000 feet deep. Massive crags rise more than half a mile above the cascading roar. Beyond, the snow-capped peak of Mount Hood and, across on the Washington side, the glistening crests of Mount Rainier and Mount Adams provide a setting of grandeur. Nature in such mighty moments seems always to stir man to heroic endeavor, as the wide Atlantic tempted one flier after another to his death. So, with picks and shovels, dredges and concrete mixers, a dam will be built during the next three years, which will create a lake extending 50 miles upstream to The Dalles.

It has two major purposes. One is to provide an abundance of cheap power. The other is to make the Columbia River navigable farther inland to tap the rich agricultural land in central Oregon.

Sea-Sized Locks Urged.

As to navigation, present plans provide for locks adequate only to pass river barges through. Agitation is on now to change the plans and build locks large enough to lift ocean-going vessels up over the dam. Advocates of this say that it would cost only about $1,000,000 more if done during construction of the dam, whereas later the cost would be much higher because part of the dam would have to be torn out. President Roosevelt was urged to consent to this change when he visited the site today. It is contended that unless ocean shipping can get through the locks, navigation possibilities will be only partially realized.

The power plans call for ten units ultimately. Only two have been authorized for construction now. They will produce a total of about 160,000 horsepower, capable of generating about 100,000 kilowatts. Studies are being made now by a State commission created at the last session of the Legislature, as to possible uses for this power. Some suggested are electrical heating of homes, irrigation pumping, electric drying of fruits, refrigeration of fruits, and substitution for steam and Deisel standby plants and small, inefficient power plants. Aluminum and rayon interests have had scouts looking over the field. Such cases, the experts report, would depend on cheap transmission.

During the next three years, while the dam is being built, the method of distribution will be thrashed out —that is, if the Federal Government, which is entirely financing the project, does not decide to do what it did in the Tennessee Valley, set up its own power authority for controlling distribution.

Roosevelt Cruise Ships Return East

Navy Orders Houston and New Orleans Back.

The U. S. S. Houston and the U. S. S. New Orleans, heavy cruisers, assigned to carry the President on his Hawaiian cruise and to provide an escort, have been ordered to return to the East Cost on completion of that duty, it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department.

The Houston, under command of Capt. Walter Woodson, will leave Portland, Oreg., next Tuesday, arrive at San Pedro August 10, remain in San Diego from August 11 to 27, and rejoin the fleet at Hampton Roads September 14.

The New Orleans, with Capt. Allen Reed in command, left Astoria, Oreg., yesterday, and is due in New York August 29.

Church, next to his father, whom he never loved and who had been harsh if not cruel to him.

Government spokesmen, who yesterday were so certain about the Tannenberg plans, today merely said that "the question has not been finally settled."

The official program cautiously mentions "conveying the coffin of the field marshal to the towers of the Tannenberg Monument," at the close of the funeral exercises, at which Chancellor Hitler will deliver the oration.

Today an army officer stood at each corner of the bed on which the dead leader lay, and ten candles burned on each side.

Near the bed were a number of wreaths.

On the white coverlet, above which only the head and arms were visible, lay a bullet which pierced Von Hindenburg's hand in a battle in 1866.

A soldier later gave it to him, saying, "I burned my fingers on this; it was too hot."

Lack of Space Bars Women From Hindenburg Rites

Neudeck, East Prussia, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—An official announcement today said that due to the small size of the castle at Neudeck and the honor court at Tannenberg, where burial services will be conducted, only men will be permitted to attend the funeral ceremonites for President Paul von Hindenburg.

It was explained that hundreds of officers, many of them Von Hindenburg's old comrades in arms, and officials will attend, making this decision imperative.

Sloan Resigns Cotton Textile Code Position

Also Seeks to End Rule as President of Institute.

New York, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—The resignation of George A. Sloan as president of the Cotton Textile Institute and as chairman of the Cotton Textile Code Authority was revealed today.

The resignation was submitted last night by Sloan at a meeting of the executive committee of the institute at the Biltmore Hotel in Providence, R. I. The reason for it was not immediately learned.

He asked that the resignation be effective "as soon as convenient to the executive committee."

Action on the resignation was deferred by the executive committee until its next meeting, expected in the near future.

The resignation was made known in a letter to members of the institute. It follows:

"Last night, at a meeting of the executive committee of the institute, held at the Biltmore Hotel in Providence, I submitted my resignation as president of the institute and as chairman of the cotton textile code authority, to be effective as soon as convenient to the executive committee. I appreciate more than it is possible to express the loyal support and personal friendship which has been given me by all in the industry and it is with the sincerest regret that I feel it is necessary to make this decision.

"However, this does not mean any lessening of my deep interest in the welfare of the industry and of my desire to be of assistance to it in the future."

Lamont Son's Picketing Case Up to Jersey Judge

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 3 (AP).—The case of Corliss Lamont, son of Thomas W. Lamont, J. P. Morgan partner, arrested for picketing activities in Jersey City in behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union, was postponed indefinitely today, pending the decision of Judge Robert V. Kinkead, on the appeals of Alfred M. Bingham, son of former United States Senator Hiram Bingham, and 11 other convicted pickets.

Two Dead as Runaway Train Wrecks Building

Manteca, Calif., Aug. 3 (U.P.).—A crack Southern Pacific passenger train, wrecked by a switchman's error, hurtled onto a blind siding today and crashed into a building in which 180 sera workers were employed.

Two men were killed. A wrecking crew searched in the debris for more bodies, fearing two transients also perished.

It was understood that the oath had not yet been required of the storm troopers, from whose organization the Schutz Staffel recently was separated.

Just who will be the chief deputy of the chancellor under the new order of things has not been revealed, and will not be until after the plebiscite, a government spokesman said.

He intimated that Hitler may name no one immediately to succeed Franz von Papen, vice chancellor, who has been named Minister to Austria.

Hitler requested Otto Meissner, secretary of state in the Reichspresident's office under both Ebert and Von Hindenburg, to continue in the same post.

Jewish Paper Appears.

Judiscae Rundshaw, the first Jewish organ to appear since the president's death, printed today Von Hindenburg's name in a black border, and gave the text of a message sent to the president's office by Rabbis Baeck and Hirsch on behalf of German Jewry, affirming their abiding loyalty to the memory of the president as a man "who always saw the fatherland as including all."

"Participation in political life," says an editorial, "and public affairs is denied to us Jews in present day Germany, but at a time when the whole German people mourns at Von Hindenburg's bier, we deem it our duty to say we German Jews share the same feeling."

Divorced Wife Jails Scheer

Former D. C. Merchant Soon Freed; $12,000 Alimony Arrearage.

Arrested on a commitment issued by Justice James M. Proctor, of the District Supreme Court, because he was charged by his divorced wife with being in arrears $12,000 in alimony payments, Julius Scheer, who formerly operated a department store on H street northeast, was freed on a $1,000 bond yesterday after he had been held for two hours.

Mrs. Frances Scheer, who informed Justice Proctor her former husband was ordered to pay her $175 a month in 1925 when she obtained a divorce from him, claimed he had made very few payments. She said he had been twice remarried.

Scheer, who now lives in Steubenville, Ohio, came here yesterday.

Justice Proctor assigned Monday for Scheer to appear. He was arrested in front of Mrs. Scheer's apartment when he went to visit his small son.

Anna May Wong Sends Family to Visit China

Hollywood, Aug. 3 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Wong Sam Sing, two of their daughters and a son are leaving for China. They will depart, to make their first visit to the land of their forefathers, just as soon as a certain Chinese tramp steamer has its cargo aboard. That will be either Saturday or Sunday.

The Wongs are the parents of Anna May Wong, Chinese movie actress, who is footing the bills.

New Deal Hit As Thousands HonorCoolidge

Beck Flays New Deal.

A pageant depicting the "Spirit of '76" was enacted and the band of the 172d Infantry Regiment, Vermont National Guard, played.

Representative Beck, introduced by Gov. Stanley C. Wilson of Vermont, leveling his attack at what he termed the "misdeal," said:

"I appreciate that the dictatorial power of the NRA and the AAA have been exercised by an iron hand wielded in a velvet glove. A pretended spirit of moderation has been one concession to the American spirit, but dictatorial powers are not less dictatorial because they are apologetically exercised. You can not give a bureaucratic official the sword of absolute power and not expect him to use it when the spirit moves him."

In the grand stand was Mrs. Grace Coolidge, widow of the President. Early today she had carried bouquets of gladioli to the spot where her loved ones lie.

Roosevelt Ability Doubted.

Senator Austin, also attacking the present Administration, said:

"The right of local self-regulation by a republican form of government in the several States, guaranteed by the Constitution, has been suspended by Congress.

"The farmer, so richly deserving a fair return for his labor and investment, and on whose well being the prosperity of the country so largely depends, now finds himself too strongly fettered in the yoke of officialdom and subject to the lash of criminal prosecution unless he submits to the planning, control and exactions of the Federal Government. * * * The business man, engaged in commerce or industry, is policed by a Federal bureaucracy."

Among those who paid tribute to Mr. Coolidge were John G. Sargent, his Attorney General; Senators Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont; Daniel O. Hastings, of Delaware, and Wallace W. White, jr., of Maine.

President Roosevelt's name was mentioned only once during the speechmaking; then by John Spargo, president of the Vermont Historical Society, who said that however "charming and gracious" President Roosevelt was, he was not fitted to hold the Presidency.

Charles D. Mahone, 79, Will Be Buried Today

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Charles Dabney Mahone, 79, well-known business man, who died yesterday at a local hospital, will be buried tomorrow.

Mr. Mahone was senior member of the firm of C. D. Mahone & Son, one of the oldest plumbing and roofing establishments in the city. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Ellen Jamison Mahone; three daughters, Mrs. James Chester Bibb, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Lucian L. Swink and Mrs. Alfred F. H. Anderson, of Norfolk, and a son, Charles D. Mahone, jr., Norfolk.

Truck Driver Off Road, Wrecked, to Avert Crash

Warrenton, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Fred Smith, of Culpeper, truck driver, narrowly escaped injury yesterday when his machine plunged from the road and overturned as he swerved to avoid a head-on collision with an unidentified coupe about 6 miles south of here. The truck was wrecked.

The two vehicles met on a sharp curve where the road was narrow, S. S. Hall, town sergeant, reported.

Motorist Found Dead; Monoxide Gas Blamed

It is believed the exhaust pipe became clogged with mud and carbon monoxide gas caused his death.

Capital Has But 10 Per Cent of Acreage And Equipment Needed for Playgrounds

The Chevy Chase playground, admittedly the best in Washington's inadequate system, needs $10,000 for equipment and development, according to Miss Sibyl Baker, director of playgrounds. Most of the playgrounds have far less than this one, which is situated in a well-to-do neighborhood.

Agency Reaches but 40 Per Cent of 100,000 Children in City.

By James D. Secrest.

Washington has a little more than 10 per cent of the acreage it needs devoted to all-year playgrounds, and the playgrounds it has are only 10 per cent adequately equipped.

The first statement may be credited to L. H. Weir, who is engaged in a survey of the Capital's recreational needs, as he believes that Washington should have 125 playgrounds of five acres each, or a total of 625 acres, whereas the District Playground Department has only 32 playgrounds covering 66 acres.

Miss Sibyl Baker, director of the Playground Department, is the source of the second statement regarding the inadequate equipment on the playgrounds.

School Plots Loaned.

Of course, the Playground Department during the summer vacation period is permitted to utilize a limited number of school playgrounds that are under the jurisdiction of the Community Center—primarily an adult recreation agency—and there are 20 small sections of the city's parks devoted to very limited playground equipment.

This year 55 of the available 110 school playgrounds are being loaned to the Playground Department, the others remaining idle because of a shortage of funds, but even these are very poorly equipped to meet the active needs of playful children.

"We are able to reach only about 40 per cent of the 100,000 children in Washington because of our limited equipment," Miss Baker said. "And in the sections of the city where playgrounds are most needed, they are scarcest or nonexistent; that is, in the congested residential areas.

"Why, there is only a single playground of a quarter of an acre in the heart of the city and within reach of a population of 86,620. That is the Thomas Center at Twelfth and L streets northwest. There is no other playground within the area bounded by Sixteenth and Seventh streets and the Mall and Spring road."

Only Vacant Lots.

And even the sections that have playgrounds have so little equipment that in many cases there is nothing for the children but a vacant lot with none of the beauty which Mr. Weir believes is so essential.

"Our best playground is in Chevy Chase," Miss Baker said, "but I could spend $10,000 on it before I would call it a model ground. The others range downward to the Hoover playground, which is nothing more than an open field. It is in the Southwest."

Miss Baker said her 6-year program, now indefinitely delayed, calls for an expenditure of $500,000 in improving existing playgrounds.

As she has had experience battling with Congress yearly for meager funds, she is not so optimistic as to wish for 125 playgrounds.

"Twenty more, with the school grounds on a full-time schedule and more acreage for the smaller existing playgrounds, would be sufficient," she said. "That would give us about 110."

Pools Are Scarce.

Another congested area where underprivileged children are without playground facilities is that bounded by Massachusetts and Florida avenues and North Capitol and Ninth streets.

At all these playgrounds there are only three swimming pools, with a fourth at the Washington Monument Grounds. There are but 11 wading pools for the smaller children on sweltering days.

It is because of this lack that every summer the National Capital Parks Office has difficulty trying to discourage children from wading in the unhealthy waters of Rock Creek. And park police are kept busy driving the youngsters out of the stately monument pools scattered over the city.

Even the police realize the plight of the poor children on torrid summer days, and often turn their heads long enough to allow the youngsters to get a good splash before enforcing the law.

"Stepchild" of Agencies.

The District playground department is 20 years old, and, although because of its nature it should be perhaps the most important of Washington's many recreational agencies, actually it is in the position of the proverbial stepchild.

Its appropriation, instead of keeping pace with growing needs, actually has been cut about 25 per cent within the last few years. For the fiscal year 1935 it is $169,150. Moreover, it has not the advantage of the Community Center, which is permitted to raise money by charging fees, nor has it the privilege of the National Capital Parks Office, which rents many of its facilities to concessioners.

Only 22 of the 32 District playgrounds actually are owned by the District government. Seven are lent by the National Capital Parks Office and may be recalled at any time, while three are lent by the school administration through the Community Center. Eleven of the total are for colored children.

Urges 125 Playgrounds.

The National Recreation Association estimates there should be an acre of playground space for every 1,500 inhabitants, which would mean 111 playgrounds and 333 acres, for Washington. But Mr. Weir believes this estimate is too small. He would double this standard and recommend 125 playgrounds of five acres each.

"And they all ought to be adequately equipped and beautiful in appearance," he said.

The plan worked out by a committee representing all public recreational agencies in 1930 after years of study calls for 134 playgrounds centered around larger neighborhood recreational areas and would place a playground within a quarter of a mile of every child in Washington.

This plan, however, would encompass a greater utilization of school playgrounds under a single administration and also much more equipment.

While the primary purpose of the playground department is to provide a broad variety of supervised activities for children, it has developed within recent years into an agency serving young people and adults as well. This is but another illustration of the overlapping of the work of the three major agencies.

Performs Other Services.

Although the most publicity is given athletic activities sponsored and supervised by the department, it performs other services, such as: (1) Institutional service, including the assignment of leadership and loan of apparatus; (2) picnic service, including the provision of leadership and the loan of supplies; (3) training courses in recreation leadership; (4) costume service and advising on pageant and festival costuming; (5) Christmas workshop and Christmas and Thanksgiving basket service, and (6) model aircraft shop and instruction.

The regular staff consists of 31 recreation leaders, with 30 caretakers and assistants and 45 employes in charge of swimming pools. In addition, 165 recreation supervisors and directors are used on a part-time basis, especially in the summer, when school playgrounds are absorbed. Miss Baker estimates at least 18 more recreation leaders are needed on the annual staff.

A modern playground department, in the opinion of Miss Baker, who has spent her adult life in the job of supervising public recreation, should serve four age groups.

It should first serve the preschool children, up to 6 years of age, with nursery play centers, including sheltered sand boxes, small swings, slides, wading pools, shrubbery and walks.

For children between 6 and 10 a larger games area should be provided. This should include outdoor gymnasium equipment, a swimming pool and grounds for athletic games.

Indoor Facilities Urged.

From 11 to perhaps the 20s, youths need large playing fields, equipped with baseball diamonds, tennis courts, basket ball courts and the like, as well as swimming pools.

Young people between 16 and 25, as well as adults, should have indoor recreational facilities as well as outdoor. The building should have gymnasium auditoriums for athletic activities or dancing, and other smaller recreational rooms.

For the latter, school buildings could be used, Miss Baker believes, while in some sections separate buildings would have to be constructed. The latter plan is better, she believes, because of the large cost of keeping open school buildings after hours.

All this is perhaps visionary in relation to what the playground department now has in recreational facilities and to its immediate prospects for development.

(Tomorrow's article will deal with the Community Center Department of the public schools.)

Suspect Admits He's Army Man

Alleged Lynchburg Robber Tells of Travels.

Lynchburg, Va., Aug. 3 (AP).—Grover Cleveland Wall, alleged highway robber, who escaped from the city jail May 3 with Clement Dixon, condemned colored murderer, and Frank Ferroni, charged with murder, then walked into the city jail late yesterday and surrendered, admitted today he was on furlough from the regular Army when he was arrested here.

He said he went from here to South Carolina and then to Reno, Nev., working in the latter city in a hotel.

He said he parted from Ferroni and Dixon shortly after their escape. When seen by Commonwealth's Attorney Spencer this morning, Wall declined to talk about the delivery and said he would not do so until he had advice from a lawyer.

Mr. Spencer said he would present Wall to the September grand jury on charges of breaking jail.

Brewer Leaves All To Widow, Children

Property Held in Trust Pending Division.

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—By the will of Machael L. Fesenmeier, president of the Cumberland Brewing Co., probated today, the estate is left in trust with the Second National Bank of this city.

A monthly income of $200 is provided for the widow, Bertha Hartman Fesenmeier, who also receives all personal property in the home.

A daughter, Mrs. Adel Bert Bradley, wife of Emmett Bradley, Washington, D. C., is given all furniture and silverware in her possession and $5,000. When the estate can be settled equal division will be made among three children, Mrs. Walter G. Distler and Leo Fesenmeier, both of Baltimore, and Mrs. Bradley.

Youth, 18, Faces Charge Of Attacking Girl, 6

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Charged with criminally assaulting a 6-year-old girl, Henry Jones, 18, was free on bond tonight after his arrest this morning by Sheriff Maxie L. Blaydes.

A hearing is scheduled at Spotsylvania Courthouse Monday. Jones is alleged to have enticed the girl into his automobile and to have driven into the country.

Charleston, W. Va., Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Bruce Taylor, 5, was killed, and his brother, Alfred, 7, was burned severely today, when lightning struck a tree under which they had taken shelter from a storm.

2 Newspapermen Win Battle To Keep Confidence in Court

Kentuckians Are Freed as Judge Declares Inquiry Ended.

Danville, Ky., Aug. 3 (AP).—Two young newspapermen who had declared they would go to jail daily "from now on," rather than break a newspaper confidence, won their fight in police court here today.

Police Judge Jay W. Harlan, who had ben sending them to jail for three to six hours, or fining them daily since July 24, did not formally give up his legal right to punish them for contempt in refusing to answer questions about Danville's now famous hanging in effigy. He simply ended the whole inquiry after two other men, out of many suspected, had pleaded guilty to taking part in the hanging. He then dismissed Jack Durham and Wesley Carty, the two newspapermen, with the explanation that since the inquiry was ended, the court "therefore can not inquire of you further as to your knowledge of the offense."

Col. Vernon Richardson, publisher of the Kentucky Advocate, of which Carty is city editor and Durham a staff member, said he believed the preponderance of public sentiment had been with them, although many felt Judge Harlan was right in upholding the law.

"But all are glad the contempt case is over," he added.

Durham and Carty in the course of their newspaper work had learned in confidence that Representative J Sterling Towles was to be hanged in effigy in the courthouse square here early July 19 and were among witnesses summoned for the inquiry. The two newspapermen refused to say who told them about the plans to hang a dummy figure representing Towles in protest over his vote for the State sales tax, explaining they were told in confidence.

Nonunion replacement workers, totaling about 400, unloaded the stock as it arrived.

Four hundred additional stockyards employes, members of the commission men's handlers union, joined the 800 handlers in a walkout early today. The first shipments to arrive were fed and watered by the white-collared commission men themselves.

Deadlock Is Reached In Minneapolis Strike

Minneapolis, Aug. 3 (AP).—The crack of Gov. Floyd B. Olson's whip over employers and striking truck drivers, alike, left both sides unmoved today under the threat of clamping down on vehicle movements to force settlement of the controversy.

Revocation of all trucking permits save for necessities, effective at midnight tonight unless an agreement was reached by then, was announced by the Governor.

He warned strikers of "very drastic action thereafter with reference to forcible picketing."

Opposes Employers' Terms.

Speaking for himself alone, but reflecting, he believed, the sentiment of the union, Local No. 574, Farrell Dobbs, strike leader, said:

"We are ready, as we have always been, to agree on any peace plan that is based on the provisional plan of Father Haas. I do not believe the union will ever accept the proposal made by the employers Thursday, which proposed to keep the scabs on the jobs who have been trying to break the strike by driving trucks."

The employers' advisory committee said they would refuse to make any further concessions after incorporating in their peace terms changes and modifications recommended by the Rev. Francis Haas and E. H. Dunnigan, Federal mediators.

Changes Not Disclosed.

Some terms and the language of several sections of the plan, embracing a definite wage scale, reinstatement of strikers and representation for collective bargaining, were altered by these changes, which were not disclosed.

Gov. Olson's pronouncement came on the heels of a relaxation of military rule in the city, where two men have died during the 18-day walkout. Citizens were allowed to park cars on downtown streets for the first time since imposition of martial rule and truck movements were 75 per cent normal.

A dozen pickets were arrested by National Guard troops today and 15 automobiles used by strikers impounded.

Son of Luke Lea Dies in Car Crash

Percy Lea, 24, Is Killed Returning From Fair.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Percy W. Lea, 24, son of Col. Luke Lea, former Nashville publisher, was killed in an automobile accident near Veedersburg, Ill., today.

Young Lea was employed in the business department of the Nashville Tennessean. He was driving an automobile returning four carrier boys and a circulation route manager from the world's fair at Chicago.

Col. Lea is now serving a sentence in the North Carolina Penitentiary at Raleigh on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Central Brank & Trust Co., of Asheville, N. C. Another son, Luke Lea, jr., recently was freed on parole from the Raleigh prison.

Indian Held in Killing Of Pocomoke City Man

La Plata, Md., Aug. 3 (AP).—John M. Harvey, an Indian, was held in jail here today while officers investigated last night's shotgun killing of Eddie Taylor, colored, of Pocomoke, Md.

Sheriff Robert V. Cooksey said the Indian, who operates an automobile repair shop, had surrendered to him voluntarily, saying he shot Taylor in the abdomen when he "intruded" on a private party at the Harvey home.

Loudoun Gets Drought Cattle.

Leesburg, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Two carloads of cattle from drought-stricken North Dakota have arrived in Loudoun County and were consigned to the farm of P. J. Coleman, of Sterling, which was rented by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration for pasture. Another carload was consigned to J. P. Brown, of Lincoln.

Soloff Is Called Diehn Attacker By Witnesses

Although he stubbornly refused to make any statement, Benny Soloff, alias "The Bear," was identified by several witnesses last night, according to police, as the man who shot Sidney Diehn, 30, former convict, in front of the Annapolis Hotel last Monday.

Accompanied by his attorney, Denny Hughes, Soloff surrendered to police yesterday. He gave his address as the Taft Hotel and his age as 29. Soloff was closeted for several hours with Detective Sergeant Frank O. Brass. He appeared last night in the police line-up and then was taken to the First Precinct, where he prepared to make bond.

Another Man Sought.

Meanwhile, police announced they were seeking another man whose name they would not divulge, in connection with the attack on Diehn. They have identified the second suspect by his picture, detectives asserted.

At Gallinger Hospital Diehn remained silent as to the identity of the gun wielder who shot him in front of the hotel as scores of pedestrians passed. Police believe, however, that he knows his assailant.

A man and woman were questioned in the shooting Wednesday. They were Betty Soloff, 24, said to be the wife of Soloff, and Rueben C. Rose, 43. Detectives quizzed them for several hours, but both denied any connection with the shooting.

Woman Drove Escape Car.

After Diehn was shot, the gunman fled in a black sedan driven by a woman.

Physicians at the hospital last night said Diehn was definitely "out of danger," although the bullet, which tore through his groin, may cripple him for life.

Inspector F. S. W. Burke, Chief of Detectives, has denied the shooting might result in the exposure of a wide spread vice ring.

"The affair apparently came from a personal grudge," Burke said.

The suit did not name the Governor as a codefendant, charging that Senator Long, "with the servile consent of the Governor," was exercising the powers of the chief executive.

Long accepted service at his hotel suite last night, but Adjt. Gen. Fleming, protected from process servers by the bayonets of the mobilized National Guard at Jackson Barracks, remained unserved.

Reached over the telephone, Fleming said:

"I am carrying out the Governor's orders. I have ordered my men to fortify their positions at the registrar's office and at Jackson Barracks."

"Plenty" of Troops Standing By.

Additional troops and machine guns were moved today into the city registration office, across the street from City Hall, seized last Monday night under a proclamation of martial law issued by Gov. Allen from the Long political headquarters.

With sentries on guard at the barracks, it was impossible to learn the total number of men mobilized there.

"How many troops have you?" Fleming was asked over the phone.

"Plenty," he said laconically.

He expressed "regret" at the city's legal action against the military display, asserting that recent conferences with Mayor Walmsley and others had led him to believe the situation was about to be settled.

"However," he said, "in view of this court's action, there is nothing to do but fortify my position and carry out the Governor's orders."

Liquor Suspect Jailed.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—In default of $1,000 bond, Robert E. Welsh was jailed here yesterday after a plea of not guilty to a liquor law violation before U. S. Commissioner H. A. Downs. Welsh and Clarence E. Clemons were arrested Tuesday on a charge of concealing spirits on which no license had been paid.

contracts were awarded this time he was "not the low bidder," and failed to get the business.

Influence Offer Charged.

Another accusation declared that Kelly proposed to Daniel that he would use his influence to get a hauling contract from the Lockjoint Pipe Co. and the Lockjoint Pipe and Product Co., which were doing business for the county, if Daniel would pay Kelly 10 cents for each ton hauled.

Kelly was further accused of having written to certain firms and corporations which previously had been requested by the county to furnish bids for sewer pipe, and recommended that they do their bonding through A. L. Kelly & Son, which represents the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. A. L. Kelly is the county chairman's father and business partner. "At various times," it is stated, "A. L. Kelly executed bonds in behalf of the companies."

Another accusation of soliciting bribes was made against the young man on the quoted testimony of C. C. Lamond, president of the Clarendon Trust Co. Lamond, according to the presentment, heard Kelly ask "what would he get out of it" if clay pipe were used in certain county construction projects, instead of concrete.

Elected in 1931.

The chairman whose job is now under fire was elected to the county board for a four-year term in November of 1931 and took office the following January. This year he succeeded Harry A. Fellows.

Small, lean and active, he has taken a prominent part in Democratic activities and aided in organizing the Young Democrat Club of Arlington County, of which he is president. He is a member of the Clarendon Fire Department. His wife is a secretary in the office of J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

Davis Sees Senate Republican Gains

G.O.P. Favored to Take 2 Northwest Seats.

Senator James J. Davis (Republican, Pennsylvania), back at his desk after a four-week tour of the West, predicted the Republican party would gain two Senate seats and "a number of House seats" in the Northwest at the November elections, the Associated Press reported.

"The trek is back to the Republican party," Davis told reporters. "Members of both parties told me they believe Republicans are going to gain at least two Senate seats in the Northwest."

The Senator declined to be more specific as to what States he expected to go Republican.

Warships Race To Curb Peril Of China Reds

139 Americans in Zone Menaced by Horde of Communists.

Shanghai (Saturday), Aug. 4 (U.P.).—The U. S. Navy joined with Britain and Japan today in dispatching warships toward Foochow, in south China, to protect foreign lives and property reported menaced by a Communist horde.

The U. S. S. Sacramento was sent to the scene from the American south China patrol.

The British ordered a destroyer to proceed from Hongkong. Japanese naval authorities confirmed that they had a warship under way. Foochow is in Fukien province, long a Communist stronghold. An army of 5,000 Chinese Communists was within a short distance of the city, where a large foreign colony resides, including 139 Americans.

An unconfirmed dispatch at Hongkong indicated that Communists had broken through the lines of government troops to capture the town of Shuikow on the Min River and moved into a position threatening Foochow.

The British destroyer Witch was reported standing by in Foochow Harbor to evacuate foreigners.

In fighting in Fukien Province last spring, between loyal Nanking forces and Communist troops, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, chief of China's regular armies, crushed the radicals who had succeeded temporarily in setting up a Communist government, defying Nanking.

Tokyo, Japan, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Foreign office reports from China tonight indicate unrest in the south, with a Communist army of 5,000 within 12 miles of Foochow.

There is a large Japanese colony there, with extensive Japanese investments.

Bank Will Pay Fifth Dividend

Departmental to Return 10% More, Making 80% in All.

John F. Moran, receiver for the closed Park Savings and Departmental Banks, announced yesterday that the latter institution would pay a fifth dividend of 10 per cent to its 4,000 depositors beginning at 10 a. m. Monday.

The payment will be distributed at the receiver's headquarters at Park Savings Bank, Fourteenth and Kenyon streets northwest. Depositors must call in person to receive their payments and present their receiver's certificates.

The latest dividend will amount to approximately $80,000. Its payment means that 80 per cent of the deposits of the closed Departmental Bank will have been returned to the depositors.

The total dividend to be paid by the Departmental Bank is the largest thus far of any of the 19 closed banks of the city.

2 Army Deserters Rob Bank; 1 Dies

Other Wounded as Posse Member Opens Fire.

Weston, Mo., Aug. 3 (AP).—A few minutes after they robbed the Bank of Weston today of approximately $300 and fled on foot, Ollie Farris, 23, of Jacksonville, Ky., was killed and his companion, Forrest O. Bryson, 22, Pittsburg, Kans., was wounded and captured. Both were members of a United States Army unit stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., across the Missouri River.

Col. Frank Keller, executive officer at the fort, said the two men had deserted.

City Marshal Jess Lindsey fired the shots. He said that when he and members of a quickly formed posse confronted the men on the western outskirts of the town, one of them attempted to draw a weapon.

Maryland-U. S. Fishery Probe Of Chesapeake Area Planned

Promotion of Industry and Protection of Consumer Goals.

A scientific investigation of the fisheries of the Chesapeake Bay area and the commercial products is to be conducted jointly by the United States Bureau of Fisheries and the University of Maryland, the Associated Press reported yesterday.

Commissioner of Fisheries Charles E. Jackson announced the purpose of the study would be to promote the fishing industry of the region and also to take steps for safeguarding the welfare of the consumer.

The crab industry will be given first attention in the survey. The studies will include chemical, nutritional, general technological and biological investigations.

Jackson said the general program of research would be under the joint direction of Dr. R. V. Truitt, biologist of the University of Maryland, and John R. Manning, chief technologist of the Bureau of Fisheries.

Some phases of the experimental and research work will be carried out in the bureau's laboratories here and in laboratories of the university and will be conducted, as far as possible with the personnel now available.

Rubber and Ice Firms Question NRA Authority

Blue Eagle Agency Accused of Aiding Monopoly in New Challenge.

Business yesterday launched another attack upon the National Recovery Administration, accusing the Blue Eagle agency of fostering monopoly and sharply challenging its powers under the Constitution.

The charges were made in briefs filed with the Federal Trade Commission by three rubber footwear companies and an ice manufacturing corporation, cited for alleged noncompliance with their respective codes.

The NRA charged the three rubber companies with failing to file their price schedules with the code authority. The companies, the Phillips-Baker, the Goodyear and the LaCross Rubber Mills, charged before the commission yesterday that the rubber code was monopolistic and oppressive and that they were not given an opportunity to be heard when the price-fixing section was drafted.

Rubber Hearing August 13.

The Purity Ice Co., of Lakeland, Fla., was cited for alleged violation of section 11 of the ice industry code. This provision forbids establishment of additional ice production, storage or tonnage in any given territory without the consent of the NRA certifying that such additional facilities are necessary for public convenience.

The commission set August 13 for hearing of the rubber case. This was considered the major case of the two. Approximately 300 codes are involved in this price-fixing case. About 100 codes have provisions for controlling production, either by limiting hours of machine operation, or addition of capacity. These agreements were thrown into controversy by the ice case, for which a hearing date has not been set.

The Florida company charged the code was unlawful, that Congress did not enjoy the power of regulating or prohibiting manufacturing and therefore could not delegate this power to another party and asked that the complaint be dismissed.

NRA Welcomes Test.

In a formal statement, NRA officials said they were not troubled about the charges made by the rubber companies. They say the three organizations did not sign the President's reemployment agreement and they denied that any subterfuge was used in the drafting of the price-listing provision of the rubber code.

The Lakeland challenge, they said, should settle the controversial question of whether the NRA has authority to regulate markets and to eliminate competition found to be harmful to the industry.

The officials pointed out that court decisions had upheld NRA codes in 90 per cent of the cases which have come up for adjudication. Only three cases, they added, had been lost, none of which they instituted.

There are now 66 cases pending in Federal courts and before the Trade Commission, and the NRA litigation division was said to be preparing 200 others with the aid of the Department of Justice.

Challenge Darrow Report.

In the rubber company case, NRA officials challenged the right of the first Darrow report, which charged the Blue Eagle agency with fostering monopolies, to cite the three firms named in the complaint as being "small." It was pointed out Goodyear and LaCross were among the largest companies in the industry.

They denied charges by the Darrow board that the rubber code authority was dominated by the large manufacturer to the detriment of the small operator and the divisional authority had wide powers over price-fixing and other restrictions.

The Darrow report held that the code for the ice industry is designed to promote a monopoly and that "the practices thereunder have been in accordance with the design." The board recommended the scrapping of section 11 as unconstitutional.

Weirton Company Files Trade Data

Injunction Hearing Is Set for September 5.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 3 (AP).—The Weirton Steel Co., ordered by court to answer interrogators of the Federal Government in connection with its injunction suit, filed the data with the U. S. district clerk today.

The company said it was a subsidiary of the National Steel Corporation and stated its plants operated as high as 90.42 per cent of total capacity. That was in March, 1934. The low point of operations since January 1, 1933, was October of that year, when production fell to 36.09 per cent.

Hearings on the Government's petition for a rule to restrain the company from taking any part in the balloting of its employes for collective bargaining representatives is scheduled for September 5.

Crew of 3 Found Dead In Chilean Army Plane

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 3 (AP).—A Chilean air force plane, with the bodies of its three military occupants charred by fire, was discovered late Wednesday at Los Sauces, near Ovalle, in the Province of Coquimbo. The news reached here today.

The crew, Capt. Julio Calderon, Lieut. Francisco Montes, and Mechanic Gutterrez had been engaged in making photographic air maps of Chile.

flight, who flew down from New York ahead of the train in a plane piloted by Frank Blunk. The plane which towed the gliders was piloted by Elwood Keim.

Today the trip will be reversed. The plane and O'Meara's glider will hop off, from Washington Airport, stopping at Baltimore and Philadelphia to pick up the other two gliders. It will reach New York as it started, with the three gliders streaming along behind it.

The speed of the train from Philadelphia here varied from about 55 to 65 miles an hour. Practically all the way the flight was against a strong head wind, the sponsors said.

French Send Pole to Prison As German Spy

Former Warsaw Officer Is Given Five Years in Belfort Plot.

Paris, Aug. 3 (AP).—Stanislas Krauss, former Polish army officer, was convicted today of being a German spy and sentenced to five years imprisonment and a fine of 500 francs.

The sentence, the maximum penalty, was based on charges made against Krauss and Capt. Georges Froge of the French army quartermaster service, in a secret trial.

Froge and Krauss were charged with having worked together to smuggle French military secrets across the Rhine, especially plans for defense of Belfort, key frontier city, where Froge was stationed.

Krauss, caught in a police trap in Paris, confessed and implicated Froge, who vehemently denied every charge, including acquaintance with Krauss.

Krauss told the authorities, they said, that he had paid Froge 105,000 francs (nominally about $4,200) for documents since the pair first met in a cafe near the French war school in Paris in April.

Want ads in Paris newspapers were their undoing, the police said.

The secret police, scanning the papers, saw advertisements offering loans to officers. At about the same time another French officer, innocently answering them, learned a mysterious person was more than willing to exchange money for "documents interesting to the national defense."

The officer notified his superiors and made an appointment to meet the stranger in Paris. Money for the trip was sent him in a psuedo love letter, signed "Germaine."

While police looked on from hiding in the Tuileries Gardens, the officer and a stranger met. The officer handed over some documents, the stranger placed them in his pocket and handed the officer a roll of banknotes.

The stranger was Krauss.

G.O.P. Favored To Regain Two Kentucky Seats

1932 State-at-Large Plan Gave Big Advantage to Democrats.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 3 (AP).—Kentucky Congressional candidates tonight awaited tomorrow's primary balloting after campaigns in which Roosevelt's New Deal, veterans' benefits, the State sales tax, "machine politics," and "who's going to be postmaster," were some of the issues.

Two years ago nine Representatives were elected from the State at large, due to a court fight over redistricting, and the Roosevelt landslide sent all Democrats to Congress. This year, the primary and election will be by districts, and at least two Democratic incumbents are certain to be missing.

Finley Hamilton, of London, in the strongly Republican Ninth District, did not offer for the Democratic nomination this time. The State-wide election gave the Sixth District in the Blue Grass two Representatives, Virgil Chapman and John Young Brown, and they are opposing each other for the Democratic nomination.

Glover H. Cary, Democratic incumbent, Second District, has no oppposition, and five Republicans will be nominated without contests—John W. Taylor in the first; Walter G. Newton in the second; J. Lincoln Newhall, in the fifth, and W. D. Rogers in the sixth.

The hottest fights and the ones that are expcted to have more bearing on future political fortunes are those between Brown and Chapman for the Democratic nomination in the Sixth, and between former Gov. Edwin P. Morrow and former United States Senator John M. Robsion for the Republican nomination in the Ninth.

Brown, bitter opponent of the Democratic State administration, has been backed by the Kentucky Retail Merchants Association because of his fight against the State sales tax.

Swedish Training Ship Towed to Boston Yard

Boston, Aug. 3 (AP).—The A. F. Chapman, square rigged Swedish naval training ship, tied up at the Boston Navy Yard today, close beside the U. S. S. Frigate Constitution, another vessel of lofty spars and sweeping yards.

Pioneer Gem Dealer Is Dead At Martinsburg

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—William Luther Jones, 84, named a watch inspector for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad on the Cumberland division when the inspection service was organized and a pioneer jeweler in this section, died at his home here today. He was a charter member of the West Virginia Retail Jewelers Association and its first secretary-treasurer, as well as its president for several terms later. He had been ill three years.

Funeral rites will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at the home with burial here.

Mr. Jones was born near Winchester, Va., but most of his life was spent here. He was identified with earlier business movements here, including establishment of the first telephone system in this county. He continued his watch inspection work until illness forced retirement a few years ago.

He was a Mason, member of the Royal Arch, Knights Templar and past worthy patron as well as charter member of Golden Rule Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, here. A Templar escort will be given him at the rites tomorrow.

Surviving are the widow, formerly Miss Emma Wilson, of Harpers Ferry; two daughters, Mrs. Ruth Jones Fenton, of Roanoke, Va., and Mrs. Zoe Brunton, of West Englewood, N. J.; two sisters, Misses Laura and Alice Jones, of near Winchester, Va., and one brother, Albert E., of Seattle, Wash.

An only son died in England during the war.

Democratic Slate To Be Completed

Montgomery County Group to Meet Monday.

The campaign slate of the Montgomery County Democratic organization will be completed Monday night at a meeting in Rockville Courthouse, when the campaign committee, headed by John B. Diamond, will make recommendations for positions not yet filled on the organization ticket.

With the indorsements made at this meeting, the county political campaign will be brought into the open, as the fusionists announced their candidates Wednesday night.

U. S. Sends Out 1,300 Agents To Smash Stills

Director J. H. Choate, jr., of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, is authority for the statement that estimated production of illegal liquor is ahead of the illicit volume during prohibiton.

From another source it is known that Federal agents discovered and destroyed 4,000 stills of an average 156-gallon capacity during the first four months of this year.

Assuming each of these 4,000 stills operated every day for a year on the same time schedule as legal distilleries, it was estimated they could produce 380,000,000 gallons compared to the 100,000,000 gallons of legal output.

Potentialities Are Great.

There is an old adage among revenue men that only one in ten moonshine stills is ever located. Multiply the known number of stills actually seized by ten, and you have an almost unbelievable volume of potential bootleg liquor.

Three Government agencies are cooperating closely in attempting to cut off this supply—the Internal Revenue Bureau, the Federal Alcohol Control Administration and the Justice Department.

Under the new liquor set-up, the Justice Department's functions are mostly legal, and the Federal Alcohol Control Administration's, largely advisory and policy forming. It is the Internal Revenue Bureau that supplies the man power for checking up on all liquor plants before and after permits are granted by the FACA. It is the Internal Revenue Bureau that polices legal liquor output and tax collection. And it is this bureau in the end that must wrest by force control of the liquor market from the bootlegger, although price policies and liquor code set-ups may provide a helping hand.

Some Plants Beat Quotas.

That policing of legal distilleries and rectifiers is just as necessary as a continued crusade against the moonshiner is evident in FACA statistics, which already show more liquor is flowing out of so-called law-abiding plants than is permitted.

To aid in this task, the Internal Revenue Bureau has employed in the second arm of its liquor offensive approximately 650 so-called "storekeeper gaugers," compared with 275 before repeal. Their job is to check the legal outgo. On top of this force, about 300 inspectors have been assigned to breweries, appraising the content of brewers' tanks and making certain no brew is sluiced into bottles until the tax is first paid.

Directing the work, about 42 acting district supervisors, investigators-in-charge and inspectors-in-charge have been assigned to the 12 zones into which the country has been divided for enforcement purposes.

2,000 in This Unit Alone.

It is estimated that about 2,000 persons all told are employed in the so-called "legal" end of the bureau's drive, exclusive of the 1,300 agents delegated to trail the bootleggers.

Director Choate of the FACA yesterday designated Adlai E. Stevenson, assistant general counsel of the FACA, to discuss code administration problems and regulations with members of the various liquor industries on the Pacific Coast.

Mr. Stevenson will leave today for the West, where he will hold a number of meetings in an effort to familiarize Western liquor producers with Washington developments they have been unable to follow. Later he will go to Honolulu in an effort to organize beer, wine and liquor wholesalers in line with industrial set-ups in this country.

Two of Nine Escaped Prisoners Captured

Kaufman, Tex., Aug. 3 (AP).—Two of nine prisoners who fled the Harlem State Prison farm Monday were captured today after four men tried unsuccessfully to rob a grocery store here.

Nonnie Dobbs, who was serving a six-year sentence for arson, was caught before daylight. George S. Huston, who was serving two years from El Paso County for burglary, was seized about noon as he walked along the railroad tracks toward Dallas.

Valuable British Naval Papers Lost on Train

London, Aug. 3 (AP).—A box of official papers, described by the admiralty as "not of great importance," but declared by other sources to include valuable naval information, was revealed today to have disappeared.

Afternoon newspapers said that the documents were "highly important admiralty documents relating to the trial of new ships and guns." The box disappeared yesterday from a train on which it was being taken from London to Portsmouth.

Cloud of Dust Blinds Bull; Gored Man Flees

Frankfort, Ill., Aug. 3 (AP).—Gored and trampled by a bull on his farm, Milton Hollestein owes his escape alive to the drought.

In a sudden attack the bull gored his arm and then stepped on the fallen man's neck, but its milling raised such a cloud of dust that the infuriated animal could not see, and Hollestein rolled from beneath the hoofs and escaped.

Washout Fails To Halt Return Of Guardsmen

Maryland First Infantry Will End Annual Maneuvers Today.

By a Staff Correspondent.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., Aug. 3.—Washout of a bridge near Townsend, Del., today threatened to delay movement of Eastern Shore companies of the First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, scheduled for tomorrow morning.

Railroad authorities had asked that the Eastern Shore contingent be kept at camp for several days until a temporary bridge could be erected. Later, however, the railroad notified Col. D. John Markey, commanding officer, that arrangements had been made to move the troops.

The Eastern Shore companies will be moved to Loves Point by way of Baltimore and carried across on the ferry. Baggage will be carried 48 hours later. The bridge was washed out in the storm which struck that section Friday night, part of which was felt at camp here and caused postponement of the annual maneuver.

Companies affected are Company I, Crisfield; Third Battalion Headquarters, Pocomoke City; Company I, Salisbury; Company C, Cambridge; Company K, First Battalion Headquarters Company, Easton.

Officers and noncommissioned officers of the regiment this morning went through a critique of the maneuver battle, which was called off because of rain Friday. The critique was conducted by Col. D. John Markey, commanding, and Maj. T. A. Lyon, plans and training officer. Brig. Gen. Washington Bowie, commanding the Fifty-eighth Brigade, gave helpful comment.

The parade was reviewed by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, commanding the Twenty-ninth Division; Brig. Gen. George S. Waller, adjutant general of Virginia, and Brig. Gen. Washington Bowie.

Feature of the comic parade was arrival of "Gov. Albert C. Ritchie," impersonated by Master Sergt. Ward P. Burdine, of the Service Company, with Lieut. Joseph A. Glover as aid. The "Governor" reviewed the parade of companies dressed in outlandish costumes.

The day's festivities were part of the community day celebration inaugurated this year for entertainment of residents of the neighborhood.

Movement of the troops home will begin at 4:30 a. m. tomorrow, when Eastern Shore troops will begin moving. The regiment will evacuate camp by 9:30 a. m. in order that an advance detail of District of Columbia National Guardsmen can begin preparing the camp for that outfit.

Executed Nazis' Lawyer Seized, Office Raided

Rintelen Suffers Stroke of Paralysis; Scores Are Nabbed.

Vienna, Aug. 3 (AP).—Arrest of one of the attorneys who defended the two Nazis hanged for participation in the putsch in which Chancellor Dollfuss was slain was revealed today.

Word that the lawyer, Dr. Erich Fuehrer, was in custody came shortly after President Miklas had commuted to life imprisonment a sentence of death against a Nazi convicted of possessing explosives.

The lawyer's secretary said that the home and office of Fuehrer were raided by police yesterday. After a thorough search for incriminating documents, he was taken to headquarters.

"That was the last I saw of him," said the secretary.

The police and press offices when asked about the arrest resorted to generalities.

"Many hundreds have been arrested in the last few days," said an official. "We don't know whether Fuehrer was among them."

The Nazi receiving clemency was Edward Hoenisch, 24, the first man to be given the death sentence for possessing explosives under a law which Dollfuss put into effect to end Nazi and other terrorism.

Both the defendant and his young wife collapsed when the sentence was read.

Three Nazis have been hanged since Dollfuss' death and three others given long prison terms.

From the hospital where Dr. Anton Rintelen, former Minister to Rome, is under treatment for a bullet wound, word came today that he had suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Rintelen was arrested after his name had been connected to their activities by putschists, and was wounded in his cell. His wound officially was said to have been self-inflicted.

Montgomery Asks School Fuel Bids

Estimates to Be Received August 17.

Specifications for supplying fuel to the schools of Montgomery County, Md., were made available yesterday at the office of Edwin W. Broome, superintendent of education, in Rockville. Bids are due August 17.

Estimates will be received for each school separately, it was announced.

Automatic Plane Invention Bought By French Army

Paris, Aug. 3 (AP).—An invention enabling airplanes to operate automatically, including the take-off and landing, has been acquired by the French army, it was learned today, after a year of tests at Istres Airport.

The invention, the work of four French engineers, was said to simplify piloting to an extent which would enable a child to run a plane.

The control is described as being by means of a series of push buttons, one for landing and others for take-off direction and pitching.

Argentine Quintuplets Die.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 3 (AP).—Dispatches today from Iriville, Argentina, said Mrs. Teresa Moscoloni gave birth to quintuplets, four girls and a boy. All died within two hours.

Couple's Charities Repaid by Murder

Walsenburg, Colo., Aug. 3 (AP). Authorities conjectured tonight that Mr. and Mrs. William F. Evans may have lost their lives because of their charity.

The hacked and beaten bodies of the 71-year-old farmer and his 65-year-old wife were found at their farm home north of here today. They lived on a main highway and frequently gave shelter to travelers, said Sheriff Harry Capps.

The heads of both Evans and his wife had been crushed and slashed possibly, officers said, by a corn knife or an ax.

Martinsburg Man Fined $25 on Assault Charge

Vernon Dorsey, of Martinsburg, Md., was fined $25 and costs, with an alternative of 30 days in jail, by Police Judge Donald DeLashmutt in Rockville, Md., for assault and battery committed against Ruth Lee on July 21.

Upon entering an appeal, Dorsey was released on $50 bond.

"The Drunkard," With Beer, Pretzels and Olio, to Open on Willard Roof Aug. 14

Old Melodrama To Be Repeated Later in Week

Odd Atmosphere Is Kept; Concerning Miss Bowman; Amusement News.

By Nelson B. Bell.

"The Drunkard, or the Fallen Saved," Phineas T. Barnum's famous old-time melodrama, will be presented for the first time in Washington, Tuesday night, August 14, at 8:45 o'clock, by the Roof Players, atop the Hotel Willard.

All the olio numbers and other musical embellishments that have made this present-day production of the ancient melo such an amazing hit in both New York and Chicago, as well as in Los Angeles, where it is in its second year, and the community singing that follows the final curtain, will be included in the local production.

Plans assuring this eagerly awaited consummation were perfected yesterday between the hotel management and the player group.

"The Drunkard" also will be presented on Thursday and Saturday nights of the same week, August 16 and 18, and it is probable that the same schedule of performances will be carried over into the week following, providing additional opportunities to enjoy the fun on August 21, 23 and 25.

Atmosphere Reproduced.

It is promised by the sponsors of the enterprise that a perfect reproduction of the atmosphere of the "late '40s up to the early '90s" will be faithfully developed on the Willard Roof between now and opening date—with beer and pretzels, "on the side," as it were, included in the price of admission.

Rehearsals already are progressing with encouraging celerity and Hugo Inden is said to have created settings that will go far toward the creation of the proper state of mind for the jovial reception of the play that Barnum produced originally in his American Museum, where it was viewed by literally millions of patrons and netted the greatest showman of them all a handsome fortune.

It is to be noted that in finally settling upon August 14 as the opening day of the "show," the Roof Players have gone themselves one day better and reduced, by a full 24 hours, the period of restless anticipation of those who have heard so much about this melodramatic antique that they can hardly wait to see it.

If one must tour Europe vicariously, it is pleasant to do so through the medium of the honeymoon postcards mailed back by Arthur and Helen DeTitta, who will be at home to their friends in Washington at Wardman Park after August 15. This message, on the reverse side of a handsome view of Parliament Square, showing the Parliament Buildings and the clock tower from which "Big Ben" has struck around the world via what the British term the "wireless," arrived yesterday, following those from Gibraltar and Paris: "Seeing London for a few days, then back to Paris. Our best."

There must be something about that Paris!

Mr. DeTitta, as you must know by heart by now, is the Washington manager of the Fox Movietone News, a pictorial recording of current events of which you also may have heard.

Patricia Bowman Pays a Call.

An unexpected and extremely pleasant office call yesterday afternoon from Patricia Bowman, former Washingtonian, who headlines the stage bill beginning today at Warner Brothers' Earle Theater, revealed many interesting facts concerning her present engagement and her plans for next season.

Miss Bowman, a petite, golden-haired young woman, I firmly believe to be the foremost classical dancer on the contemporary American stage. She is to the theater today what Adeline Genee, Mme. Anna Pavlowa, Gertrude Hoffman and Isadora Duncan were a generation ago—except that her feathery grace is much more suggestive of the first two than the last.

Was With St. Pats.

Her career as a dancer had its inception here, as I recall it, with the St. Patrick Players, presided over by the late Father Francis Hurney. Her progress was rapid and it was not long until she found herself in the proud position of premiere danseuse for Sam Rothafel (Roxy) at the old Roxy Theater in New York and later at the Radio City Music Hall. She was last seen in the Capital as prima ballerina in the Shubert production of the "Ziegfeld Follies," which, she frankly admits, would not have been recognized in the New York Winter Garden as the same revue that was seen in Washington prior to the helpful ministrations to it of John Murray Anderson, the stage director with a superlative eye to artistry.

It will be of interest to friends of them both that one of the numbers included in Miss Bowman's act at the Earle is danced to music composed by Dick Leibert, also a former Washingtonian, who was first organist at both the Roxy and the Music Hall during her engagements there.

How It Happened.

Dick was playing an organ number one day to which Miss Bowman immediately was inspired to create an impromptu dance. When she asked him what it was, he confessed that it was a little thing called "Valse Rhythmic"—which probably should be either "Waltz Rhythmic" or "Valse Rhythmique," to stay in a single language—which he had composed himself. She expressed a desire some day to dance to it and will do so, to a special arrangement, at the Earle this week.

Many will remember that Dick Leibert for many seasons in the early history of Loew's Palace Theater was featured pipe organist at the Thirteenth and F house and has subsequently returned, from time to time, as guest organist. That, of course, would be before the local managements decided to eliminate one of the most delightful features of their musical programs.

When in Washington, Dick is a near neighbor of this column out in the neighborhood of Fourteenth and Gallatin streets, which, approximately, is half a block this side of Baltimore, as the crow flies.

In Musical "Cyrano."

Asked concernnig her plans for the new season, Miss Bowman confided that she is to appear in a new musical version of "Cyrano de Bergerac," to be produced in October. The title role of Cyrano will be sung by Everett Marshall, who also was in the "Follies" with Miss Bowman.

Book, lyrics and score for the new romantic operetta are now in course of preparation and rehearsals are expected to be begun in the near future. "Cyrano de Bergerac" will be a Shubert production.

During her Washington engagement, Miss Bowman is the house guest of her sister, Mrs. J. Leo Shugrue in Chevy Chase, Md.

"Cimarron" yesterday, the second day of its revival engagement at RKO-Keith's, played to considerably greater gross receipts than on its opening day, Wednesday. A peculiar coincidence was that on both Wednesday and Thursday between the hours of 1 and 5:30 P. M., exactly the same number of 35-cent tickets were sold. "Cimarron," of course, is running far below the intake of its initial engagement back in 1931, but the outlook at present is that the repeat run will just about equal the receipts of an average, first-run program picture. Too many pople, evidently, saw it the first time.

"Anchors Aweigh!"

"Navy night" will be celebrated at the Earle Theater tonight, when a representative group of high Navy officials and ranking naval officers will attend the 8 o'clock screening of "Here Comes the Navy," the Warner Brothers' production starring James Cagney, with Gloria Stuart and Pat O'Brien, made on the West Coast with the active cooperation of the U. S. Pacific Fleet. Many of the scenes of the picture were filmed aboard the U. S. S. Arizona.

Among those to whom invitations have been extended are the following:

Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Henry L. Roosevelt, Rear Admiral Claude C. Bloch, Rear Admiral H. L. Brinser, Capt. F. J. Fletcher, Lieut. Comdr. A. S. Merrill, Admiral William H. Standley, Lieut. Comdr. Jack H. Duncan, Rear Admiral J. K. Taussig, Rear Admiral Samuel W. Bryant, Capt. A. C. Pickens, Capt. Neil E. Nichols, Rear Admiral George C. Day, Commander Comfort B. Platt, Rear Admiral Cyrus W. Cole, Rear Admiral W. D. Leahy.

Capt. A. P. Fairfield, Capt. D. W. Bagley, Capt. Charles F. Russell, Capt. John Downes, Capt. Leigh Noyes, Commander William R. Purnell, Rear Admiral A. L. Parsons, Rear Admiral E. B. Larimer, Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, Rear Admiral Christian J. Peoples, Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, Capt. Arthur B. Cook, Rear Admiral O. G. Murfin, Rear Admiral R. The Federal Diary

By Morgan Baker
(Trade-mark Applied For)

(Reprinted from yesterday's last edition.)

BAKER

Joseph Stansfield, Interstate Commerce Commission, president of Local No. 2, National Federation of Federal Employes, the largest employe group in Washington, said:

"In the absence of information from members of my organization, it is my opinion that there would be great objection to the staggering of pay days."

Mr. Stansfield urges, on behalf of Local No. 2 and the District Federation of Federal Employes, that the Government provide facilities in each department to cash checks. This move, he holds, would be a big convenience to the low-salaried worker who is not able to maintain a bank account.

E. Claude Babcock, president, American Federation of Government Employes, said:

"Apparently no special effort has been made as yet to find out what the Government workers think of this proposal (the Board of Trade's). To my mind, and I think to the minds of some 85,000-odd residents of Washington, this represents about the most important aspect of the case. It may be that the proposal will be advantageous, and it may be that it will not, but I do not look with favor on any plan to experiment on Government employes without regard to their wishes."

Mr. Babcock pointed out that there are many administrative questions involved. A precedent for staggering pay days had been established in employment of CWA men in many agencies, these employes being paid on a weekly basis.

H. F. Statesir Promoted.

Herbert F. Statesir has been appointed chief clerk of the War Department General Staff, succeeding Adolf Gerhard, who retired this week after 54 years Government service.

Mr. Statesir brings with him a wealth of experience, having served continuously with the War Department and the Army for more than 30 years. He entered the service as clerk in 1904. After service in the Philippines, he came to Washington in 1910 as secretary to Gen. Leonard Wood, who was then chief of staff. Since 1920, Mr. Statesir has been assistant chief clerk of the General Staff.

The Society of Federal Translators will hold its monthly meeting at 8 p. m. Monday at the Y. W. C. A. Building, Seventeenth and K streets northwest.

Harris & Ewing.

Seated about this desk is the directing force of the Fair Price Section, Consumers Division, National Emergency Council. From the left are Mrs. Idella Swisher, special assistant; Henry B. Arthur, chief of the section, and Blair Stewart, economist.

THRILLS started for Miss Bonnie Mortvedt (*), General Accounting Office, even before going to the Exposition Grounds in Chicago last week. At the moment of her scheduled departure for the fair, the lock on her hotel room door jammed, holding her prisoner and delaying the sightseeing bus 45 minutes. Carpenters removed the door. The hotel manager frowned on Miss Mortvedt's offer to walk a plank from her window to another window on the sixth floor.

Diary Guest Tickets.

IF your name is followed by (*), call in person on the Federal Diary editor. You will receive tickets to Loew's Columbia (Lew Ayres and Alice Faye in "She Learned About Sailors"); or to Loew's Palace (Will Rogers in "Handy Andy"); or to Loew's Fox (stage, Minnevitch Band and other acts; screen, Warner Baxter in "Grand Canary").

Diary office hours are: Daily, except Sunday, 12 noon to 1 p. m., and from 4:30 to 6 p. m.; Saturdays, 12 noon to 2:30 p. m.

Agriculture Program Tonight.

At 8 p. m. today at the new Department of Agriculture auditorium, the Dramatic and Musical Guild of the Department of Agriculture will present its initial production.

Backed by the president of the Agriculture Union of the National Federation of Federal Employes, A. C. Edwards, B. A. E., and the department's director of personnel, Dr. W. W. Stockberger, the guild has grown to a membership of over 500 in a few weeks.

A wealth of talent has been uncovered at Agriculture, many of whom make their bows tonight. As a result, the NFFE hopes to organize similar dramatic and musical groups at other departments and agencies. Plans are already formulated for a Navy Department guild by William B. Crowell, NFFE leader there.

Miss Bella Shapiro, office of the secretary; Miss Helen Hage, office of the chief accountant; Miss Cele G. Azarow, AAA; G. Azarow, AAA; George Haughy, AAA; and R. C. Campbell, Bureau of Agricultural Economics. Numbers by the Hawaiian and concert orcestras and singers are on the program.

FERA Parley Opens Aug. 13 At Virginia U.

Educational Supervisors for D. C. and Three States to Attend.

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.). The conference of FERA educational supervisors for Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and District of Columbia, to be held at the University of Virginia August 13 to 21, is one of many scheduled to organize the program of relief education.

Last year a system of relief through vocational instruction was inaugurated and it is planned to place the program on a more effective and permanent yearly basis. Under provisions outlined by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief adminstrator, State forces are to be trained to operate a definite program of adult education.

The Virginia meeting will be in charge of Dr. Sidney B. Hall, State superintendent of public instruction, who will be assisted by Prof. John A. Rorer, head of extension teaching at the University of Virginia.

Dr. Hall is expected to appoint within a few days four district supervisors for Virginia, who will attend the conference along with a relative number from the District of Columbia and the other States in the regional division. County and city superintendents of schools also have been invited to attend.

The group will receive instruction and hear talks by prominent educators. The work will be carried on in the various communities through the regularly constituted school systems, under the supervision of the State departments of education.

The types of instruction include the teaching of illiterates to read and write, vocational training for unemployed adults, vocational rehabilitation for adults who have been deprived of their jobs through physical handicaps, and general adult education. Many unemployed teachers will be called into service to conduct the classes.

Services to Honor Falmouth Pastor

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.). Two years of service by the Rev. P. H. Clements as pastor of the Falmouth Baptist Church will be marked Sunday at homecoming and chest day services.

The Rev. E. E. Fisher, Prof. O. H. Darter and the Rev. Mr. Clements will speak.

"Who Was It?" recently written and published by two congregation members, Mrs. Hazel Brewer Heflin, of Roseville, and Mrs. Janie McMillan Lewis, will be heard at the church for the first time at the evening services.

Music Festival Plans Are Pushed

Charlottesville, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.). The annual fall music festival of the Fluvanna Music Club will be held in October at Palmyra.

Music lovers from all parts of the State are expected.

The club is undertaking the Chopin waltzes. Final arrangements for the festival will be completed at a meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Chester Kie on Bride's Hill.

Dog Thought Mad Bites Five; Killed by Officer

Lonaconing, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.). A dog, supposedly mad, bit five persons here today before it was killed by Constable Matthew Muir, who battled it with a club after a first shoot missed.

The next shot killed the animal. The dog, a mongrel, owner not known, bit Carl Boyd, Harold James, Robert Orr and two children. The head was sent to the Cumberland laboratory for examination and in the meantime antirabies vaccine was ordered from Baltimore.

Dentist Dies At Frederick

Dr. Charles A. Norwood, 91, Found Dead in Bed; Inactive for Years.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Dr. Charles A. Norwood, retired dentist, 91, was found dead in bed at his home, near here, today. He entered the old Baltimore Dental College, the pioneer dental school of the United States, from which he was graduated in 1867. He then began practicing dentistry in Liberty and retired nearly 30 years ago.

Dr. Norwood was married February 22, 1871, to Miss Pauline B. Mills. His wife and two children died some years ago.

Dr. Norwood was a member of the Libertytown Methodist Episcopal Church. He is survived by four cousins, Dr. Vernon Lee Norwood, Baltimore; Mrs. W. B. Burdette, Hyattstown, and Mrs. Ella Harris and Mrs. C. D. Belt, Frederick.

Funeral services will be held Sunday.

Picnic Planned By Farm Group

Program of Addresses, Games and Dancing Arranged.

Frederick, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Plans have been completed for the annual Grange, Farm Bureau, Federation of Rural Woman's Clubs and Farmers Club picnic near Petersville Wednesday.

The program includes addresses, speedball games, horseshoe pitching contest and dancing.

Games for juveniles will be under the direction of Miss Helen Pearson, home demonstration agent, and Charles S. Remsberg, agricultural teacher of the Frederick High School. Speedball will be played under the supervision of Henry R. Shoemaker, county agent.

Talks will be made by David Fry, Jefferson, master of Pomona Grange; Wilbert L. Smith, Mount Pleasant, president of the Farm Bureau; Charles T. Cockey, president of the State Farm Bureau, and Thomas R. Brooks, Harford County, State master of the grange. William B. Gross, Brunswick, principal of the Walkersville High School, will make the main address.

Crabbing in Chesapeake Poor; Dredging Blamed

Rock Hall, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Because of winter dredging in Virginia waters it is believed by Eastern Shore crabbers that many female crabs were caught out in the mud and destroyed. Therefore, crabbers assert, a scarcity is noted in the Chesapeake Bay during the summer.

Rock Hall commercial crabbers have had to come into the Chester River, where crabs are more plentiful. A dozen or more are taking about a barrel a day from local waters. This, they say, will enable them to break even financially.

Educational Farm Tour.

Chambersburg, Pa., Aug. 3 (Spl.). Franklin County farmers will leave from Chambersburg and Waynesboro Thursday on a 190-mile educational tour of Somerset County farms and maple sugar plantations under the auspices of the Franklin County Agricultural Extension Association.

Drys Will Win Option Election In Rockingham

Church Forces Provide Only Activity Before Vote Tuesday.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.). Virginia's county-wide local option election under the alcoholic beverages control act will be held in Rockingham County Tuesday, with no doubt as to the result—the drys will win, as they did for years before the prohibition era.

Rockingham has been the stronghold of prohibition forces in the Old Dominion for years. It is the center of several religious denominations which have preached abstinence for years. These denominations have large memberships and wield a wide influence. Three of these churches have their largest Virginia membership in Rockingham County.

The only activity preceding the election has been that of the church forces under the newly-formed New Temperance Alliance. They have conducted meetings in every section of the county and have been joined by the W. C. T. U., another organization strong in Rockingham.

Political Leaders Inactive.

Leaders of the Democratic and Republican parties — of equal strength in Rockingham — have taken no part. All the vote got out will be that of the temperance forces. Those favoring a trial of the ABC act generally consider it would be a waste of time to go to the polls. A light vote, compared with the usual turnout in political battles, is forecast.

The voters will express their opinion on two questions. First, on the sale of hard liquor by State stores, and second, on the sale of beer more powerful than 3.2. In reality, Rockingham is voting on the sale of high-powered beer, because there are only two towns, Bridgewater and Elkton, with sufficient population (900) eligible for a State liquor store under the alcoholic beverage control act. These communities have the privilege of holding local option elections of their own, and without doubt they would vote dry. In the first place, the alcoholic beverage control board announced that it had no idea of establishing liquor stores in small towns unless the people voted them.

So the Rockingham voters will decide that filling stations, roadside taverns and resorts, to say nothing of restaurants in the towns of the county, shall not sell high-powered beer. There has been an almost continuous protest against the granting of a beer license in the college town of Bridgewater, the headquarters of the Rockingham temperance forces. The drys there even condemned Congress for legalizing 3.2 beer, which, they said, was in violation of the Bridgewater town charter provisions.

Business Lag Feared.

On the other side, there are comments among merchants of the county towns that the ban on beer will drive business to Harrisonburg, which is not involved in the election. Others who want their drink say they are not concerned, because moonshine liquor will be available as long as there are mountains in Rockingham. It is pointed out further that the Rockingham farmer who wants something stronger than water has his own supply of wine and hard cider, and there is nothing illegal about these beverages.

Rockingham voted by a majority of 1,300 against the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Virginia prohibition law last October. No effort was made in that campaign except by the dry forces. The petitions requesting Judge H. W. Bertram, in Rockingham Circuit Court, to call the special election contained the signatures of 700 voters in excess of the 30 per cent required. An intensive campaign was conducted to obtain signatures to the petitions.

George N. Conrad, former State Senator and long one of the dry stalwarts in Virginia, added his voice to the dry cause last Sunday night at Singers Glen. He cited the increase of drunkenness, especially in Harrisonburg, since the repeal of prohibition and urged the voters to cast their ballots against the ABC plan.

As the county votes, the ABC Board is going ahead with plans to establish a State liquor store on the Court Square. The personnel already has been announced from Richmond. Harrisonburg, which was the last town to have saloons before prohibition became Statewide, voted nearly 2 to 1 for repeal of the eighteenth amendment last October.

Tri-Festival Thousands See Public Wedding at Culpeper

By C. B. Carr.

Culpeper, Va., Aug. 3.—Surrounded by thousands of their fellow citizens of Culpeper and surrounding territory, Miss Lois Revercomb, of Peola Mills, and Charles C. Riddle, of Culpeper, were married at a public ceremony here tonight, the event being one of the features of the second annual Culpeper trifestival.

The ceremony took place before an altar of evergreens and summer flowers on the dias at the Fair Grounds.

The Rev. Dr. T. W. Hooper, of Culpeper, and the Rev. Harris Chelf, of Flint Hill, performed the ceremony.

The bride-elect had as her maid of honor Miss Virginia Fletcher, who represented Rappahannock County in the court of the festival queen. Mr. Riddle's best man was Giles H. Miller, jr., also of Culpeper.

Mrs. John Revercomb was matron of honor, and the following were escorts and attendants: Misses Ruth Earle Weaver, Dorothy Weaver, Mary Estham, Eliza Grimsey Miller, Margaret Miller, Crimora Waite, Elisabeth Coons, Virginia Fray, Katherine Whitmore, Doris Dodson, Kitty Bickers, Lucy Kelly, Mary Hume Farmer, Katherine Jennings, Jane Oates, Eleanor Dunlap, Mrs. D. Wright Kelly, jr., Mrs. Walker Turner, Mrs. William A. Taley, jr., R. A. Bickers, R. C. Lewis, Burnett Miller, jr., Jack Slaughter, Louis Smith, C. E. Reams, jr., Sayre Thompson, C. T. Guinn, Walter Oliver, E. W. Bushong, Jack Humphries, Murray Kilby, John S. Thornton, James Hagan, John Revercomb, James Quaintance, Robert Revercomb, Charles Campbell, John McCormick and Birch Douglas.

Willis Martin was ring bearer and the flower girls were Christine Burton and Betty Morrison.

The bridal party ascended the dais to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march, played by the Culpeper Municipal Band, led by Edward S. Dinket.

Miss Revercomb, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Revercomb, was given in marriage by her father.

Seven Culpeper apparel shops presented the bride-elect with her trousseau, while a grocery store stocked their pantry in the house here to which they will return after a wedding trip to the Chicago Century of Progress. The trip was the wedding present of the festival.

The Tri-Festival will conclude tomorrow evening, when an automobile will be given away.

National Park Deeds Delayed

Virginia Eager to End Shenandoah Gift to Nation.

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—Attorney General A. P. Staples today wrote to Judge A. C. Carson, counsel for the conservation commission, saying the attorney general's office was eager to do anything possible to speed the deeding of Shenandoah National Park area properties to the Federal Government.

The attorney general said the conveyance will be in three deeds, two of them having already been approved in Richmond and signed by the Governor.

Since then, the attorney general said, it appears that the Department of the Interior has asked that detailed description of certain easements and rights be included in a new draft, which were omitted in the first deeds.

It is assumed here that new drafts will have to be made and that the Governor again will have to sign them after they are approved by the attorney general. They then will be signed by the Federal authorities.

Gov. Peery also said he was eager to hasten the conveyance and expressed regret over the delay.

Warren Farmers Get Checks.

Front Royal, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Warren County farmers who are cooperating with corn-hog control program will receive approximately $11,000. Checks for 190 farmers arrived yesterday aggregating $10,682, and a few are to follow.

Warrenton Firemen Return in Triumph

Warrenton, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—The Warrenton Volunteer Fire Department returned from the Culpeper trifestival today bearing a 14-inch silver loving cup awarded to them for being the best-appearing fire company.

Virginia Orders Beer Sales Ban Pending Pleas

Dealers Must Hold Permit After September 1, Board Says.

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board today set September 1 as the deadline for all Virginia retailers of beer of more than 3.2 per cent to obtain licenses. The board explained that in the past retailers were allowed to handle the beer while their applications for permits were pending.

On September 1, licenses will be dated on the day they are issued, not the day an application is filed. Sales during the investigation period will be regarded as illegal. The board will inform commonwealth attorneys of the name and address of each license holder in their jurisdiction to aid local officers enforce the law, the board said.

Officers Bothered.

The change in the practice was made, the board explained, because local officers have been handicapped under the present system. Retailers might make application on the first of a month, the board explained, and on the fifteenth be arrested for selling beer without a license. The officer making such an arrest would be justified since the dealer had no permit to show him. By the time his case came into court, however, he might be able to produce a license, dated the first, and thus the case would fall.

Because of the situation, few local enforcement groups have arrested beer sellers. The situation arose because the board was swamped with more than 4,000 applications.

Brewery Meeting.

The board also announced that it will hold a meeting of brewery representatives on August 9, when various phases of the Virginia control act, as it affects beer sales, will be explained. Some confusion, the board feels, exists concerning provisions of the law banning the sale, gift or loan of equipment by brewers and wholesalers to retailers. Such acts are specifically banned in the law.

On August 7 the board will meet with users of industrial alcohol to seek their cooperation in framing regulations to handle that commodity. As was the case with the regulations governing newspaper advertising, the board intends to ask chemists, druggists and manufacturers for suggestions.

Mrs. Annie Vott Buried.

Charles Town, W. Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Vott, 82, a former resident of this place, who died at Clarendon, Va., Wednesday, were held here at the home of Mrs. W. B. Woodward today.

2 Die, 8 Hurt As Truck Skids And Turns Over

Rising Sun, Md., Picnic Ends in Dissater; Driver Cleared.

Elkton, Md., Aug. 3 (AP).—Two were dead and eight injured today as result of an accident to a truck carrying a picnic party of 15 members of the Rising Sun, Md., Methodist Episcopal Sunday school. The accident occurred on the old Conowingo road near here last night.

The truck skidded on wet pavement to the muddy shoulder, crashed into a telephone pole and a tree and turned over, according to Acting Coroner F. Rodney Frazer.

The dead are:

Mrs. John R. Ford, 62, broken neck.

Mrs. Roland Kyle, 38, fractured skull

The seriously injured:

Robert Ford, 17, son of Mrs. John R. Ford, a fractured shoulder and severe cuts about the face.

Elizabeth Traynor, 18, leg broken.

Ford, Miss Traynor and Haines were brought to the hospital here. Other members of the party escaped with cuts and bruises.

Magistrate Frazer, the acting coroner, today stated that he had found "no evidence of criminal negligence on the part of the driver."

An inquest will be held later.

Escaped Convict Seized on Visit To Prison Camp

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—When James Lee went calling on a friend at the Bowling Green convict camp it constituted what Penitentiary Superintendent Youell termed felonious audacity.

Lee, a light-skinned colored man who posed as white on his visit to the camp, escaped July 15 from the Kilmarnock camp, where he was serving six years for housebreaking. He was traced to New York, but the trail was lost there.

On Sunday, while the escaped convict was making his visit, a guard recognized him and he resumed his career as a prisoner.

Virginia Park Film Made.

Bristol, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—A motion picture depicting the development of a Virginia system of State parks has been completed by the National Park Service. Among the eight parks under development in Virginia is the Hungry Mother Park at Marion, scenes from which will be shown.

Ancient Mill to Rise Again

Baltimore, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Owners of flour mills in Maryland and wholesale distributors of wheat and corn are being appealed to by a committee of the Maryland Tercentenary Commission to contribute funds toward restoration of the oldest mill in Maryland—the Cornwalys mill, built in 1634 at St. Marys City.

The commission plans to erect on the site of the ancient mill a building approximating as closely as possible in appearance the mill that Capt. Cornwalys erected two years after the colony of Maryland was settled.

The structure was built at the northern edge of the tiny settlement of St. Marys, Maryland's first town and first capital. It stood beside a stream flowing into the St. Marys River, and on the site are the remains of a dam which impounded water to turn the mill wheel.

As a start toward erection of the replica, the commission has given a unique gift in the form of two of the original millstones used in the ancient mill. They lay for many years on an estate near St. Marys, and the recent National and Statewide interest in the Maryland tercentenary led the owners of the stones to present them to the commission as the nucleus of the equipment.

A special committee of the commission is seeking the funds, and Arthur B. Bibbins, its chairman, estimates the cost at about $5,000.

The work will require only five to six weeks, Mr. Bibbins said, and he hopes it can be completed by September. The original mill built by Capt. Cornwalys was opened in September, 1634, and for many years provided St. Marys citizens with flour. The Indians who lived along the Potomac also bought flour from the mill, according to historical records.

Car Hits Horse; Rider Is Killed

Race With Companion Blamed for Accident Near Warrenton.

Warrenton, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Theodore Pearson, of Marshall, a horse trainer, was killed today when the horse he was riding was struck by an automobile about 10 miles north of here.

Henry Marshall, a retired lawyer of Markham, driver of the automobile, and his wife who was with him, were unhurt.

Pearson, 22, had been married 10 days ago. He had been employed for five years by Capt. Sterling Larrabee, who has stables near Flint Hill.

It was reported Pearson and a companion were racing and met the car too late for Pearson to avoid it. The horse fell at the side of the road and was unable to rise. Capt. Larrabee had it destroyed.

Driver Is Acquitted In Fatal Accident

Hagerstown, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.). William E. Brennen was found not guilty of reckless driving today, growing out of the death of Howell Hammond, 33, in April.

Jewelers Plan Va. Conclave

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 3 (AP).—The annual meeting of the Virginia Retail Jewelers Association will be held in Petersburg on August 19 and 20, it was announced today by O. F. Russow, Roanoke, secretary-treasurer. About 100 delegates are expected.

Among subjects scheduled for discussion are the jewelry code, approved last December; "Newspaper Advertising Versus Radio Advertising," an address by W. G. Frasier, of North Carolina, past president of the American National Retail Jewelers Association, and the use of yellow gold in jewelry.

In addition to Mr. Russow, who has served as secretary-treasurer of the association for 19 years, Roanoke will send as delegates three past presidents, Leo F. Henebry, Frank Moose and M. Harrison. Several other jewelers here are also expected to attend.

Drowned Man's Body Found.

Newport News, Va., Aug. 3 (AP).—The body of John Franklin Chapman, of Charlotte, N. C., who was drowned when he fell into Chesapeake Bay from a cabin cruiser, was found today by Capt. John Crockett, of Fleeton, near the mouth of the Rappahannock River.

Anne Arundel Clerk of Court Contest Opens

James A. Walton Files, Seen as Opposing George Cromwell.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Indications that a warm primary fight impends among Democrats of Anne Arundel County for one or more county offices, were confirmed today when James A. Walton, of Annapolis, president of the Annapolis Banking & Trust Co. and a former president of the board of county commissioners, filed a certificate of his candidacy for clerk of the circuit court, one of the most sought-after posts in the county.

Walton declared his intention to campaign several weeks ago. Though formerly identified with the organization faction that dominates county affairs, he is not now backed by organization leaders. The organization is understood to be backing former State Senator George T. Cromwell, who has not yet filed as a candidate.

Because of unsettled conditions among leaders in the two major parties, aspirants for the several nominations are slow in making known their intentions. They appear to be jockeying for support. Meanwhile talk of a fusion ticket, as a means of promoting better government, persists.

Socialists to Meet To Name Candidates

Cumberland, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.). The Socialists of the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland will meet at Trades Council Hall Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., to nominate a candidate for House of Representatives.

The Allegany County delegates also will nominate a county ticket. All county officers will be named at the coming election. William Munro, this city, is State chairman of the Socalist party.

56 Candidates Enter Primaries in Carroll

Westminster, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.). With the office of sheriff still attracting the largest number of candidates in Carroll County, a total of 37 officeseekers, 19 Democrats and 18 Republicans, have announced as candidates in the September primaries.

Although 19 candidates are from Westminster District, the remainder of the county is well represented with candidates listed from all but three of the 14 election districts. The three exceptions are Union Bridge, Middleburg and Manchester.

Seven Democrats and six Republicans are campaigning for sheriff. Three Democrats and five Republicans are seeking election as judge of the Orphans' Court.

Only six incumbents have announced for reelection. Eleven candidates have filed formally with the election supervisors.

Sheriff—Democrats, Charles W. Conaway, William H. Bowers, O. Jennings Zepp, Augusta Numbert, Harry Shaffer, Westminster District; W. C. Coakley, Freedom District; Morris Zumbrum, Hampstead District. Republicans, John Manning, George C. Fowble, Walter E. Shipley, Westminster; J. W. Reese, Woolerys District; Frank Barnes, Franklin District; John A. Shipley, Freedom District.

Judge of the Orphans Court—Democrats, Milton S. Brown, Woolerys District; Charles S. Marker, incumbent, Uniontown District; Arnolphus Krumrine, Myers District. Republicans, Webster Baugh, incumbent; J. Albert Mitten, Westminster District; John H. Brown, Lewis E. Green, New Windsor District; William F. Jordan, Berrett District.

County commissioner—Democrats, Edward S. Harner, incumbent, Taneytown District; George S. Wolbert, Berrett District. Republicans, E. Edward Martin, Woolerys District; Samuel Solomon, Freedom District.

Electric Shock Kills Worker.

Press Balks At Newsprint Price Board

Publishers Hint Court Action to Defeat NRA Proposal.

Veiled threats to institute court action if necessary to prevent creation of a board with authority to fix newsprint prices were voiced by representatives of newspaper publishers yesterday at an NRA hearing.

The proposal was criticized as "vicious, illegal and monopolistic" by Elisha Hanson, general counsel of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, special counsel for the publishers.

Mr. Hanson warned the association would "use every possible means to prevent the setting up of any price-fixing scheme by collusion or otherwise, or any plan which includes monopoly, proration of tonnage, restrictions on importations or curtailment of the use of newsprint."

Antitrust Law Invoked.

The proposed board was indorsed by Edgar Rickard, chairman of the newsprint industry code authority; Matthew J. Burns, president of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, and J. W. Taylor, of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Workers.

Newsprint manufacturers, publishers and labor would be represented on the suggested nine-man board. It would be empowered to negotiate international agreements on imports as well as to fix prices. Recovery Administrator Johnson would have review jurisdiction over its acts.

Mr. Hanson argued the proposal violated the antitrust laws and a 1917 ruling by a New York Federal court, which outlawed any agreement between newsprint producers concerning prices, terms of sale or the quality of their output.

Despite the decree, he contended, the manufacturers last October agreed to declare an armistice on prices in America only. He insisted the case should be referred to the Department of Justice for "persistent" violations.

"Complete Control of Press."

"The newsprint planning and adjustment board, but really the administrator," Mr. Hanson added, "is given the power to fix the price or change the price of newsprint paper, to fix the amount or change the amount consumed in the United States. This, in fact, means to control completely the press of the United States."

Congress settled the entire question, he said, by placing newsprint paper on the free tariff list. He claimed domestic producers were unable to supply half of the present subnormal demand.

Mr. Hanson protested the proposal would create a monopoly for the benefit of Canadian and United States manufacturers and would include "Government control of monopoly—the most vicious of all forms of control."

Cites Constitutional Rights.

Mr. Colby declared the publishing business would not submit to infringement of its Constitutional rights of freedom of the press and that it could not be menaced more obviously than by "handing over to selfish manufacturers a monopoly on the basic product of the publishing business."

He said he represented the Department of Justice in 1917 when the New York court held the newsprint manufacturers' association was an "unlawful combintion." He said the producers wished to have NRA uphold them in disregarding the decree.

Paul Patterson, representing Scripps-Howard newspapers, objected to the plan as monopolistic. Mr. Burns said NRA intervention was necessary to prevent workers in this country from losing their jobs because of foreign competition.

Thomas McGuire, of the NRA consumers' advisory board, indorsed the proposal with the reservation that he did not believe price-fixing offered the proper means of solving the problems of the industry.

Monument Work Will Start Monday

Piping and Other Materials Brought to Scene.

Washington Monument will get its first section of a towering steel "dorset" Monday when scaffolding work starts preparatory to cleaning and repairing the shaft.

Large quantities of piping and other materials were on the scene yesterday as the $100,000 PWA project began but, outside of that, there was still no visible indication that the monument is about to undergo the most thorough overhauling since it was built.

Regular hours will be maintained for visitors while the work is going on, with a passageway to the entrance being constructed. No parking, however, will be permitted in the immediate vicinity.

Holy Comforter Church Festival Closes Tonight

With a grand finale, including auction sale of many valuable articles, the festival conducted by the Holy Comforter Church at Fifteenth and East Capitol streets will close tonight.

The festival, designed to assist the church building fund and to enlarge the church school, has been a great success despite inclement weather on two nights and a large attendance tonight is expected. Father E. J. Nestor is general chairman of the festival and Alfred Neff is chairman of the festival committee.

By Marian May.

"Daddy" Joe Turner's proteges had nothing yesterday on C. M. T. C. cavalrymen who took part in the mounted wrestling and other field day events at Fort Myer. Although the soldiers may not be as proficient at the toe hold, split and head lock as Londos, George and Marshall, all the aforesaid holds were displayed as E Troop, F Troop, and the Machine Gun Troop had it out in a free-for-all, may-the-best-man-win mounted wrestling exhibition that brought to a close a day of mounted and unmounted contests.

What's more, the cavalrymen not only had to worry about keeping their opponents from twisting their right legs around their left ears, &c., but they had a great deal more to think about in attempting to remain in close contact with their horses at the same time. In fact, the objective of each man was to stay on as long as he could.

Victory finally went to F Troop. Out of 30 men in the contest, held in a ring about 75 feet in diameter, all were soon eliminated except Scott and John of F Troop and Curtis of E Troop. After about five minutes of exciting chasing and leg-yanking, John succeeded in dumping Curtis, whereupon Scott dumped John and was declared winner.

F Troop distinguished themselves by winning three out of the five mounted events, taking the tug-of-war and the equipment race in addition to the mounted wrestling contest. The rescue race and the potato race were won by F Troop.

Running high jump—Walton, F Troop, 5 feet 3 inches.
100-yard dash—Scott, F Troop.
Shot put—Rooney, M. G. Troop, 35 feet 4 inches.
Football throw—Buckman, F Troop, 142 feet.
Discus throw—Smedley, F Troop.
220-yard dash—Scott, F Troop.
Pole vault—Friebel, E Troop, 11 feet 2 inches.
Half-mile relay—F Troop.

Capt. Bean Dies At Walter Reed

World War Flier Formerly Commanded National Guard Company.

Death Thursday claimed Capt. Harry J. Bean, 52, World War aviator and brother of Inspector Thadeus R. Bean, of the Metropolitan Police. Capt. Bean died at Walter Reed Hospital, where he was taken Saturday after he suffered a paralytic stroke at his home, 4510 Georgia avenue.

In recent years Capt. Bean served as secretary to Representative John McCormack, of Massachusetts. A native of Washington, he was for a number of years, captain of a company in the District National Guard.

During the World War he joined the aviation forces and served in France.

Funeral services will be held Monday in the chapel at Walter Reed Hospital. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

An exhibit showing the development of the State parks will be placed in the show windows of Woodward & Lothrop's the latter part of this month, J. W. Hardy, advertising manager, announced yesterday.

Death Claims Dean Golder

Dr. Harold Golder, 38, dean of the Graduate School of American University, died yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital. Physicians attributed his death to a cerebral blood clot.

Returning to his home in the 3000 block of R street northwest with his wife Thursday evening, after attending a movie, Mr. Golder complained of a headache. He was found unconscious in his bed a few hours later and taken to the hospital.

Dr. Golder was elevated to head of the graduate school last June. He was born in Maine and held degrees from Carleton College, Minn., and Harvard University. He taught at Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., and then went to England on a Harvard scholarship.

Returning to the United States, he joined the faculty of Indiana University. He came to American University as professor of English in 1927. At his death he was collaborating with Dr. George B. Woods, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, on a book, "The Anthology of Victorian Prose."

Dr. Golder is survived by his wife and two children, John, 5, and Sara, 3, and his father, the Rev. A. L. Golder, of Hancock, N. H.

And Billie Had a Birthday.

As soon as Mr. Man and Hee-Haw got out of sight of Billie's house he put on his best coat and a red tie and started out for Blackie's house. Jay Bird didn't tell him anything about what they were going to have for dinner except Mr. Man's turnovers, and he didn't know what in the world they were. But he knew that Jocko Monkey took them, and he never had seen Jocko bring in anything that wasn't good to eat.

So he skeedaddled through the woods toward Blackie's, but he just had to stop one time and get a few handfuls of 'possum haws, for the frost had fallen on them and made them so blue and velvety that he just couldn't pass them without eating a few.

When he got to Blackie's house it looked like there was going to be a sure enough dinner party, for there was Howler bringing a table out of the house, and Dr. Coon was showing him where to put it on the grass. Blackie was back in the smokehouse, and Jay Bird was with him, but nobody knew what they were up to. Blackie and Jay Bird had been in there a good deal lately, and sometimes Jocko had been with them, but Billie hadn't been in at all, nor had Who-Who Owl, or Chatter Squirrel nor anybody else.

I don't know whether I ever told you that there was a great big tub in Mr. Man's wagon that night when Jocko drove it away from Cool Spring, but there was, and Blackie took it out and left it there, for he expected to need it when he came back, and he knew that Bettie would never let him bring it away from Mountain House if he ever took it there. Blackie and Jocko had filled the tub up with persimmons and potato peelings and water, to make persimmon beer, but, as I just told you, they didn't tell Billie about it, for if they had he would have worried them almost to death to get some of it before it was ready to drink.

Then, too, they wanted to give him a big surprise for his birthday, for they knew just how happy he would be to get it, and the creek folks were all the time trying to make each other happy. Blackie really never did have as good a time as when he was sitting at the head of the table and piling good things on the plates of his friends. And he knew that he was going to hand out a lot of happiness today, so he was happy.

Jocko spread the cloth on the table, put the plates and spoons and things on and then he brought a lot of tin cups and put them around at the places.

"What are you going to put in those cups?" asked Billie 'Possum, when he couldn't hold his curiosity about the dihner any longer.

Then Jocko brought out the basket of turnovers that Mrs. Man made for them the day before. It looked like Mrs. Man never would get through paying Blackie for making Mr. Man save all that donkey money. Certainly she made some mighty nice turnovers for him, and Jocko put the basket right in front of Blackie's place at the head of the table. And then he put on some big red apples—the reddest one at Jay Bird's place, for Jay Bird was almost foolishly fond of red apples.

Blackie and Dr. Coon would come in and out of the smoke house, but every time they came out they would shut the door, and so Billie didn't ever see what they were doing.

After a while Jocko seemed to have everything on the table, and he stood off and looked at it. Yes, it was all right and everything was on it except—oh, well, let's wait and see. So Blackie took his seat at the head of the table, and, just as he always did, he piled up everybody's plate. They went along with their dinner and had a good time. Jocko told several funny stories that made Bill laugh so that he could hardly eat his dinner, and even sober old Who-Who had to grin a little.

"What did you put these cups here for?" asked Blackie.

"Oh, I nearly forgot something," said Jocko, and he got up and went to the smoke house and brought out a great big bucket of persimmon beer! He filled all the cups, and then he passed around the turnovers.

Talk about good desserts! Well, Billie said that was the best in the world, and Blackie told him he was glad he liked it, for he had been working on that beer for a week or more so as to have it for Billie's birthday. And then Billie stood up in his chair and clapped his hands and said "Three cheers for Blackie Bear." And the cheers were given.

Post to Name Smoke Relief Stations Soon

Cigarettes and Tobacco to Be Collected for Needy Persons.

A city-wide network of authorized collection station for The Washington Post Capital Relief Smoke Fund will be established early next week. Plans for the stations, which will enable contributors to make their gifts at convenient points, are nearing completion and will be announced shortly.

A man who is on the relief rolls, and who knows what it means for an habitual smoker to be without an occasional cigarette, stopped at The Post to offer his appreciation—and to ask for a share in the donations being contributed by a generous public. His request was denied because, by agreement with the relief organization, distribution will be made solely by its workers. This insures the "smokes" going to deserving men through official channels.

Watch The Post daily for announcement of the complete list of stations, in stores and other business places, where contributions may be left. Gifts of cigarettes and tobacco, will be accepted at authorized stations, but money will be accepted only at The Washington Post.

"Share a luxury with another smoker" is the idea behind the campaign, which has the sanction of Commissioner George E. Allen, Miss M. Alice Hill, director of emergency relief, and other officials interested in District welfare.

Staggered Pay Meeting Topic

Definite Expression of Employes' Views Is Due Wednesday.

The question of staggering Government pay days in Washington was discussed briefly yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of Local No. 2, National Federation of Federal Employes. No definite action was taken.

Joseph S. Stansfield, president of Local No. 2, believes there would be great objection to three or four pay days a month instead of two, as at present.

A definite expression of the employes' views probably will come Wednesday night, when there will be a meeting of the executive committee, representing all the locals of the National Federation of Federal Employes here.

Miss Alida Bowler Named as Guardian Of Nevada Indians

A clear-eyed woman with a windblown bob, Miss Alida Bowler, yesterday added the title of "first woman Indian superintendent" to a colorful career, according to the Associated Press.

She was director of the first wandering youth studies of the Children's Bureau. She dug up the statistics on crime and the foreign-born for the Wickersham committee. She wrote gang histories of the Los Angeles area. With the Red Cross abroad, back in 1918-19, she helped Rumanian refugees return to their homes.

Starting September 1, Miss Bowler will supervise the scattered Indian tribes of northern Nevada, serving also as superintendent of the Carson Indian School at Stewart, Nev.

John Collier, superintendent of Indian affairs, said he had chosen Miss Bowler not to follow a pattern of the past but to do a trail-blazing job.

$40,000 Note Sale Asked by Receiver

The District National Bank, through Receiver Norman R. Hamilton, yesterday obtained from Justice James M. Proctor, District Supreme Court, an order requiring William C. Sullivan, trustee in bankruptcy for Edgar S. Kennedy, to show cause why a $40,000 collateral note, now in Hamilton's hands, should not be sold.

The note was made by Kennedy personally and Kennedy Brothers Co. Its payment is secured by a collateral promissory note from Kennedy, which is payable to Kennedy Brothers Co., while, in turn, the second note is secured by a deed of trust for $222,557.91 on real estate in Montgomery County, Md.

The land covered by the trust deed is said to be included in the tract known as Kenwood. It is owned by the Kennedy-Chamberlin Development Co.

Ellis Lauds Modern Pastor

Religious Observer Says Church Is Doing More Good Than Ever, Despite Army of Skeptics Who Spend Time in Gloomy Criticism.

By William T. Ellis.

Somebody should get the ear of the highbrows, who are nowadays writing magazine articles about the decadence of the church, and whisper to them, "You are mere 'book-taught Bilkenses,' and simply not posted concerning real life. Take your nose out of the works of your fellow highbrows, and look squarely at the facts of life. Then you will find that not only is the membership of all the churches increasing, but also the characteristic works of religion are abundant on every hand. More people than ever before are concerned to live the life of faith and do its works.

"As for the preachers whom you criticize, you will find, if you look, that most of the more than 100,000 of them in the United States and Canada are busy about helpful tasks of religion. It may be regrettable that they are too busy to read your gloomy opinions; but they have the sick to visit, the dying to comfort, the dead to bury, the lovers to marry, the children to organize and train, the youth to inspire and the poor to help.

"Only the angels—and you are no angel—can keep track of the manifold ministry of helpfulness of the ministers of religion.

Challenge to Critics.

"When you broaden your inquiry, my dear highbrows, you will find more than 2,000,000 Sunday school teachers giving devoted, sacrificial, effective service weekly, for no other reward than the love of God. You will find Christian parents praying and working and living for the religious nuture of their children. Also you will find the agencies of welfare and relief overwhelmingly manned by men and women animated by the Christian motive. Every social worker knows that the great bulk of support for public charity comes from Christian people. I hate to say it, but my highbrow friends, you are ignoring the preponderating body of evidence; and by so much are poor scholars."

Probably it will do little good to counsel the critics; so let us turn to the prophet of helpfulness, Elisha, who is the subject of today's Lesson; and consider him as the type of servant of God who busied himself in useful works. Of course, we are more familiar with bold and temperamental Elijah, with his thunderings against idolatry and his defiance of the backslidden King Ahab.

Undeniably, there is an essential place for the Elijahs and their brave denunciations of wrong. But the preacher who devotes his sermons to redressing evil is likely to become a publicity-hungry nuisance He neglects the flock looking up to be fed.

A Poor Widow's Plight.

Most ministers, thank God, are of the Elisha type.

Aside from one or two human outbursts—as in the case of the mocking youths devoured by bears—Elisha's ministry was one of serene usefulness. He had a passion for helping people. He is the type best represented by Jesus, who "came, not to be ministered unto but to minister."

It is natural for most persons to turn first to the clergy when in distress. It was an ages-old usage which the widow of one of Israel's unknown prophets followed when she carried her woes to Elisha, the successor of Elijah. With the breadwinner gone, and two sons to support, and in debt to a money-lender who threatened her with slavery for her children, she besought Elisha's aid.

His response was characteristic of the good minister. "What shall I do for thee?"

Elisha first ascertained the facts, like a modern trained social worker. He looked into the woman's possible resources. Alas! these consisted only of a single pot of oil. Thereupon Elisha wrought a wonder like unto the multiplication of the loaves and fishes by Jesus, and like the miracle wrought by Elijah for the widow of Zarepath. He bade the woman borrow from her neighbors all the empty vessels available. She should do it on a large scale: "Borrow not a few." For she was about to do business with a bountiful Lord.

The Lord's Generosity.

"He who asks porridge of the Lord should carry a large bowl," said John Bunyan. This widow gathered many empty vessels, to the wonderment of the lenders. She did not know that the bounty she was to receive was measured by her own faith in expectation.

From her small store of oil, the widow was bidden to pour into the larger vessels. How her hand must have trembled and her eyes opened wide in amazement as the little pot gave forth far more than its own contents. Was there no limit to this wonder? Yes; the limit of her ability to receive. She might have had more had she made preparation for more. The flow of oil stayed not until the last available vessel was full.

Even so, it was enough. Said Elisha, "Go, sell the oil, and pay thy debt, and live thou and thy sons off the rest."

"Helping lame dogs over stiles" may seem small service, and feeding one distressed widow's family may appear like petty business for a great prophet, but there is no greater evidence of the presence of God in the heart than this. No matter how intensely doctrinal a man's belief and preaching may be, if he is not a helper of his kind he is not orthodox.

All his life Elisha was a helper of his fellows—an illustrious predecessor of the kindly Christ, who deemed no service too small for His divinity.

Washington Monument Visitors Gain in July

Washington Monument attracted 14,425 more visitors to its summit last month than it did in July, 1933, the National Park Service announced yesterday. A total of 72,945 persons went up, 67,588 by elevator and 5,357 by stairway, compared to 58,520 in the same month last year. The July, 1934, attendance also was almost 12,000 over the figure of the previous month.

The White Ghost.

Although the white ghost that stalks our streets these days is too much a newcomer to have proved its real value, there seems reason to believe that its voice of conscience will within limits prove effective. The idea of sending the car with the loudspeaker out into the highways and byways to warn careless drivers of their responsibilities has the merit of novelty. Until this wears off the courteous warnings will be listened to and Washington streets, now a terror to the pedestrian, should be somewhat safer.

The traffic hazards of the Capital are such, however, that even incessant warnings will not cure them. The so-called white-ghost method is merely an external application in a case where internal remedies are needed. The streets of the city are plentifully supplied with traffic lights, yet the downtown pedestrian, crossing a street when the light is green, takes his life in his hands because of the autoist—too often just a cruising taxi—who takes that moment to make a right-hand turn. This is but one of the major annoyances which application upon the part of our traffic authorities might mitigate.

More important is the obvious need for stricter examination of prospective drivers. Too many persons who are unfit to drive are none the less driving automobiles. Harder tests for would-be licensees and the rigid revocation of the licenses of more drivers who are involved in accidents are needed. While waiting these reforms the suave voice of conscience floats through the warm Washington air, doing some good by its incessant reminder to those who drive automobiles that they are exercising a privilege which implies much greater respect for the rights of others than is generally accorded.

Langer's Proxy.

Mrs. William A. Langer has entered the gubernatorial race in North Dakota on the assumption that the people of that State still favor leadership by her husband, the deposed Governor, even though he has been convicted of a serious crime. Langer was nominated by the Republican party two days before his conviction. Because he is now disqualified his wife comes forward with what seems to be a bid to serve as his proxy.

Two elements appear to be predominant in cases of this kind. People who have not yet shaken off royalist traditions are often inclined to regard a position so vacated as a rightful heritage of some close relative. Several women in Congress doubtless owe their election to this strange conception. Sentimentality of this sort, combined with that desire to vindicate, which is the other element involved, was responsible for the election of "Ma" Ferguson in Texas. Likewise it sent Mrs. Langley to Congress in place of her husband, who had been sentenced to prison.

It is strange that any State or Congressional district will thus permit personal issues to distort the workings of democracy. Particularly is it unfortunate that women should be thus used as political puppets. Prejudice against women in public office has been gradually disappearing as capable members of that sex have more than demonstrated their ability as legislators, judges, and executives. But every time a woman comes into public office as the catspaw of her husband she makes it more difficult for sincere and competent members of her sex to win the recognition to which they are entitled. No group will more deeply resent this farcical performance at Bismarck than the women who are fighting to eliminate discrimination between the sexes in public life.

Skinning A Whale.

Someone once called them the little magazines that die to make verse free, those sometimes strange and almost always radical publications edited by young people unable to find outlet elsewhere for their ideas and expressions. But that was long ago and most of them were born in the garrets of the Left Bank, that miasma of futile intellectualism so well exposed recently by Thomas Craven. Whether they made verse free or not is now beside the point, for most of them are forgotten and a new crop has sprung up to take their place.

Writing about the newcomers in The New Republic, Robert Cantwell points out that as usual their avowed function is to act as a forum for the youthful who are thinking on terms not acceptable to the established publications. They divide into four generalities: the revolutionary, the radical, the liberal and the reactionary. With the exception of the last named, which are engrossed in metaphysical discussions of royalism or nationalism, the great majority are attracting those many young writers whose whole ambition is to describe the life around about them.

It is this type which will be of value. For in the little magazines is being told, in plain words and often in the very idiom of the masses, the story of the present crisis in civilization. Mr. Cantwell describes some of them, admitting their youthfulness and their occasional preoccupation with the sordid and the vicious, and reaches the conclusion that their effect upon the literature of the future will be great. Those who recall Broom and The Little Review will not be inclined to scoff at the prediction.

The purpose of the best of the output he sums up with a sentence that is important. It is, he says, "an attempt to bring back to our fiction a vitality that has been absent from it ever since the time Melville could without straining make heroes of workers, and could without self-consciousness make poetry out of the labor of skinning a whale."

The All-Highest.

The outside world is not so much interested in the fact that Hitler has now assumed completely unrestricted political powers in Germany, as it is concerned with the uses to which those powers will be put. The merger of the Presidential office in that of Chancellor, while totally and flagrantly without constitutional warrant, was forecast before the death of Von Hindenburg. The latter, even in failing health, had kept a check on "Der Fuehrer" which he does not wish to have continued in the difficult period ahead.

But it would be premature to assume from Hitler's arrogation of an absolutism far more complete than that of the Kaiser, that he expects to continue one-man rule indefinitely. Of late a certain chastening in the attitude of the Nazi spokesman has been apparent. Both in the political and economic fields his grandiose ideas have utterly failed of fruition, a fact of which none can be more acutely conscious than Hitler himself. Today he seems both a bewildered and a helpless little man, in spite of his unprecedented titular authority.

Broadly speaking, there are before Hitler now only two alternatives. Either he must present, and that quickly, to the disillusioned German people a reconstruction program which will work; or he must find some new body or individual with which he can share the enormous responsibility now carried on his own slender shoulders. Continued national acquiescence in goose-stepping and saluting as an alternative to economic recovery is scarcely to be expected, even from the regimented Germans.

That Hitler has any clear-cut recovery program in mind is greatly to be doubted. That he has some idea of a monarchical restoration, behind which he might with some show of grace divest himself of dictatorial powers, is more probable. But who his candidate may be; whether that candidate could successfully be enthroned, and whether such an outcome would really relieve the situation are as yet unanswerable questions.

What is certain is that "Der Fuehrer" is now a greatly sobered and even somewhat pathetic little figure. He had a big scare a month ago, when he narrowly weathered the palace revolution in Nazi ranks; he had another, more recently, from the Austrian outbreak, which he seems honestly to have discountenanced. A third such upheaval might readily be the last which Hitler would ever see. As he clings uneasily to his unenviable eminence his outstanding and uncomfortable thought must be: "Where do I go from here?"

In his confusion and uncertainty lies the opportunity of foreign statesmanship. Assuming he stays in power, Hitler's retreat from past intransigeance is foreordained. It is in the interest of the world that his climbdown be made easy rather than difficult.

One-Sided Planning.

According to estimates of the New York Journal of Commerce, this year's cotton crop will amount to only 9,100,000 bales, the smallest since 1896, with the single exception of the year 1921. The current figure is 1,300,000 bales below the maximum that could have been marketed tax free under the cotton control act.

As a result of Government leasing of cotton lands and restrictions due to passage of the Bankhead Act, the cotton acreage on July 1 was the smallest since 1905. The drought has since that date supplemented the work of our official planners and further reduced the area of growth. It has, however, operated most erratically, destroying crops in some places and leaving other regions with a prospect of exceeding their allotted quotas—a situation which creates fresh difficulties for the AAA.

The short crop is expected to bring about further advances in cotton prices, which are already more than double the low levels reached in the spring of 1933, exclusive of the processing tax of 4.2 cents per pound. Secretary Wallace has announced that this tax will be maintained at the present rate during the current marketing season, in spite of protests from consuming industries.

Cotton mills are even now operating on curtailed working schedules because of a lack of orders due largely to consumer resistance to higher prices. Undersecretary Tugwell intimated in a recent radio address that the industry had reduced its output voluntarily in order to maintain prices at higher levels previously agreed upon. As a matter of fact, the mills have been forced reluctantly to raise selling prices of finished goods in an endeavor to cover higher costs of raw materials and higher labor costs under the cotton code. Dr. Tugwell's easy assertions are unsupported either by the facts or by the logic of the situation.

The planners of the Department of Agriculture appear to be obsessed by the idea that producers are always benefited by higher prices. Proceeding upon that assumption, they seem blind to the possibilities of expanding demand and profiting by larger sales at lower prices. Certainly the cotton-textile industry will not be benefited by a scale of prices that destroys its markets, nor will the cotton farmer benefit for long from the higher prices of his restricted output if the industrial demand for his product contracts as prices rise.

If official efforts were somewhat less concentrated upon agricultural price raising, at the expense of other branches of industry, the farmer as well as the community at large would in the end be better off. High prices attained by a policy of restriction can only lead to further curtailment of demand and more restriction, with a resultant decline in the living standards of the entire population.

Silver Certificates—New Style.

Within the next 60 days Secretary Morgenthau says that almost $50,000,000 of silver certificates, issued under the Silver Purchase Act of 1934, will be put into circulation. In view of the immense resources at the disposal of the Treasury, an addition of $50,000,000 to money in circulation is at the moment a matter of little consequence. The certificates will probably replace other forms of currency as they are paid out, and, like other money, will eventually be deposited in banks and slightly increase the existing huge volume of excess reserves.

Nevertheless, the new silver certificates are a warning to the public that the Government is embarking upon another inflationary monetary adventure whose goal is obscure. Secretary Morgenthau carefully emphasized the fact that the certificates are being issued against silver at the cost of acquisition, but there is no assurance that this policy will be continued. The law permits issuance of certificates against a decreed valuation of $1.29 per ounce. Furthermore, the Treasury is obligated to keep on buying silver until stocks amount to one-third of the volume of gold on hand. Consequently, prodded by Senator Thomas and his followers, the Treasury will doubtless be forced to make large and continuous purchases against which certificates may be issued at an arbitrarily raised value for silver.

The new certificates will add variety to the already bewildering pattern of our monetary crazy quilt, and give fresh cause for uneasiness to a confused public. The pretense that a currency is secured by issuing it against arbitrarily valued bullion held by the Treasury is a fiction that can not be tolerated. The acceptability of the various kinds of paper money now in circulation rests upon the confidence of the people in their Government and in its credit, not upon any claim to revalued gold which can not be obtained, nor to silver dollars, representing a fixed amount of metal of uncertain value.

Practically speaking, the country is on an irredeemable paper basis and opportunities for an inflationary expansion of both currency and credit abound. Consequently, every new experiment that has inflationary potentialities deals a fresh blow to confidence in the Government's willingness and ability to maintain currency stability. For that reason, the new silver issues are disturbing, despite Secretary Morgenthau's welcome assurances that the certificates will for the present be issued on the basis of the cost price of the silver held.

Staggered Pay Days.

Washington is confronted by a number of problems because of the working schedules of more than 87,000 Government employes living here. Most of these workers arrive at their offices at 9 a. m. and leave at 4:30 p. m. They are paid twice per month, on the same days. The inevitable result is extreme congestion, not only on the streets, but in banks and stores where employes rush to cash their checks, and perhaps to spend them.

Staggering of office hours to distribute the traffic over longer periods has long been considered and to some extent introduced. Serious attention is now being given to a more convenient arrangement of pay days. The interests of employes, local business institutions and the Government might well all be served by a more even flow of the cash which goes into salaries.

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Board of Trade, thinks that three or four pay days per month might solve the problem. As an alternative, various bureaus might adopt separate pay days, so that Government checks would be going out in a steady stream all during the month rather than in two large lumps. Washington business would tend to move steadily, flattening out both the rush periods and dull days. Likewise the banks would be relieved, and the work of disbursing the Federal pay roll would be spread out.

It is a big undertaking, of course, to upset the routine of an organization the size of the Federal Government. Yet the Government should not be oblivious to the effects of its policies upon local business. The enormous influx of Federal employes in Washington during recent months makes study of this problem especially desirable. If, after a thorough inquiry, a change is shown to be advantageous to a large majority of employes as well as local institutions, the departments should not hesitate to adopt it.

A Parade of the Past From the Files of The Post.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

GREAT BRITAIN hurled a defiant declaration of war against Germany. This brought the following alignment of the nations at war in Europe: Serbia, Russia, Montenegro, Belgium, France and England on one side, and Germany and Austria on the other. Turkey was mobilizing and it was expected she would join sides with Germany.

IMMEDIATELY AFTER England declared war on Germany a wireless message was flashed to Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, which read: "Great Britain declares war on Germany. Capture or destroy the enemy."

THE FRENCH Minister of War issued the following note: "The German Ambassador has demanded his passports, and diplomatic relations between France and Germany have been broken off. War is declared."

THE EMPEROR OF JAPAN said: "If the war extends to the Far East, and England is involved in it, Japan may find it necessary to participate in fulfillment of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. The Japanese navy has been held in readiness to aid."

IT WAS reported that German troops captured Vise, Belgium, situated on the Meuse River, eight miles northeast of Liege. The Germans shelled Liege and Namur, demanded the surrender of Liege, and were answered by being repulsed with heavy losses.

Sauce for the Gander.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why should the Government insist upon industries and private enterprises in this country observing the NRA when it fails in instances to respect it in its own departments? Why should Federal employes, either civil service or emergency, be obliged to put in overtime without recompense therefor in one form or another? If the Government needs additional help to effectively carry on its activities, why not put on more people? At any rate, the one working overtime is entitled to have it in annual leave if not in extra pay. But better still, put more people to work and to that extent alleviate the unemployment situation.

I can not believe that the heads of the departments are guilty of this practice or that they know about it. It may be some pinhead executive who insists upon keeping some poor stenographer or clerk overtime in order that such pinhead may make a showing.

I have always been a strong believer in the saying, "If one desires to be respected by the public, one must respect the public." This principle can be applied to the NRA. If the Government wants the public to respect the NRA, the Government must respect it. The Administration should lose no time in cleaning its own house. Do away with inefficients or pinheads and let those who are earnestly serving their Government and putting in their regular hours go home at the proper time. If there is any legitimate reason why they should work overtime then see that they are given additional annual leave or extra pay commensurate with the service rendered. MRS. B. T. G.

Washington, July 28.

Something to Be Done.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A news article in The Post of July 30, regarding vandalism in Meridian Hill and other Washington parks, could not have surprised any person who walks through the parks frequently. But the last sentence—the statement that "the Capital's vandalism bill runs into hundreds of dollars annually, but apparently nothing can be done about it"—is amazing! Certainly, something can and should be done about it, not only to keep public places in decent, healthful condition, but to prevent grown persons from lawlessly disregarding other's rights, and to instruct children in law observance and respect. Money should be spent for prevention rather than repairs.

It would be helpful and patriotic, the next time, or before, we have another "clean-up week" if hundreds of volunteers would walk through the streets and parks carrying placards reminding the general public that it is unlawful to throw trash and papers upon sidewalks and lawns and to expectorate upon sidewalks. Women volunteer in the interest of the Red Cross, tuberculosis seal sales and many other campaigns; why not for such a health, character, and beauty crusade? Mrs. Roosevelt says, "It is up to the women." This is a worth-while task. G. M. U.

Washington, July 31.

Conviction of Sin.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Preachers in the Middle West have been praying for rain. Perhaps they feel that the people deserve rain as much as they need rain. But it would be better if every American would get down on his knees, confess his sins before God and acknowledge that he deserves all the afflictions heaped upon him.

In my early youth I experienced many misfortunes. I suffered greatly, because I felt that I did not deserve these misfortunes. But one summer while I was eating out my heart in a very trying, humble position, and was asking myself why I, a man of good family and a college graduate, had to suffer such things, I opened my Bible and read this verse in the Lamentations of Jeremiah: "Wherefore doth a living man complain, a man for the punishment of his sins?"

Immediately I felt easier. I experienced that age-long spiritual phenomenon known as "consciousness of sin." I realized that I was now paying the penalty for evils that I had committed, and I resolved to bear my sufferings like a man until I had paid for my sins by my sufferings, and had wiped out both. I have never forgotten this experience; and I have avoided doing evil, because I know that as surely as night follows day, suffering follows upon evil-doing.

America as a Nation must experience this "consciousness of sin" before she can prosper. When we begin to realize that our sufferings are actually caused by our sins, and when every man beats upon his breast and cries out, "God, be merciful to me, a sinner," then we shall begin to prosper. We must cast away our tattered garments and rags of sins and vices, smug self-satisfaction, frivolous preoccupation with sordid and trifling pleasures and incredible follies, and clothe ourselves in the robes of virtue, gravity, and humility.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Wanderbird feature of your paper is one I look for regularly and I cut out these interesting articles for future use. I have been on several of these hikes and enjoyed them very much. Mr. Shosteck certainly has dug up some very interesting facts about our National Capital. A Losing Game.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Without attempting to challenge statements that appear from time to time placing upon pedestrians the blame for most of the traffic accidents, but fearing that as the result of such statements automobilists may lessen their feeling of responsibility, I desire to call attention to the following:

At Thirteenth and F streets, turns, either right or left, are barred between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. This ban on turns is for the benefit of pedestrians, and the intersection is theoretically one place in the city where a pedestrian can cross a street (on green light of course) without interference from an automobile. I have occasion to pass that intersection about three times a week, and in the past few months it has become a game with me t try to get past it without observing a violation of the regulation by automobilists; but I have been unable to do so. The other day, while waiting about 3 minutes for a street car, I observed six right-hand turns by automobilists, which was at the rate of two a minute, and is in harmony with what occurs every time I pass the intersection. Two a minute; 120 an hour; 1,200 violations by automobilists within the ten hours during which turns are barred.

Recently I observed, at this intersection, a taxi driver honking a policeman out of the way so that a right-hand turn could be made. A similar condition obtains at East Executive avenue with respect to nonobservance of the traffic signs. A policeman is required at each place, day after day, patiently to guide the automobilists, who will not and I believe in some cases can not read traffic signs. In the event a pedestrian is bumped, it is just too bad, with the usual verdict of "he walked right in front of my car." B. W.

Follow Up!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Thanks for and sincere compliments on the timely editorial in The Post of August 1 entitled "A National Disgrace." If you can, please follow this matter up and try to have such shameful and degrading exhibitions stopped.

Local Relief, as Seen by the Helpless.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: You can show the bright side of relief written by some relief agency head or by some newspaper man and it is easy to say don't help any panhandlers on the street. But why don't some of the people who know all about relief tell the single men on work or direct relief in Washington how to live on $14 a month without begging or stealing?

If any one has a solution of this handicap that the single man in the District is up against, please print it in your paper, for there are plenty of us here who would like to know how to do it. Talk about snooty people, well put on some old clothes and get on relief and then try to get an interview with some of these gilded butterflies who call themselves case workers, both male and female. Then try to get an interview from a supervisor and see what luck you have unless you go as a committee with a newspaper reporter in it. Then how quick the relief officers say, "Be sure and send me a paper so I can see what kind of a write-up you give me."

Another thing I would like to know, isn't there anybody at all in the District who has sense enough to handle this relief without importing an outsider from Pennsylvania, and her understudy from Virginia at big salaries? And are there not enough people of a mature age who could be case workers instead of hiring snippy young sprouts who know nothing about life except having a good time, and treat the people who are forced to accept relief through no fault of their own as though they were scum of the earth?

DISGUSTED.

Washington, July 29.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Old Dealer" expresses the opinion of millions of underdogs when he says that the New Deal helps no one except the New Dealers and their henchmen.

I know one destitute good man, who has been on the relief for nine months and now the New Dealers cut him off from all relief on a flimsy excuse. I have known this poor man all my life; I know that he is a good, hard, conscientious worker; still his imperial case worker says to him, "Nothing doing."

In his desperation this man went to see half a dozen officials connected with the relief administration, but not one of these gentlemen will do anything for him. They all send him back to his case worker and his case worker says, "No!" each time. They are all just "passing the buck" while the man is starving, and when I say starving I meant it; right here before their very noses. One official had this poor man thrown out of the District Building twice.

I am willing to furnish the name and address of this man—also a sworn testimony that everything above is the truth and nothing but the truth.

The Post Impressionist

Postoffice, Saturday.

WHAT with us newspapers, and those radios and whatnot, a lot one nation knows about another, to be sure! Take our French friends, for instance. Oh, of course hundreds of us know everything about them—or, because we have lived or married over there, think we do. But what does the average American know about the average Frenchman? Not any more than the average Frenchman knows about the average American—which is precious little.

* * *

Isn't our Frenchman still a gay, superficial, irreligious gallant? Yet, let certain foreigners think what they will of him, Poincare, with all his faults, was, while in active life, the idol of provincial France. Well, here is a sketch of him made in d'Ormesson's latest book, "Qu'est-ce qu' un Francais:"

"Jurist, bourgeois, republican, religious, impassioned, servant of the state, Poincare is also representative of something else in French political life: its provincial spirit." He is popular because "he personifies the provincial mind in opposition to the Paris mind. Thus he represents one of those essential aspects of French life not sufficiently taken into consideration by the outside world—that life's seriousness . . .

* * *

"He was small. He was not handsome. He was dry. He was . . . timid, completely devoid of exterior charm. He never laughed, and even his smile seemed forced . . . In his speeches, nothing thrilled.

"Yet the popularity of Poincare was prodigious. The (French) masses know perfectly how to discern between those who have a conception of the seriousness of existence and those who do not have it."

* * *

Or what is the Radical Party in French politics? Nine out of every ten Americans still consider it a socialistic party. Says Pfeiffer, its vice president, writing in L'Appel Republicain:

"Radicalism is equally remote from Fascism and from Marxism. It is the state of mind of the average Frenchman, who likes both reform and stability. Radicalism is the link between all those who are hostile to dictatorship and to revolution. Its mission is, first, to impose social reforms upon people who are too tame . . . second, to hold back people who are too impatient or too uncompromising . . . A true radical must correct the excesses of capitalism without being anticapitalistic . . . (yet) when the Radical Party follows the Socialists, it loses its justification."

* * *

So France doesn't want fundamental change? But listen to this, written about the French "Youth Organization," in Le Temps:

"Neither with regard to the interior or the exterior plan are the young satisfied with what is happening in France. This is an observation which no one will deny who closely observes our young people . . . Its importance should not be exaggerated, for the normal state of youth is dissatisfaction. However, one must take it into consideration, considering the agitation manifested on every side . . .

"There is no doubt that we can not go to sleep on the soft pillow of party truce, nor that France is awaiting action . . . There is no doubt (that) people are tired of the ideology, more or less hazy, through which the country has been led for some years."

* * *

Then "The New Economy:" What forms will go through—especially what political form, in France? Who, over here, guesses? Yet, over there, that expert in governmental finances, Joseph Caillaux, hints: "Autocracy—but a temporary autocracy."

He predicts: "A period merely of adaptation, which I hope will be short, but which I think will be inevitable. 'Autocracy,' a German economist said . . . is not a doctrine, but a 'fate.' Narrowing the meaning of the word 'fate,' I will suggest that it is a pass which one must go through to advance from one form of economy to another.

* * *

"What other?

"Man has never been able to trace in advance the pattern of the future. What we can foresee without fear of making a mistake is that the new economy must allow an adaptation of supply and demand, that to this end it will necessarily involve different machinery of exchange from that which the past has given us and which was sufficient in times when novelty was the order, but which no longer is worth anything in times of great abundance."

* * *

Do you wonder why we, for our part, have passed so far beyond the Column's usual bounds as to print all this? Do you suppose that we have had—at last—time to read a few new French books and newspapers?

We haven't.

We've published these excerpts because they are the current examples of a job lately undertaken by two young Frenchmen. We think it is a job almost as good in its possibilities as it is sizable.

* * *

Pierre de Lanux, who has lectured over here from time to time—and Francois Michel—who also knows the Americans—send monthly to a few hundred readers in the United States and a few hundred in France, such excerpts from the current French and American books and newspapers. They call the one service "What the French Say" and the other "What's Being Published in America." They think that thus they may serve to increase understanding between two nations.

* * *

We think that De Lanux and Michel are right.

* * *

No End of Books

By Theodore Hall

High on a Hot Wire.

EVERYONE talks about the frontier (I not the least guilty) as if it were a mere geographical line moving westward and stopping at the Pacific some time in the last century. The frontier's opportunity for courage and hardihood, we're fond of saying, faded from American life along the open range and squatter's rights.

THEO. HALL

Yet it should take no more to teach us differently than this earthly honest, hard punching novel—"Slim" (Little Brown—Atlantic Monthly Press, $2.50). For here, told by William Wister Haines (who, though but 25, has been a lineman for seven years), is the story of the men who build those great steel-frame towers which swing electric power across country on seven-league boots, and who put up the "hot wire."

The job takes all the subtle skill of a Rocky Mountain scout, all the quickness of Billy the Kid on the draw, all the fortitude of the pioneers who crossed the Great Plains in a Conestoga wagon. Instead of the mild and comparatively homey dangers of thirst and blizzards and Crows on the warpath, the lineman faces some little slip of the hand or failure of the safety-belt and a drop of 120 feet, or the whip-back of a broken rope which will slice off a man's arm or neck like a scythe, or one brushing touch of the treacherously innocent-looking "hot wire" and, shall we say, a wisp of smoke and Kingdom Come. And that, as the book shows, isn't the half of it. Yet here, 40 years after the last pioneer, these contemporary frontiersmen work all around us, unnoticed, all but unseen. Mr. Haines was our own neighbor for a while; he helped with the electrification of the New York-Washington line of the Pennsylvania.

Where, in so active and arduous a life, he got his literary skill is more than a mystery. For in the book you can put your finger on only half a dozen little awkwardnesses, and they all disappear in the light of the story and characters he conjures up.

Less real by a shade, perhaps, is the hero, Slim—a Southern mountaineer boy who'd never been to the city, but who watches the gang put up a tower in his corn-field with growing lust for the slim steel and the high, spidery shapes. He gets a job as a "grunt" (a man who works on the ground), studies hard to learn the tricks, rises soon to the dignity of lineman on the tower. The figure of Slim loses some credibility because of this swift success, and because the author necessarily uses him as a means of explaining the nice points of the trade. But you must think again if you feel that the mechanics of erecting a steel tower or rigging up the wires can hold no dramatic interest or suspense.

• • • •

Better than Slim, as round characters, are the other actors—Pop Traver, the spunky little boss; Red Blayd, best lineman in the country, who with climbing irons ("hooks," they're called) on his feet can come down 40 feet of wooden pole faster than a package of cigarettes can fall, and who remains believable, even though he does read "King Lear" nights in his tent.

Then there is Stumpy, lazy, garrulous youth, full of such tall talk as this: "You think he wasn't goin' aroun' like a brace an' bit an' him a-beatin' me wid that ol' club an' me tryin' to get in close enough to where I could get a kick at him an' put an end to that nonsense? You think he didn't beat me worse 'n' de time I cotched Paw asleep in de chair an' snuck up an' nailt his shoes to de floor an' him a-wakin' up an' bustin' de lamp over my head?" That may be too good to be true, but Stumpy's chatter makes gorgeous reading.

Payday nights in town, gouging fights high on the wires, sprees with cabaret girls in Chicago, and, when the money gives out, off again to a job in Arizona or Tennessee—that's the rough and ready masculine life which this novel relates with gusto and vigor. Mr. Haines' eye is sharp for varied character, for heart-stopping action, for broad humor, for all the elements which go to make up a good story of this strange frontier of our time.

• • • •

Perhaps one should note, as Ellen Glasgow put it so well the other day, that "literature is something more than talking out loud." Literature, to be sure, is something more than narrative, however true.

But we can omit asking that Mr. Haines' stalwart story be literature, and still know that if some one doesn't talk out loud of the things he knows best the rest of us are going to be left with notions about this world remarkable neither for breadth nor accuracy.

Lake Clan to Hold Virginia Reunion

Upperville, Va., Aug. 3.—Descendants of John Lake, who came to Maryland in 1633 from the Isle of Wight and settled in Virginia in 1754, will hold their seventeenth annual reunion at the ancestral home, Lakeland, near Atoka, tomorrow.

The estate was in the family for 175 years, and the present owner grants the privilege of allowing the "gathering of the clan" each year. Gen. H. Oden Lake, president of the clan, will preside. It is expected that many descendants of the family, who later settled in Illinois, Ohio, Missouri, Oklahoma, Wisconsin, Texas and California, will be present. A 175-page genealogy, compiled by the clan historian, will be presented for publication.

Another Letter From a Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

My dear Louise: Yesterday the newspapers quoted some college professor's statement that young men in search of brides no longer expect or demand chastity. They are satisfied with second-hand goods.

I suppose you read the story. So long as newspapers print such things, young people will see no harm in reading them. And the simple, at least, will believe what they read and cut the pattern of their lives to fit it.

I can't make you believe or disbelieve anything, more's the pity, but I can at least urge you to use your own common sense in measuring the worth of what others say.

If the quality of peaches is in dispute, which man will you believe: the one who has bought and sampled them, or the one who has them to sell?

If a wreck is under discussion, whose testimony will you accept: that of the driver who did the damage, or that of disinterested witnesses?

It isn't enough to analyze a man's statement. You must also examine his reason for making it.

The gentleman who said that men no longer care about virtuous brides is 70 years old.

Do you thnik his testimony worth anything? Of course he doesn't care about his chastity of brides. He doesn't care about a bride, either.

But 50 years ago, when his mind was filled with high ideals and his veins with the hot blood of a jealous male, the very thought of being second in his bride's experience would have sickened him.

One of the authorities says love is mere animal lust and fidelity to a mate unreasonable. He means his kind of love is like that. He was unfaithful to his wife and she quit him.

Lecherous old bachelors will testify that purity is out of fashion and much-divorced men will declare that trial marriages are necessary.

But who cares what they think? If you would know what recent boys think of feminine purity, ask decent boys. If you would know what kind of marriage is successful, ask those who have made a success of it.

Everybody is full of opinions, good and bad, and you must listen with a grain of salt handy. If you would learn to drive safely, don't consult the fellow who has never driven or the one who wrecks his cars. Love, DAD.

Church Leaders Will Address Bible Sessions

Conference to Start at Massanetta Springs August 13.

Harrisonburg, Va., Aug. 3 (AP).—Outstanding leaders in the principal Protestant churches will speak on the program of the Bible Conference at Massanetta Springs near here August 13 to 26.

Sessions devoted to discussions of moral and social problems and a conference for elders and deacons will be held also.

Among speakers on the first week's program are Dr. James Black, pastor of the St. John's United Free Church, Edinburgh, Scotland; Dr. Walter L. Lingle, president of Davidson College, former moderator of the Presbyterian Church; Dr. S. L. Joekel, professor of English Bible in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Austin, Tex.; Dr. J. R. Cunningham, president of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

Miss Yosko Saito, well-known Japanese singer, will be at the camp August 15 to 17.

On the second week's program will be Dr. William Evans, termed by conference leaders as one of the Nation's ablest Bible teachers; Dr. Frederick Norwood, pastor of the City Temple in London; Dr. William L. Stidger, pastor of the Copley Methodist Church, Boston; Dr. Clovis G. Chappell, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Birmingham, Ala.; Dr. S. D. Gordon, well-known lecturer; Dr. Will H. Houghton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, New York; Page McK. Etchison, religious work secretary in the Young Men's Christian Association, Washington; Dr. L. E. Smith, president of Elon College; Dr. Clyde A. Lynch, president of Lebanon Valley College, and Dr. Frederick Burnham, pastor of the Seventh Street Christian Church, Richmond.

In addition there will be special lectures on international friendship and world relations.

More Funds Asked For Va. Prisoners

Leaders Say 51 Cents a Day Not Enough.

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—Prison officials today asked the Governor to allow about $12,000 a year additional for maintenance of vocational training of the 110 inmates of the Industrial Farm for Women near Goochland Courthouse.

Walker C. Cottrell, chairman of the prison board, and Maj. Rice M. Youell, penitentiary superintendent, told Gov. Peery that about 30 cents a day additional per capita was needed.

Mr. Cottrell said that the present per diem allowance of 51 cents is insufficient and urged that at least 80 cents be provided. He said the woman's farm, allowed no special appropriation by the last General Assembly, was being supported on the same per capita allowance as the jails.

Test of Milk Law Handed to Staples

Virginia Board to Keep Up Enforcement.

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—The State milk commission today turned over to the attorney general all details of litigation in the test of the new milk law now pending and announced it will not relax enforcement of the law while the case is in progress.

Attorney General Staples said he is studying procedure and expects to press for action. The commission urged him to act as speedily as possible. The case is being brought by milk interests in Staunton.

Meanwhile the commission is going ahead with preparation of agreements before it for the Newport News and Charlottesville areas.

Bridge Plans Opposed.

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—Objections to the plans of receivers for the Seaboard Air Line Railway Co. to reconstruct at a cost of more than $160,000 the James River railroad bridge just below Mayos Island was raised by the City of Richmond today at a public hearing held by Army engineers.

Goldsborough, Leaders Confer At Cambridge

Cambridge, Md., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough returned home today and carried his campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor of Maryland into the county which he left 23 years ago to become the chief executive of the State. He was the sixth son that Dorchester County placed in the gubernatorial chair.

He received a warm reception today by Republicans and Democrats.

After conferring with leaders in Cambridge, the Senator and his party made a tour of the county, spending the morning visiting Wingate, Bishopshead and Crocheron, where they were entertained at a seafood dinner. In the afternoon the party visited Vienna, East New Market, Hurlock and other places in upper Dorchester.

Suggestions Made.

The former Governor made suggestions for better roads here. He made no criticism of State roads, but thought more attention should be paid impassible thoroughfares over marsh territory.

While in Cambridge, Senator Goldsborough called up Col. Albanus Phillips, Republican leader, who is looked upon as a possible candidate for State comptroller. He served on the Governor's staff when Goldsborough was Governor from 1911 to 1915. Col. Phillips assured him of his support.

Others who offered to help with the campaign were:

Sate's Attorney James A. McCallister, himself a candidate for judge of the First judicial district; Fred R. Waddell, of Hurlock; B. O. Murphy, of Bishopshead, and Emory Clarsh, of Cambridge, members of the State Republican central committee; County Commissioners Donald Richardson, of Church Creek, and Levin Mowbray, of Cambridge; A. W. Murphy, secretary; Judge J. Holiday Murphy, Fred Stevens, Wiliam T. Sibbet, J. Holiday Warfield and William Lloyd.

Holds Conference.

After shaking hands with about 1,000 persons, Senator Goldsborough conferred with party leaders tonight at Oakley Beach Hotel. He said that he had decided to become a candidate after carefully considering the situation. He assured his supporters that he is in the fight to stay. He also expressed gratitude at the reception accorded him in the State. He predicted that he would win.

The Senator's campaign in Dorchester was preceded by that of Dr. Charles H. Conely, of Frederick, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor. He toured Dorchester Wednesday.

Car Works Closed Since '31 to Open

Richmond Plant Will Use 350 Employes.

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—The Richmond Car Works, closed since 1931, will be reopened early next month, C. A. Liddle, of Chicago, president of the Standard Steel Car Corporation, which owns the Richmond plant, announced today. The plant will employ 350 workers.

The plant will be reopened to construct 300 freight cars for the Seaboard, involving an expenditure of between $800,000 and $700,000.

238 Working on Roads In Frederick County

Winchester, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—About 238 persons are employed on the secondary roads of Frederick County, G. P. Bozel, resident engineer, said today.

A small bridge is being built on the Back Mountain road, route 600, and a crew is widening and grading Middle road, a north-south route.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

By H. I. Phillips.

Treatise on Yacht Clubs.

A yacht club is a small body of boat owners entirely surrounded by landlubbers, who sit in green rocking chairs wondering what it is all about.

• • • •

Half of 1 per cent of the members of the modern Indoor Yacht Club own boats. These members chain their boats in front of the clubhouse and spend the entire summer going back and forth between their yachts and the club by rowboat or power dinghy. They seem never to tire of doing this. At the end of each season a pewter cup is given the yachtsman who has made the greatest number of nonstop trips between the float and his craft.

• • • •

Once in a great while some yachtsman, after rowing to his yacht, unhitches the thing, hoists sail, cranks the engine and starts away. Members of the Rocking Chair Fleet, startled by the spectacle of a yacht really under way, report the incident to the board of governors. Whereupon the other yacht owners hop into their white pants, grab their binoculars, dash to their own yachts and start in pursuit, determined to find out where the missing yachtsman is going. This is called a cruise.

• • • •

A yacht club is one of the few institutions of modern civilization opened and closed by gunfire. Every yacht club has as one of its indispensable possessions a small brass cannon. This is fired twice a day and serves, among other things, to let the world know that the club is still solvent. One shot is fired at 8 o'clock every morning. This notifies the seven or eight men aboard boats that another day has rolled around.

• • • •

For visiting yachtsmen it is the first call for aromatic spirits.

• • • •

The second shot is fired at sunset. This notifies the entire membership that each member is a day older and that all drinking from that hour on comes under the head of regular evening business.

• • • •

How to Become a Commodore.

The active head of a yacht club is called a commodore. A commodore is a cross between a humidor and a matador. He has to be kept damp like a humidor and bullthrowing like a matador.

• • • •

Being a commodore entitles you to wear a motorman's coat, white duck pants and a cap with monogram, wreath and flags on it.

• • • •

In most clubs a commodore's boat must draw at least seven feet of water and the commodore must draw at least six feet of gin.

• • • •

Yachtsmen also use flags or pennants for communication purposes. No yacht is complete without a chest of flags. Nobody knows exactly what any combination of flags means, but the skipper who hangs them up is sure to get an answer. The code runs something like this:

Blue flag with red circle hung above white flag with green star: "I am coming aboard."

Six purple flags under three white flags: "The owner is in no condition to know whether he is aboard or ashore."

State Division Notices Rise in Food Prices

Richmond, Aug. 3 (AP).—The State division of purchases reported today that prices of food supplies used by State institutions are 10 to 15 per cent higher now than they were in August of last year.

The prices, however, were said to have changed only slightly since January, when the State institutions were given their budget allowances.

Three Possible Senate Candidates Mentioned

Increased Power Supply Is Urged for Danville

Danville, Va., Aug. 3 (AP).—Engineers surveying Danville's electric power facilities yesterday reported the reliable capacity of the present steam plant will be exceeded soon. They recommended increase of the power supply without delay. Water condensing conditions make it impractical to enlarge the present plant, they said.

Daily Talk About Books and Authors.

"Great Expectations."

In the House of Commons last spring, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the cabinet member in charge of the budget, made an optimistic speech, and said "England has changed from Bleak House to Great Expectations." When I mentioned this remark to H. G. Wells, as an illustration how often quotations from standard literature are made in Parliament, he reminded me smilingly that in the famous novel referred to, the great expectations were not realized.

However, this may be, "Great Expectations," though shorter than most of its author's novels, is one of the finest works in English literature. For some reason it is not so often read or by so many people as some other works of Dickens that are not its equal. I think the first chapter of "Great Expectations" is the finest beginning that can be found in the master's complete works.

Like "David Copperfield," the story is told in the first person, and also in the early part, is told by a small boy. It is remarkable that these two boys, David and Pip, are presented with such reality and vividness, and yet have hardly anything in common except their defenseless boyhood. Dickens defended the dignity of a small boy's personality; he showed how a child was at the mercy of its elders, and the manner in which those who were older and stronger and more cunning, took advantage of his weakness and ignorance.

Furthermore, in "Great Expectations" the simple-minded Joe Gargery is one of the most beautiful characters Dickens ever created; of such is the kingdom of heaven. Only it is pleasant in this instance to see him rewarded on earth by the incomparable Biddy.

"David Copperfield" is to a certain extent corrupted by Steerforth; that is, he falls under the spell of that glamorous personality. Pip is corrupted by the glamour of money, and is saved from final wreckage by the narrowest chance.

Just after beginning its composition in 1860, Dickens wrote, "The book will be written in the first person throughout, and during these first three weekly numbers you will find the hero to be a boy-child, like David. Then he will be an apprentice. You will not have to complain of the want of humor, as in the 'Tale of Two Cities.' . . . To be quite sure I had fallen into no unconscious repetitions, I read 'David Copperfield' again the other day, and was affected by it to a degree you would hardly believe."

The river, as so often in Dickens' stories, plays an important part; and before writing the last chapter of the capture, Dickens, on May 22, 1861, hired a small steamer, invited a party of friends to accompany him, and spent the whole day on the Thames. He seemed to be having a glorious outing, without a care in the world; but he was really observing so as to have that chapter correct in every detail.

Camp Meets In Full Swing

Thousands Attracted to Maryland, Delaware Revivals.

Baltimore, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Camp meeting time in Maryland and Delaware is in full swing, and despite the competition offered by movies, dance halls and beaches, the gatherings continue to attract thousands of worshippers.

In the horse-and-buggy days, the camp meetings were in their prime, and used to draw visitors from miles around. When automobiles became popular, interest appeared to decline and some of the camps were abandoned. But in recent years they have staged a vigorous comeback, and the churches sponsoring them credit the automobile for the change. They say people can flock to the camps from far distant points now that motor cars offer easier and faster transportation than the horse-drawn vehicles used to.

Near Baltimore, the famed Emory Grove camp is drawing thousands nightly. It is at Glyndon, Baltimore County, a few miles north of the city. Sunday's morning speaker will be the Rev. E. T. Mowbray, secretary of the City Missionary Society. In the afternoon the Rev. Dr. Edgar C. Powers will preach, and at night, the Rev. Dr. King D. Beach.

On the Eastern Shore, camps in operation include Jones' Camp, sometimes called Epworth Camp, near Georgetown, Del.; Elwood Camp, just off the Easton-Salisbury highway in Maryland; Mount Vernon Camp, near Crisfield, and the Pilgrim Holiness Camp near Denton, Md.

Hebron Camp, in the lower part of the Eastern Shore Peninsula, also is in operation, and Carey's Camp, in Delaware between Millsboro and Gumboro, will open August 11 and continue for ten days. Delmarva Camp, between Laurel and Seafort on the DuPont highway, also will open August 11.

Federal Doctors Aid Fight on Malarial Fever

Elizabeth City, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Red Cross nurses and United States Public Health Service doctors have arrived in Camden County to assist local authorities in their battle against blackwater, or malaria fever.

There have been five deaths to date, and 56 patients are still ill. Dr. W. L. Stevens, county health officer, reports improvement among a number of the patients. There have been no deaths since Sunday, but six new cases were reported today.

Such a large proportion of those who have been pictured by Mr. Robles have asked for the originals that The Washington Post is saving all these drawings to honor the requests of any future members of "The National Gallery."

Third Union Body Uncovered by CCC

Remains to Be Buried With Two Others Aug. 12.

Fredericksburg, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Uncovered on the Chancellorsville battlefield by CCC men working in the Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania County National Military Park, the body of a third unknown Civil War soldier will be given final resting place August 12, when two soldiers recently discovered will be buried in the National Cemetery with military honors.

Discovery of the third soldier, brought here yesterday by James Corbin, superintendent of the Chancellorsville CCC camp, was announced today by National Park officials. Decorations still discernable indicated he also was a Union soldier, probably a member of some Zouave regiment.

Participating in the ceremonies August 12 will be representatives of the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, United Daughters of the Confederacy and other patriotic organizations. Plans also are being made to bring at least one Confederate veteran for the rites.

Labor Board Ends Strike in Hopewell, Va.

Also Hopes to Settle Minneapolis Truck Walkout Soon.

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday completed drawing up a tentative policy of procedure within its organization, and at the same time announced it had brought about an agreement in the Hopewell (Va.) rayon strike and was "hopeful" the Minneapolis truck drivers' walkout would be settled soon.

The strike at the knitting and manufacturing plants of the Tubize-Chatillon Rayon Co. in the little Virginia city has involved 2,000 men and women, and the board said an agreement had been reached following a lengthy hearing.

It was said the company had expressed its willingness to take back strikers in its plants. However, company officials made it clear they intended to abandon the manufacturing plant, leaving only the knitting mill in operation.

Hopeful of Agreement.

Chairman Lloyd Garrison, of the labor board, based his statement concerning the Minneapolis situation on a lengthy telephonic conversation with the Rev. Francis J. Haas, the board's representative in the Minnesota city.

The most difficult problem remaining was reinstatement of the striking truck drivers, he said, adding:

"Father Haas is hopeful of an understanding soon."

The board's procedure policy calls for drastic changes in the scope and activity of the regional labor boards and the formulation of a program designed to speed up labor dispute decisions.

The regional boards, which were set up by the old National Labor Board, will have their designations changed to the United States Relations District Boards, according to the tentative plans, and will be reduced in number from 20 based on cities to 18 based on districts embracing States or parts of States.

Instead of a volunteer unpaid chairman, each board will have a paid regional director, with an associate director or directors and one or more examiners, according to the plan.

Discharge Led to Strike.

Employes of the Tubize-Chatillon Co. went on strike more than a month ago when ten persons were said to have been discharged because of their union activities. Disorders followed the strike edict.

At yesterday's hearing the company and United Textile Workers Local 2170, of Hopewell, presented about 20 witnesses each for or against the charge that the 8 men and 2 women had been dismissed because they belonged to the union. It also was charged that an employes' organization was in reality a company union and not an organization conceived by the workers themselves, as the company claims.

Chairman Garrison, in announcing an agreement had been reached, said the board would determine whether any of the ten discharged workers were let out "unlawfully." The board also is to conduct an election to determine who shall represent the workers in collective bargaining.

To Sit as Court.

The board, according to its tentative policy, intends to sit as a supreme court of labor and will limit its function strictly to judicial decisions on 7(a) cases, based upon the facts or recommendations gathered by and passed upon from the district boards. Contrary to previous practice, the district boards will make no decisions.

It was said that in exceptional cases the National agency also may mediate, but arguments before it will be based strictly on facts supplied by the district boards and their examiners, and only the district boards will hear witnesses.

Under the new policy, the National board will seek to obtain compliance by prompt removal of the NRA's Blue Eagle rather than by the long and costly processes of the courts, although some cases will be referred to the Department of Justice.

It was explained that the board was aware of the recent labor criticism concerning delay in the courts and feels that unless court action was swift no advantage would be gained in the adjudication of section 7 (a) through legal channels.

The board's policy holds that the work of mediation by the district boards must not be curtailed but strengthened, in cooperation with the Labor Department.

Procedure Is Outlined.

It is suggested that in cases not involving section 7 (a), the conciliator of the Labor Department shall take initial action, and if his efforts are unavailing they shall be referred to the appropriate regional board for further attempt at mediation.

If the regional board fails, nothing further is to be done unless the case is one of National importance, and then the National board may investigate the issues or a special committee or a board may be appointed for that purpose by the President or the Secretary of Labor.

If the case involves section 7 (a), the district board will assume original jurisdiction. The National board states that "delay is fatal to the effective handling of section 7 (a) cases," and adds:

"The longer men who have been discharged for union activity remain out of work the more difficult becomes the task of procuring their reinstatement, both because of the intervening of employment of new men and the problem of back pay. Moreover, delay in the ultimate decision of section 7 (a) cases is discouraging to labor and frequently leads to strikes while the men are awaiting some action.

"Hence it is suggested that section 7 (a) ought not to pass through three successive agencies, but should be confined to the regional boards in the first instance and to the National board for ultimate decision where a settlement is not reached."

D. C. Society Will Witness Expert Polo

Famous Mexican Army Team Will Appear Here Next Month.

President and Other Officials to View Contests.

There is nothing more thrilling than the thudding of hoofs and the resounding crack of mallet on ball when eight spirited mounts, their muscles rippling under satin coats, enthusiastically join their riders in playing that game which has a place in the heart of every American—polo.

International polo matches have long been connected with the Meadow Brook Club, on Long Island, where members of smart society and horse lovers have gathered to witness one of the most thrilling sports where horse and rider are as one. Polo enthusiasts will find that the scene has changed to the Potomac Park, in Washington, for that is where a series of games will be played next month when the world famous Mexican Army team will vie for first place honors with the United States Army crack team.

Committee Entertains.

Thursday evening the International Polo Committee entertained at a delightful dinner on the roof of the Army and Navy Club to discuss plans for this coming event, which will be of National interest. Members of Washington society will remember the days following the war when every Thursday and Saturday the outstanding teams played at the polo grounds, the gathering place for handsome men in uniforms representing their country escorting charming ladies gowned in the latest fashion, who strolled along the edge of the field watching the display of superb horsemanship.

Usually on the stroke of 3 o'clock the late President Woodrow Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson handsomely gowned and wearing a large corsage of orchids, would arrive and the Marine Band, respelendent in their blue and scarlet uniforms, would strike up the "Star-Spangled Banner," bringing thousands of spectators to attention.

Then Game Began.

After this the game commenced and as it progressed and goal flags were waved to note the rising score, the enthusiasm grew. If some player was unfortunate to miss his play at the ball a cry would rise from the polo loving fans, "Back to the wooden horse," which was a criticism that every player tried to avoid.

So it is that these days will live again from September 19 through September 26 when the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, heads of foreign missions representing their countries, and Capital society will occupy seats on the new stands which will be built on the field shortly.

It was quite appropriate that at the dinner Thursday evening the guests were seated at a horseshoe table which was attractively decorated with midsummer flowers. Among the ranking guests were the Military Attache of the Mexican Embassy, Brig. Gen. Juan F. Azcarate Pino; Brig. Gen. William E. Horton, who was toastmaster; Mr. Edward Reed, chief of the Division of Mexican Affairs of the State Department; Col. Kenyon A. Joyce, commandant of Fort Myer; Lieut. Col. George S. Patton, jr., and Mr. J. C. Holmes, of the State Department.

Juvenile Work Leaders Asked To Attend Play

Many Accept Invitations to See "Alice in Wonderland."

The summertime beauty of the National Sylvan Theater at the Washington Monument will be the scene of a delightful presentation of drama and fun when the Community Players will give a revival of their last summer's delightful "Alice in Wonderland" on Wednesday and Thursday nights at 8 o'clock.

The interest in the forthcoming version of the Lewis Carroll classic, has made it necessary to add the Thursday performance to that originally announced for Wednesday.

The summer festival committee will have as its guests on the opening night the representatives of the juvenile and recreation agencies and organizations which on Friday evening participated in the annual Juvenile Festival on the Sylvan stage. Among those who have accepted the invitation for the opening performance Wednesday night are Mrs. Herbert E. Day, of the Young Women's Christian Association; Miss Lena Barghausen, of Neighborhood House; Miss Sibyl Baker, of the Municipal Playgrounds; Mrs. Gerritt Miller, jr., of the Girl Scouts; Miss Anderson, of Friendship House; Col. E. R. Mattice, of Boy Scouts, and Maj. James E. Asher, of the Salvation Army.

Mrs. Lucretia Walker Hardy, acting chairman of the summer festival committee will be assisted by Mrs. John Albert Hunter, and by the Community Players and members of the Players Club, serving as ushers, and by Girl Scouts, directed by Miss Virginia Hammerly, and Boy Scouts from various troops. It is expected that Sea Scouts under the direction of Capt. A. J. Larson, will likewise be present.

The Washington "tabloid version" of "Alice in Wonderland" was arranged by Miss Bess Davis Schriener especially for production at the Sylvan Theater here, and its instant success at that time and since, has caused the summer festival committee to invite the Community Players who originally produced it to play it again this week. Mrs. Clara Moran Bernheimer, well-known Washington musician and pianist, working with Miss Schreiner, made the musical setting for the fantasy and will play it at both performances.

Miss Patricia Menela has as her guets at the Wardman Park Hotel her mother, Mrs. C. de Mencia, who arrived in Washington last week from her home in Havana, Cuba, to spend some time here.

Mr. Clarence Aspinwall will leave Washington today for Watertown, Conn., and with Mrs. Aspinwall will sail on Wednesday for Europe. They will spend some time on the continent and in Russia before returning to this coutry.

Mrs. Ralph Modjeski and her daughter, Mrs. A. W. Bowie, with the latter's son, Mr. Christian Bowie, are spending a few days at the Shoreham before going to New York State to pass the rest of the summer. Mrs. Modjeski came down from New York to join Mrs. Bowie, who has closed her home here for a few months.

Seminary Hill Wedding Is of Interest Here

Mrs. Lucy Winifred Beers Becomes Bride of Mr. Greenleaf.

A wedding of interest to Washington society took place yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. Lucy Winifred Beers became the bride of Mr. Sydnie Arthur Greenleaf at a simple ceremony performed at Seminary Hill by the Rev. Pierce Ellis in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends.

The bride wore a princess gown of shell-pink organdie lace and a small tulle hat.

Mrs. William Matthew Granger, mother of the bride, was attired in black sheer crepe and lace. Following the ceremony a reception was held. Later Mr. Greenleaf and his bride left by boat for Norfolk, the latter wearing a smart sports suit of white with navy blue accessories. After a short motor trip through the South they will be at home at Seminary Hill, Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Greenleaf is a descendant of John Hancock, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, on her mother's side, and through her father she is related to former Postmaster General Gideon Granger. She has spent several years abroad.

Mr. Greenleaf, who is a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserves, is now engaged in radio engineering at the Naval Research Laboratory.

Mr. and Mrs. Hitt Visiting Newport

Will Spend Week-End at Wrentham House.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reynolds Hitt, left New York yesterday for Newport, R. I., where they will spend the week-end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Clark, at Wrentham House, their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will entertain at dinner Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who returned from their wedding trp several weeks ago.

Mrs. Hitt before her marriage a few years ago was Miss Evelyn B. Clark, and Mr. Hitt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. R. Hitt, formerly made his home in Washington with his parents.

Culbertson on Bridge

A Sound Defensive Play.

One of the old maxims which have come down from the early days of Whist is "Never lead up to strength." This maxim is undoubtedly very sound. However, there is no rule that should not be broken at some time or other. In Contract Bridge "never say 'never.'"

In today's hand the East player found that the only way of defeating the opposing game contract was by making what would seem to the casual observer the worst possible lead.

East, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

East	South	West	North
1◇	1♡	Pass	1NT(1)
2♣(2)	2NT(3)	Pass	4♡(4)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A distinct underbid by North. North should have bid three hearts. Just why he chose one notrump I can not say—he was probably a victim of the well-known notrump complex.

2—Another bad bid. East in this position should pass and hope to penalize the opponents. There is no point in showing the four-card club suit.

3—A third bad bid. South had just about enough strength to make his vulnerable Overcall a sound one. He should not make a bid at this point, but if he does insist on bidding he should double for a penalty. South, however, was anxious to tell his partner of the club stopper, despite the fact that the distribution of his hand would seem to make a notrump contract inadvisable.

4—After all the bad bidding, North and South finally do get to the correct final contract. This last bid by North is, of course, correct. If anything, it is slightly conservative after his partner's two-notrump bid.

West opened his fourth best card of East's first-bid suit—the diamond 3. The Declarer went up with the King in Dummy, forcing East to win with the Ace, in an effort to make it easier for East to continue the suit. Obviously, a diamond continuation is exactly what South wants. East, however, quite correctly chose to believe his partner's fourth best lead and decided that a second diamond lead would be futile. From the bidding he decided that the Declarer very probably had four clubs to the Jack-Ten, and that these clubs, after being set up, could be used for spade discards in Dummy.

East, of course, knew that to defeat the contract four tricks would be needed. He already had one diamond trick and the certainty of being able to win two club tricks. From the bidding the South player was marked with the Ace and King of hearts, and the only hope of finding a fourth trick lay in the spade suit. Obviously, a spade trick had to be set up as soon as possible before South could set up his clubs. East saw that to set up a spade trick his partner would have to have the Jack of that suit, and although the Declarer should have this card from the bidding, East decided that South had obviously overbid so much as it was that he might just as well have overbid a little more. At Trick 2, therefore, East promptly returned his deuce of spades—right up to Dummy's Ace-Queen—for he knew that if his partner did not hold the Jack the contract could not be defeated, anyway.

The spade lead was won with Dummy's Queen and after the trumps were drawn East was put in with the King of clubs. Now, holding equals in the spade suit, the East player very promptly set up a spade trick for himself, and when he got in with his Ace of clubs he was able to cash it and set the contract. Any other return at Trick 2 but a spade would have made four hearts an absolute lay-down for North and South.

Benefit Musical Play Given in Marshall

Marshall, Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—"Miss Blue Bonnet," musical comedy with a chorus of 40 girls, was given here tonight for the benefit of the Marshall Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, of which Miss Geneva Batty is president.

Miss LaNelle Ferguson directed and Miss Lelia Purdue, Roland Shite, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Herrell, Harvey Ashby and Miss Alice Virginia Maddux were in the cast. Mrs. T. H. Maddux, jr., was the accompanist.

The performance is to be repeated tomorrow night.

Miss Wilson Now Bride of Mr. Reynolds

Ceremony Is Performed in Indianapolis July 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Clymer Wilson, of North Cleveland Park, announces the marriage of their daughter, Miss Virginia Barclay Wilson, to Mr. J. David Reynolds, of Nebraska and Washington, which took place Saturday, July 28, in Indianapolis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Allen were the only attendants. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to 14 guests at the Severn Roof Garden.

The bride studied at Cornell and George Washington Universities. She is a graduate of the Wilson Teachers' College and Western High School and is the president of Alpha Theta Chi Sorority and is also a member of the Pen and Pallette and Research Clubs.

The bridegroom is a member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity. He is a graduate of the National Law School and George Washington University. He is a member of the District Bar Association and is now connected with the Department of Justice.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will be at home in St. Louis, Mo.

Club to Hold Dinner And Dance Tonight

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas T. Keller and members of their bridge club will meet at the Shoreham for dinner and dancing this evening. The party will be in the nature of a farewell to Mrs. L. H. Mattingly, who will leave Monday with her daughter, Joan, for Boston.

Others in the group will be Miss Edith Keneipp, Miss Dorothy Keneipp, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Genau, Mr. Charles Erissman, Mr. James Healen and Mr. L. H. Mattingly.

Early Trials Are Stepping Stones to Success for Women Choosing Career in Middle Age

When Opportunity Came, Widow of County Judge in Illinois Did Not Fear Her Age Was Barrier to Good Writing.

"No woman is ever wise or good until destiny has subdued her by grinding her fondest hopes into the dust," once said a philosopher. Was he right? Perhaps. And perhaps this accounts for the fact so many women achieve success in later life, when wisdom—born only of years—has reached its blooming time.

This might explain, too, why so many women launching careers after 40 are successful.

But what of the woman who has passed the half century mark? When she seeks a career, are the odds against her too heavy?

This is the last in a series of articles about women who have achieved distinction in careers begun at middle age.

By Hope Ridings Miller.

But he astonished the literary world at 65 with "Joseph Vance," a novel begun when he was 61. Life for him, then, began when he was well over the much-discussed age of four times ten.

Are there women who could be placed in the same class? Are there any who have won acclaim, if not at 60, at least beyond the half-century milestone?

Gertrude Jekyll did. A successful painter, she abandoned the palette and brush at 56 for a career as writer. Between 56 and 75 she wrote a dozen books approved by literary critics and widely read.

Studies Medicine.

Dr. Antoinette White is another belonging to this group. After 30 years as a school mistress, she decided to study medicine. While attending college in her youth she had completed a premedical course, but her dream of becoming a physician had to be deferred because of financial reverses.

At 57, however, she had the opportunity to study medicine and emerged from a professional school at 61, a full-fledged physician. Now, 15 years later, she is conducting a successful practice in the Middle West.

Ettie Stephens Prichard was a decade and a half past the half-century mark last year when her career as a writer began. Since then a series of stories based on her childhood have appeared in a number of magazines. In addition, she has written two novels, the first of which, "Old Farm," was published yesterday. The other, already accepted, will be published later.

Wanted to Write.

"You know it's odd, but I wanted to write all my life," said Mrs. Prichard shortly after her first stories had been accepted. "So when my husband died and I wanted to get away for a time from my memories, my daughter and I decided to take a writing course at Columbia."

Her first narrative for the course, a story about a pioneer child called "Dood," was printed in the Columbia literary monthly, MS., with the result she was soon signing a contract for a series of stories to be published in Delineator.

Before 65, Mrs. Prichard's life was not unlike that of the average Middle Western homemaker. The wife of a county judge in Illinois, she scribbled narratives for her children and hid them away in cupboards and behind books in the library, never believing they were good enough to show to anybody or to send to a publisher. Yet, though her life at that time offered no opportunity for its realization, she cherished the desire to write stories good enough to be shown to friends and, perhaps, published.

Didn't Worry About Age.

When her opportunity came she lost no time considering whether age is a barricade, but charted her course straight toward the fulfillment of her dream.

Wisely, she selected as material for her stories incidents in her own childhood, spent on a Middle Western farm on the direct line of the covered wagon trek to Kansas and Nebraska.

"Through devious ways I have journeyed," she wrote in one of her articles centered around her experiences, "dreaming dreams that somehow never seemed to reach fulfillment. But now I know all my experiences have been of consequence. That they have given me an inexhaustible storehouse of memories for material. That age is no barrier and places no limitations upon achievement.

Trials Are Stepping Stones.

"Cheer up! All you passing through hardships. Trials may be only stepping stones for a richer and more varied experience. You, too, may write a book, paint a picture, carve a statue, build a new life."

Considering the laurels she has won since 65, is it surprising Mrs. Prichard regards age as no handicap? Now, with two books and a number of colorful stories to her credit she is still working, still climbing toward the heights.

Her experience and that of others would seem, then, to prove this is not entirely a "youth's world," that a woman's chance for success in any line of endeavor can not be measured by years.

When, after all, should a career begin?

The experience of Mrs. Alice Foote McDougall in the coffee house business, that of Miss Laura Harlan in real estate, that of Julia Peterkin in the realm of literature and of countless other women in virtually every line of endeavor would point to 40 as an appropriate age.

But Ettie Stephens Prichard's career raises the ante on this by 25 years, proving life can begin at 65.

LIFE BEGINS AT 65! It did, at least, for Ettie Stephens Prichard, above, whose childhood experiences in the pioneer Middle West have been turned into a series of short stories and two books within the last 18 months.

PILLAR TO POST

BABY DO TABER, ex-burlesque queen, of Denver, whose wedding here to Senator Taber was attended by President Harrison, was photographed on the streets of the Colorado city recently wearing an old black sunbonnet.

* * * *

She still lives in the rude cabin on the Matchless Mine property, resisting all who threaten to dispossess her by flourishing a revolver. Before her husband died many years ago he told her never to part with the Matchless Mine property and, although it was heavily mortgaged and finally sold over her head, the ex-Senator's wife continues to live there all alone.

* * * *

Not long ago community relief agents visited her and found her almost asphyxiated on the floor of the cabin with smoke from the stove pouring into the room, because the pipe leading to the chimney had decayed and fallen away. After reviving her they offered to remove her to more comfortable quarters, but she became violent and ordered them off "my property."

H. A. W. TABER was originally the keeper of a general store in California Gulch near Leadville. Two prospectors, whose credit had run out, asked him to grubstake them, with the usual offer of giving him in return a third interest in any ore they might strike. He agreed and supplied them with a jug of whisky in addition to the provisions.

* * * *

The two men left and going not far away, they settled down to enjoy the whisky. Afterward they decided that they ought to dig a hole right on the spot so that Taber would not think that they were playing in bad faith with him. To their great astonishment they had the good luck to strike a rich vein just below the surface. That was the beginning of the Taber fortune.

* * * *

He soon bought out his two improvident associates and after he became powerful politically he gave one of them a job cutting the court house lawn.

HE built an opera house in Leadville and one in Denver that is now the "Silver Dollar" moving picture palace. He supplied the Elks Club with a solid silver elk to decorate their quarters.

* * * *

His own house contained not only silver bric-a-brac and silver dinner services but silver furniture as well. He climaxed his career by being made a Senator and divorcing his wife.

* * * *

Baby Do left burlesque in Denver to follow him here and they were married with many dignitaries of the Harrison Administration attending the ceremonies, including the President himself. The reception was notable for lavish expenditure.

* * * *

THE couple had a daughter whom they named "Silver Dollar." Then the tide of his fortune turned and gradually all ebbed away through poor investments. He was defeated for reelection to the Senate and before he died was a postmaster in a small town in Colorado, a position that approximated where he had started years before in California Gulch.

* * * *

* * * *

Many of the people who had made their money in the mines around Leadville attended the premier of "Silver Dollar" in Denver a couple of years ago, and the press agent tried to persuade Baby Do to attend also. But she chased him away from her cabin on the "Matchless Mine" with a gun.

Miss Babcock Again Nearing Tennis Honor

Explains Victory Over Helen Jacobs Due to All-Court Game.

By Ware Torrey and Janet Owen.

"I AM playing an all-court game this season," Carolin Babcock says, in explaining the plan of campaign that gave her victory over Helen Jacobs last Saturday in the Sea Bright Tennis Tournament.

No matter how hard it rains, when the fifth ranking player beats the National champion, 6—4, 6—2, it's worth a wetting. Miss Babcock not only had a brilliant command of her strokes, but played a canny and strategic game. Helen Jacobs was off her game, bothered by the weather, and planned badly.

Two points gained, as a working basis to predict the future, are—another proof that Miss Jacobs relies on her defensive game, and an index that Miss Babcock is back in line again playing the sort of game she used to in 1932.

Two years ago Carolin Babcock was in the National final. Last year she was stopped early by Baroness Maud Levi, No. 7. Her feat last week-end may be taken as indication that she is most decidely on the upward path once more.

Miss Babcock's decision to use a net attack, last week, and the fine-edged polish of her chop and backhand, were important points in her victory.

Miss Babcock comments on Saturday's match: "Playing conditions were very unfavorable, and I was fortunate enough to be able to reach the net before Miss Jacobs, where I attacked constantly."

Her control and her whole psychological attitude were strongly in her favor. Miss Jacobs, on the other hand, was definitely placed at a disadvantage by both rain and thunder. Her reaction to unfavorable conditions in this instance has an antecedent in the French hard court championship, when Miss Jacobs, playing in the final against Margaret Scriven, who eventually defeated her, protested against continuing the match in the twilight.

TAKING HER RACQUET in her hand, Carolin Babcock, above, went out last Saturday and stopped Helen Jacobs in the Sea-bright tennis tournaments. Her net attack and the fine-edged polish of her chop and backhand gave her the victory.

International Flavor Seasons U. S. Styles

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP).—American design has gone international in the fall collections, and in addition has dipped into painting and the Napoleonic wars.

The dress silhouette is frankly French, but the new tunic suits and tall black turbans of Persian lamb have a Russian air. Tweeds and daytime coats take their trend from British fashion and hats use Spanish colors.

Most of the designers agree that Paris sets the silhouette style, but even this concession is refused by several leaders of the rapidly advancing American design movement.

Praise for Paris Disapproved.

For example, when a New York millinery stylist, Marian Valle, returned from Paris recently and said, "American women would be dowds if it weren't for Paris," a chorus of disapproval sounded.

"Paris has been copying us for three years," exclaimed Maybelle Manning, Park avenue designer. "Our screen stars set styles in Europe."

She added that Fifth avenue's American-outfitted women are the best dressed women in the world, and that French women "just buy a good hat."

Rich, Formal Fabrics Used.

A distinctive American note was his use of rich, formal fabrics in a casual sports way. Several gold lame and coppery metal dinner dresses had almost a shirtmaker air at the top—a short sleeve with cuffs, a little round collar and buttons down the front.

In showing a black jacket and metal-topped dress ensemble, he said, "This is the only type dress I know that a woman can wear from business and look smart at the restaurant hour."

He also said, "I think salmon pinks and whites are out for evening, and that gowns will be subdued."

School Rule Of Children's Movies Urged

MOTION pictures for the recreation and instruction of youth "should be produced, distributed and exhibited by educators, dramatists and playwrights of professional standing," leaders of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers announced yesterday.

Recommendation was also made that "local boards of education be made responsible for providing and administering leisure-time activities for children.

Other objectives set forth were:

To secure suitable motion pictures for instruction, culture and entertainment.

To encourage establishment of motion picture libraries, from which films may be secured for school and community showings.

To extend authority of school boards over leisure-time activities for children.

This BUSINESS of LIVING

By Mary Haworth.

DEAR MISS HAWORTH: Is there any hope of a fellow rebuilding a girl's faith in him, once it has been lost? Two years ago I was going with a wonderful girl, beautiful and of fine character. We loved each other and were happy. Gradually I took up with a fast crowd, to which she didn't belong and to which I didn't want her to belong. We had fewer dates as time went on and then stopped seeing each other altogether, although she never said anything harsh or unfriendly, just seemed kind of disappointed in me.

* * * *

For six months, I haven't seen her, and now I am thoroughly ashamed of myself, would like to drop out of this crowd altogether and go back to her. But I am afraid it's too late. Knowing what I think of my own actions, I can't help but realize what she must think of me by now.

Please give me your best advice. ROGER G.

Perhaps She Has Faith.

DEAR ROGER G.: It may be the girl has more faith in your essential stability of character than you have in her understanding and devotion. These attributes she displayed by not berating and condemning you for your foolhardy and disappointing conduct. She probably saw you as busily sowing your crop of wild oats, and hoped your better nature would eventually assert itself and bring you to a realization of your mistake.

* * * *

Apparently you have come to your senses. Now is the time for a display of courage. Face all your alienated old friends—there must be others than just this girl. Tell them, one and all, that you are back on the straight and narrow path, and proceed to make good your word by living up to it.

Either see or write the girl, and tell her what she means to you. Tell her if she so desires, you will stay away from her until you have proved yourself worthy of her companionship and belief. Explain your absence on the just ground that you felt yourself unworthy to approach her.

* * * *

If you really are sincere in your desire to lead a more temperate and upright life from now on, the truth will soon be manifest to all who are interested in you.

And if the girl really cares for you, there is every chance of your rekindling her faith in you. Women are pathetically prone to believe the best of the men they love.

M. H.

Feminine Sympathy, Justice Must Be Expanded to Solve Servant Problem of Today

By Malvina Lindsay,

TEA TABLE DISCUSSION of the servant problem used to be a joke. Now it has become a tragedy.

". . . and she does everything—positively everything—for $3 a week," are words that resound only too frequently above the olive sandwiches and macaroons.

The "she" in question, recent reports of junior replacement agencies to the Children's Bureau reveal, is more likely than not to be a girl from 14 to 16 years old.

* * * *

Much maudlin sentiment has been expended over the brave way in which the American woman met the depression. But so far little has been said about her heroism in dispensing with her butler, chambermaid and cook and hiring at a pittance an adolescent girl to replace them.

* * * *

The extent to which this practice has grown was brought out in a recent story on the woman's page of The Post. It was shown that in one State alone, New York, housework now represented 79 per cent of the occupational opportunities open to girls from 14 to 16, whereas three years ago it represented 7 per cent.

THE WAY WOMEN HAVE TRAMPLED their weaker sisters under foot in taking to the depression lifeboats is by no means a glorious chapter in their history. Much too numerous have been the instances of well-to-do housewives calling charitable agencies and offering food and lodging to homeless girls, who in return were to perform all the household duties, including laundering and baby tending.

* * * *

Only too frequent, even now, are the boasts of feminine martyrs who are helping their husbands economize by worrying along with $10-a-month girls who "round corners" and are awkward in serving the lobster.

Housewives, it is true, have been no worse than the sweatshop operators who exploited their feminine help. But labor laws and codes have given some protection to the women factory workers. They have given none to the girl in the kitchen.

* * * *

Moreover, women might reasonably be expected to show a little more consideration and fair play for their household employes than might an impersonal factory head for his help. That many of them do is beside the point. The fact remains that women, as a class, have signally failed to meet with justice, intelligence and understanding a problem peculiarly their own—that of household help.

WHY IS THIS SO? Men critics might observe that woman's inhumanity to woman was as old as the race and that women were the champion naggers, browbeaters and penny pinchers of the world.

That is not true. Women, generally speaking, are as kind, as merciful, as sympathetic as men—if not more so. But their kindness too frequently is of the short-range variety. The housewife, particularly, whose interests are centered in her family, will protect her tribal group at the expense of all others.

* * * *

Good wife and mother that she is, she will boast of her frugality in buying two-for-a-dollar house dresses with never a thought of the sweatshop labor that produced them.

She will haggle with an indigent old man until he cuts her yard for 5 cents less than that of her neighbor and then exult that she has an added nickel to put on the grocery bill.

And she will employ cheap help in her kitchen, and in her zeal for housewifery not realize that she may be breaking a human back and a human spirit.

* * * *

Many things might help the domestic service situation. Laws might help, codes might help, training and professional standards might help. But what would help most would be the expansion of feminine sympathy and justice beyond the me-and-mine stage.

ADVICE TO YOUNG WRITERS

IF YOU have hopes of making your living by writing, but are discouraged by a flood of rejection slips, take heart! For the literary ladder can be climbed!

DOROTHEA BRANDE, former managing editor of the Bookman, and herself a writer, probably knows better than most people the hopes and fears that are the daily fare of those who are attemping to break into the magazine field. She has had much to do with the launching on their careers of some of our most prominent literary successes.

IN AN ARTICLE in tomorrow's Sunday Post she has a heart-to-heart talk with the beginner—about his aims and ideals, how he can improve them . . . . and from her wealth of experience tells what he must have to offer if he is to reach his goal. You will find her advice extremely helpful.

Time Means Nothing With Paris Clocks

THE PUBLIC clocks of Paris mock at time, writes a correspondent of the London Sunday Observer. For those fixed on lamp posts in the middle of some of the principal boulevards no longer tell the time, and even those in the postoffices are uncertain.

With bitter irony a member of the municipal council pointed out that since the responsible department repaired the works of the clocks of the Church of Saint-Louis-en l'ile, it has ceased to run, while that of the Church of Saint Gervais has stood at 5 minutes past 1 for months.

The Parisian who does not carry a watch relies on the clocks in the big railroad stations to tell the time. But these clocks are not reliable, for although they are accurate they are kept 2 or 3 minutes in advance of the clocks inside the station for the benefit of tardy train catchers. The big clock on top the Eiffel Tower is correct, but can not be seen except at night.

Many Beauty Aids Require Only Little Effort and Time

By Frances Mangum.

IF THERE was an actual road which led to beauty it would be lined with signboards, giving simple but constructive directions for reaching one's destination. Some of them might read as follows:

A little brilliantine on the eyebrows and eyelashes gives them an intriguing luster. Apply with a tiny swab of cotton wrapped around a toothpick.

Lemon juice and salt is a splendid hand bleach. Squeeze the juice of one lemon, add a teaspoon of salt, stir well, and then rub on the hands. Allow it to remain on about a half-hour then rinse off with warm water. Sallowness and skin blemishes will disappear miraculously.

Once the hair is removed from your legs it is possible to keep them smooth by rubbing them with a piece of pumice stone every day in the bath. Be careful to rub gently!

A fine early morning beverage for keeping a clear complexion may be prepared in the following manner: Cut one grapefruit into a pan of water, boil the mixture for ten minutes and then let it cool; drink a tall glass full and put the rest in the refrigerator for the next morning.

If you want to give the effect of floating along in a fragrant haze put your perfume on the back of the neck.

Buttermilk is an old-fashioned but sure standby for removing freckles. Just wash your face in it morning and night. Allow it to dry on and then rinse off.

A daily eye bath with hot boric acid made up in 10 per cent solution will help banish eye fatigue. Try stimulating the eyes every morning with applications of ice water and following this with eye exercises which consist of rolling the eyes about, looking up and down and around in circles.

Picnic Lunch Worry Ended By Phone Call

By Ruth Anne Davis.

EVEN THE OLD fashioned picnic has gone a trifle de luxe. Instead of rising with the chickens and busying about in the kitchen frying chicken, making sandwiches and churning ice cream, we pile out of bed half an hour before time to leave, call a certain number, and put in our order. As soon as we're dressed, we drive by and pick it up—a picnic by prescription.

There are seven picnic lunches from which to choose. The first one, which is 45 cents, consists of ham, cream cheese and olive, or a raw vegetable sandwich, deviled egg, sweet pickle chips, and for dessert, layer cake, cookies or fruit cup.

Luncheon number two is 55 cents: Chicken salad sandwich, or imported swiss cheese on rye bread, dill pickles, tomato quarters, potato chips, and choice of layer cake or apple pie.

Number three is a regular feast: Sliced Smithfield ham sandwich, bread and butter sandwich, mixed vegetable salad, sweet pickle slices and a choice of fruit cup or layer cake.

Picnic luncheon number four includes a plate of sliced ham or tongue with potato salad, tomato quarters, hearts of celery and dill pickles, bread and butter sandwich, and a choice of fruit pie and layer cake.

Number five: Frozen fruit salad (packed in a jiffy bag which keeps salads firm for one hour), nut bread and butter sandwich, individual cheese and crackers, candied orange peel and salted almonds.

Number six: Chicken and fresh vegetable salad, bread and butter sandwich, olives or pickle slices, potato chips, and either layer cake or pie.

All these luncheons are individually packed and include a paper fork, napkin and drinking cup.

Preserves Collection.

One of the most delectable looking food packages in Washington makes a mighty appeal to the eye and the appetite. An oblong box contains 12 kinds of preserves arranged in colorful fashion. The collection included cherry preserves, crabapple jelly, strawberry jam, blackberry jam, pineapple marmalade, blueberry jam, grapefruit marmalade, heavenly jam, honey, rapsberry jam, mint jelly and orange marmalade.

The hostess with a selection of this kind will have no qualms about not suiting a guest's finicky taste. The housewife can make sure that her husband's "breakfast humor" will be the cheeriest. At tea time when casual visitors drop in, it's a grand feeling to have such a wide assortment of delicious homemade preserves.

• • • •

Disguised Recipes.

What appears at first glance to be a trick calendar turns out to be a disguised cocktail recipe book. Catlin figures in at least a half-dozen colors stand upright on little black pedestals. Suspended from each figure numerous little leaflets covered over with a catlin tab. Raise the cover and peep within. Instead of the pages of a calendar there are cocktail recipes or—as a young lady behind the counter naively remarked—successful party recipes.

There is variety in the figures that hold the placques. One is a wicked-looking devil complete with a pitchfork; one a spinning wheel. There are also fish, pigs, cats, and dogs.

Complete Dental Outfit.

Summer specialities are including even dental preparations. One downtown store has a 50 cent tooth paste on sale for 10 cents. There are also toothbrushes for the same amount. Large tins of toothpowder are 19 cents. And bottles of mouth wash are 10 cents for small ones, 19 cents for large ones.

Bargain hunters, take out your pads and pencils. Now begin the addition and find that two months' dental supplies, including toothbrush, toothpaste and mouth wash costs only 30 cents!

• • • •

Bottle Gifts.

All bachelors who enter the gift section of a local shop should go armed with full wallets or checkbooks. If they don't succumb to the appeal of a leather zipper case which holds a pint bottle, four whisky glasses, and a combination bottle-opener-corkscrew, they surely will to a wooden tantalus.

The frame of the tantalus is glazed oak with the natural grain of the wood showing through. Three immense bottles fitting on to the rack are oak, too, and bound around with metal strips. A little lock which keeps them safe from invaders is not to be easily pried.

Consolation Prize.

A delightful guest package is a large celophane envelope containing three pastel powder puffs and some cleansing tissues. Keep this in mind for a consolation prize.

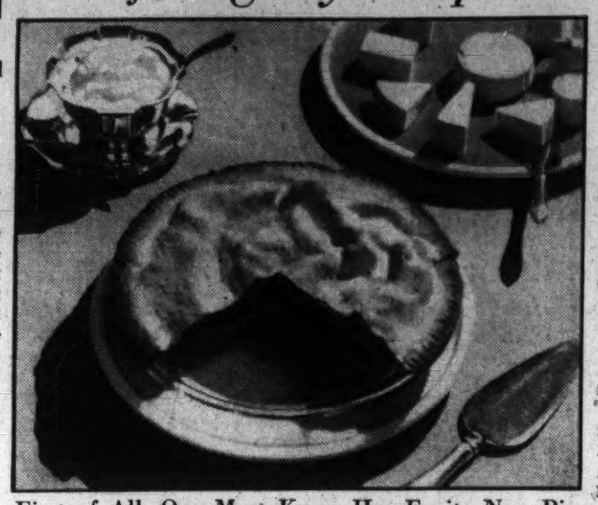
Apple Dishes Tasty If Rightly Prepared



First of All, One Must Know Her Fruit; New Pie, Sauce, Swedish and Upside Down Cake Recipes Presented.

By Ann Barrett.

EVERY YEAR since Garden of Eden days, the apple has made headline news. Even now—with peaches, plums, pears and melons at their best—it's the sight of new apples that makes the eye light up and sets the mouth watering again for the kind of fresh apple pie Ellis Parker Butler probably had in mind when he said, "Washington, Lincoln and pie are immortal!"

This isn't marking down the apple in its other roles, either. For example, there's ths fruit in a certain meringue and custard cake that Authoress Katharine Brush says is the apple of her eye. There are also juicy apple dumplings and apple kuchen, rich with sugar, butter and spice. And certainly worthy of praise, too, that simple but superlative dish—good apple sauce.

For these and all other apple dishes the key to success is first to know your apples. "Know," for example, whether they will hold their shape or cook away; whether their flavor is delicious enough in itself or needs to be coaxed out with spice and perhaps even a bit of lemon. Early apples in general are more watery than late apples. This does not require any change in a basic recipe for apple pie, but does require special care in assembling and baking it—so as to keep all the juice inside.

New Apple Pie.

Like this, for example: First, cover a 9-inch tin with pastry (kept in the refrigerator and not rolled out till the last minute, if you want it flaky). Brush the bottom and sides of this with unbeaten egg-white. Then pack this crust snugly with 5 full cups of apple (peeled, cored, quartered and cut in ¼-inch slices.) As you pack these in, sprinkle them with 1½ cups sugar (about) first mixed with ⅛ teaspoon salt and whatever spice you like. Next, dot the top of these with bits of butter (use about 2 tablespoons).

Then (very important) moisten the edge of lower crust well with cold water. Put on top crust and press edges of two crusts together firmly with fork. Then prick holes in center to let out steam. Bake 10 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahr.) then about 15 minutes more in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahr.)

This pie won't be as high and bumpy as one made with winter apples (say Baldwins, best of all apples for pie). But it will make marvelous eating, anyway, with cheese, ice cream or whipped cream—sweetened and flavored with sherry.

Swedish Apple Cake.

A more elaborate dessert is this apple cake of Katharine Brush's. It's Swedish. And it was introduced to Miss Brush by her Swedish cook, Hilda, who makes it so superlatively well, that it's a standby in the Brush household.

It starts with 3 rather thin layers of cake (not light and fluffy, but more like a very rich, soft sugar cookie in texture.) To make these layers, first cream and beat together thoroughly ¾ cup butter, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 well-beaten egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Then stir in 2¼ cups sifted flour.

Next, butter three smallish layer tins (about 7 inches). Divide the dough into three parts (it's stiff, like cookie dough); and pat and roll these out lightly on a lightly floured board (using no more flour than you can help) so as to fit your three tins. (You can finish shaping the dough right in the tins.) Bake these layers quickly (6 or 7 minutes) in a hot oven (about 400 F.).

Putting Cake Together.

When these layers have cooled, spread them (between and on top) with very thick, well-seasoned applesauce. (Applesauce must be thick and rich, so as not to run.) Next, cover top and sides of these layers with meringue made by beating 6 tablespoons confectioner's sugar into 3 egg-whites very thoroughly. Then set the cake in a slow oven (about 325 F.) to brown (about 15 minutes).

Is that all? Oh, my, no—not according to Hilda! The finishing touch is to serve this cake (cut in the customary wedge - shaped pieces) with a cool, yellowy, pour-custard—made like this: Beat up 2 whole eggs (or 4 egg-yolks) with a sprinkle of salt and 4 tablespoons sugar. Then beat 2 cups scalded milk into this mixture, and cook the whole thing over hot (not boiling) water, till it coats a spoon.

Spice Apple Upside Down.

An apple cake that's more in the accepted American manner is spice apple upside down cake. (I've told you before about apple kuchen and apple dumpling; but never about this cake, I think.)

For this you must have firm-textured apples that will hold their shape. And enough of them to cover the bottom of your pan or skillet—when they are peeled, cored and cut into eighths. Drop them (a few at a time) into a light syrup (1 cup sugar and 1 cup water first cooked 3 minutes). Cook only till apples are tender, not soft. Then skim them out carefully and drain them well before laying them close together in a well-greased tin.

Next, pour over them a spicy molasses batter made like this: Cream 1 cup brown sugar and ½ cup butter. Stir in 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 cup milk and ½ cup molasses. Then combine with the following dry ingredients sifted together: 2 cups sifted pastry flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon each, clove and nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon soda, 1½ teaspoons baking powder. Bake this cake at about 50 F. Serve it upside down with whipped cream.

What Today Means

"Leo."

If August 4 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 3 to 5 p. m., and from 7 to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 to 10 a. m., from 1 to 3 p. m., and from 10 p. m. until midnight.

On this August 4 you may find most people's thoughts occupied planning week-end diversions rather than on business.

If a woman and August 4 is your birthday, you are endowed with a wonderful sense of justice, which inspires confidence in your opinion. You have the qualifications for leadership, which should prove helpful in either a business or social career. You are the type of woman that would grace such professions as the legal or medical, and in the former should prove a modern Portia. Your lovable attributes should secure the devotion of a husband and assure a happy home life. Your financial resources may be unexpetcedly bolstered up from a totally unexpected source.

The child born on August 4, as it grows up, should learn to assert itself, and to resent any efforts of older children to impose their will upon it. It may display an unusually high degree of intelligence for its age. The proper amount of physical exercise is most essential, and careful supervision of the literature it absorbs is advisable.

If a man and August 4 is your birthday anniversary, you have a clarity of thought and an analytical ability that should be used in a line of work where it would be accorded the recognition it is entitled to. Criminal law, historical research or chemical laboratory work, and geology should prove interesting as well as profitable. You should have a very happy and successful married life.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. Irving S. Cutter.

Deafness in Children.

Recent studies indicate that there are today nearly 3,000,000 school children in the United States with defective hearing. Of these nearly 400,000 have hearing so impaired that instruction in lip reading is required. Deafness is a serious social handicap and unless fully compensated for may become a definite inhibiting factor in educational life.

Acute diseases, such as scarlet fever, measles, influenza, meningitis and broncho-pneumonia predispose the child to ear infections. The wide and unusual spread of measles during the present year will be followed by thousands of cases of middle ear infections with earache and in many cases perforation of ear drums and a discharge of pus. Infected tonsils and adenoids, infections of the nasal passages and of the sinuses all play an important role as causative factors of deafness.

Inflammation in the middle ear frequently results in the formation of pus, and if the tube leading to the throat is swollen shut the increased pressure causes the ear drum to bulge and perhaps perforate. If there is much discharge and if the inflammation continues for a considerable period, destruction of some of the delicate hearing machinery is bound to follow.

Early recognition and early treatment of ear disease are of the highest importance. Much can be done if the infection is quickly recognized and appropriate treatment instituted.

Fruited Ginger Ale Salad Gets Contest Prize

Served With Frozen Cream Dressing; Frozen Fig Recipe Rewarded.

By Susan Mills.

IT ALMOST makes you feel cool and comfortable to read the recipes sent in this week. Some sound so good you can almost taste them.

If you feel that way about it, too, why not clip the recipes and try them yourself? Many housewives write in and say they do just that. A collection of recipes from Washington cooks should be valuable.

Here are the recipes in order. They were chosen for their originality, simplicity and practicability.

Fruited Ginger Ale Salad.

Dissolve 2 tablespoons gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water, melt over hot water; add to ½ cup orange juice and the juice of 1 lemon. Add a tablespoon preserved ginger, cut small, and 1½ cups diced fruit, which may include peaches, pears, grapefruit or pineapple. Add 3 tablespoons sugar. Freeze until firm in refrigerator. Serve with Frozen Cream Dressing.

Combine 1 cup whipped cream, 1-4 cup either cooped or mayonnaise dressing, 1 tablespoon lemon juice and 1-8 teaspoon paprica. Chill almost to freezing point.

Frozen Fig Salad.

¼ cup mayonnaise
2 packages cream cheese
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
10 preserved figs
½ cup whipping cream

Blend mayonnaise, cheese; add lemon juice, salt and coarsely chopped figs. Fold in cream, whipped stiff. Freeze, serve on lettuce with fresh dressing.

Ashville Salad.

1 can tomato soup
3 packages cream cheese
1 package gelatine
1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup chopped nuts

Salt, pepper, juice of one onion, taste of garlic if wanted, chopped celery and green pepper.

Bring tomato soup to boiling point, dissolve cheese in it, add gelatine, mayonnaise and other ingredients. Mold and chill. Serve on lettuce leaves topped with mayonnaise. Serves eight or nine.

Ideas Asked For Summer Sandwiches

THIS is the season of outdoor entertaining, tea-time chatter, dainty luncheon plates—and sandwiches.

Sandwiches can be divided into summer and winter classifications. For next week's contest, let's have your ideas on those crispy, dainty, or attractive, nourishing things that are so welcome in hot weather.

Address all contributions to Susan Mills, The Washington Post. They should be received not later than Thursday of next week. Be sure your name and full address is printed on each sheet sent in. Type recipes if possible. If not, let the writing be as clear as you can make it. No unused recipes will be returned.

Prizes will be the same; $3, $2, and $1.

Equal Nationality Progress Is Hailed

Women to Ask League of Nations Approval.

THE woman's consultative committee of the League of Nations, meeting in the League of Nations Building at Geneva, has voted to ask the league assembly to approve the equal nationality treaty and to submit it to all member nations. This word has been received here by the National Woman's Party in a cablegram from Miss Alice Paul, who is in Geneva.

Upon receipt of Miss Paul's cable, Florence Bayard Hilles, acting chairman of the National Woman's Party, issued the following statement:

"This message from Alice Paul should be a message of encouragement to all those women throughout the world who believe in equal justice to men and women. It will give an added impetus to the successful passage of the equal rights amendment which comes before the next session of Congress, and should be made a matter of active interest and information to all those candidates who stand for election. Insistent demand to elect only those candidates who are known to stand firmly in behalf of the principle of equal rights for men and women must be made."

Mrs. Hilles added that the consultative committee was created by the Council of the League of Nations in January, 1931, through the efforts of Miss Paul and other members of the Woman's Party.

ESCAPE from the SOVIETS

By TATIANA TCHERNAVIN

(Conclusion.)

NOW we were thoroughly taken care of; we were fed, driven from place to place, delicately questioned about our past and soon dispatched to Helsingfors. We were not yet allowed to mix freely with the Finnish citizens, so our impressions on the way were only derived from what we saw, but life in U. S. S. R. teaches one to see things which others would leave unnoticed.

In the village beyond the Arctic Circle we saw stacks of barley, good cows, well built, warm houses. A fine road ran through marshes, forests and rocks. Wherever possible, marshes were drained and bits of forest converted into arable land. Red farmhouses with white shutters had flower gardens in front of them. Those farms evidently belonged to new settlers who must have toiled desperately to clear their land from tree stumps and stones. The small Finnish nation, waging a stubborn fight against exceptionally inclement nature, makes it yield more than what the U. S. S. R., with all its enormous natural resources, can obtain by forced labor and shootings.

Children Well Fed.

In the morning children rode to school on their bicycles. All were dressed in simple, sound clothes; all looked cheerful and well fed.

The motor lorry in which we were traveling went at the rate of about 35 miles an hour and did not break down once.

Afterwards we were put in a train; the carriage was clean and tidy, the passengers, looking calm and content, had respectable clothes and carried suitcases.

In this "capitalistic" country the carriages are of one class, sufficiently comfortable for all; in the "socialistic" country across the frontier, decent carriages are only for the Soviet aristocracy and foreign visitors; those for ordinary people are filthy.

We were provided with bread, butter and sausage for the journey, and when the train stopped at some station where all the passengers were supposed to have a meal, unknown friends brought to our compartment a big parcel of sandwiches. We were runaways, still under arrest, and utterly defenseless, and yet we were traveling like ordinary passengers and our escort's sole concern was that we should have enough to eat.

"Well, they are an extraordinary people!" the boy said in surprise. "They evidently have enough and to spare if they treat us to chicken sandwiches."

Sent to Hospital.

Unfortunately, in Helsingfors, I began by giving fresh trouble to everyone—I fell ill and had to be sent to a hospital. From the hospital stretcher I saw a bit of the town, clean as though it had only just been scrubbed, flowers in the front gardens, and shop windows with fruit of all countries and seasons.

I was not very keen on going to the hospital. When I was still rash and self-confident I used to say that I would not go of my own will either to prison or to a hospital. Since then I had had to spend in a hospital three weeks which seemed to me like three years. I was there looking after my boy who was operated on for septic appendicitis. He had to lie on an old straw mattress that was all bumps. There was one attendant to look after 26 children in the three surgical wards, and one sister in charge of the whole of the children's section. Soviet hospitals generally are so overcrowded that patients often die on the stairs because there are no beds and no room.

Comfort in Hospital.

Dirty, ragged, blackened by the forest fire, the wind and the sun, I felt ridiculously out of place in a room where everything was spotlessly white—walls, beds, tables, chairs, and the nurses' starched bonnets, collars and aprons. But no one showed the slightest annoyance or surprise at my appearance!

A few minutes after I was put in the hands of the senior sister who took off my rags, gave me a bath, dressed me in clean things and put me to bed, doing it all so kindly and cheerfully, that one might think she enjoyed it. She covered me up with a white quilt and placed some flowers on the white table beside me.

I felt almost sorry that I was the only one to fall ill and that we were not all three in hospital.

Then they began asking whether I was hungry or thirsty. The substantial-looking sister in whose hands I felt like a baby mouse, said to me sternly in broken Russian:

"Madame wish or not, I run to kitchen."

The kind woman would be surprised if she knew that in the country madame had escaped from, children in hospitals have even less to eat than at home.

Book Written.

In that hospital which was the university clinic, I wrote most of this book, feeling as completely at peace with the world as though I had been born again.

The boy came to see me with his new friends, who had provided him with clothes and shoes and were actively engaged in feeding him up.

"Mother, what a market they have here, you can't think! The first time I saw it I thought it wasn't real. On the beach they sell fish. The market women are all fat and look awfully important; they sit under umbrellas and hardly stir, and there's all sorts of fish before them — salmon and cod, and herrings, and carp—anything you like. And close by they sell vegetables and berries and fruit and flowers. I was simply flabbergasted! Bread is sold separately, under cover, rolls and bread rings and cakes. And you can buy as much as you like—even if you are buying bread."

Reluctant to Leave.

My husband did not come to see me at once because, as the doctor said with some concern, "Monsieur le professeur n'avait pas de pantalons." I could well believe that. But he came the day after this conversation because the doctor, who was kindness itself, presented him with a suit of his own clothes. The lecture which my husband gave in the Russian colony brought him 400 marks—his first earnings.

"Four hundred marks—that's 500 pounds of white bread. In U. S. S. R. I would not have earned that in six months."

I was disgracefully reluctant to leave the hospital but the doctor completely cured me; besides, he provided me with a dress, a coat, a hat and a pair of shoes. All that I had on when I arrived was only fit to be burned.

I wish I could also burn the memory of all that I have been through during those 15 years in U. S. S. R.!

But no, I have no right to do that. We have been spared so that we might tell of the terrible plight of our country, once so prosperous, and remind those who have not been through the misery and servitude of Soviet life that they do not sufficiently value their blessings.

Party With Simple Lunch And Games Makes Children Happy.

By Alice Fox Pitts.

"MOTHER, may I have a party?"

There's no need to groan, "It's too much work," for children are made happy so easily. A simple lunch, with a piece de resistance that looks effective but is no trouble to make, will set them off to a happy start. "Candle salad" always delights them.

Place a ring of canned pineapple on a bed of lettuce. Insert half of a banana upright in the hole in the center. Garnish the top with a bit of pimiento to represent the flame. And little girls will "oh" and "ah" in delight.

Paper and pencil games, parcheesi or dominos, guessing contests, improvised obstacle races are only a few of many possibilities for entertainment. And a prize or two—the price need be no more than 10 cents—will make the afternoon a complete success. But be sure you have some simple entertainment planned, for a party is never a success if the children sit around and ask "What shall we do now?"

Tuesday: New sand toys.

If you want help in planning a party, write Alice Fox Pitts, in care of The Washington Post, stating the age of the children to be entertained.

Two Protein Foods Taboo At One Meal

TWO DISHES of a kind should not be served at the same meal, points out the Home Economics Bureau. Examples of this faulty combination are: Meat and eggs; eggs and fish; meat and cheese; cheese and eggs; macaroni and potatoes; rice and potatoes; rice and noodles.

Meals with double protein or double starch value are not harmful provided other kinds of food are included. But such combinations are not economical in food value.

For example, ham and cabbage or eggs and tomatoes served with bread and butter, provide better food value than ham and eggs with bread and butter. Besides, such combinations cost less than the ham and eggs.

The department points out that fat meats have little protein value so the use of salt pork or bacon with eggs does not repeat proteins in the menu.

Bass Injured; Sarron Bout Held Up

Fight May Be Staged on Aug. 20 if Hunt Club Shifts Its Date.

Tow-Brown Substitute Headliner Looms on Turner's Card.

A sparring mate reopened the cut, an old wound received in Bass's battle with Johnny Jadick, and physicans forbade the Philadelphia featherweight to return to the ring within two weeks.

Bass notified Turner from Philadelphia last night that he would be ready to fight by August 20, which is the night regularly assigned to the Riding and Hunt Club. Secretary Harvey L. Miller indicated he felt the Boxing Commission would authorize a trade in dates between the Riding and Hunt Club and Turner, if the two could reach a mutually satisfactory agreement on the matter. Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn of the Hunt Club stated he would confer with the boxing committee at the indoor arena before passing on the request.

Three Possibilities.

Turner also may obtain another opponent for Sarron, if a good one can be lined up for August 13. Eddie Shea, Pete Hayes and Mike Belloise have been mentioned as possibilities. If no suitable substitute can be found for Bass and the change in dates can not be effected, it is possible that Turner may arrange an entirely new main event.

The Lincoln Athletic Club was granted permission to use Griffith Stadium on August 17, after it had been refused its use for August 13, to stage a Kid Chocolate-Andre Sarilla bout. There is a possibility that if the commission approves, Turner will allow the colored show to be held at the ball park on August 13 and hold the Bass-Sarron affair on August 17.

For a completely new substitute bout, a Bob Tow-Natie Brown bout, which had been in the making for August 27, may receive consideration, or Turner may decide to match either Tow or Brown with Don Petrin, as was the original intention when Petrin was given his recent match with Eddie Simms.

Yale Gridmen Report Early

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 3 (AP).—Yale's gridiron warriors of 1934 will train from September 15 to 22 at the university's crew quarters at Gales Ferry, the athletic association announced tonight.

Those in charge said tonight they hoped the "new experiment would not prove ill-advised." The football training in recent years has been conducted at the university headquarters in this city.

The association announcement read that the players, 72 in all, headed by Capt. Clare Curtin and under the direction of Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond, new head coach, will return to New Haven September 23 for the opening of the university the following day.

In recent years there has been considerable agitation over the lateness at Yale in beginning training, the inference being that Yale's gridiron squad enters its opening games in an inferior condition to its opponents.

Cronin Curtails Linke's Smoking

Boston, Mass, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Manager Joe Cronin has cracked down on the cigar-smoking tendencies of Ed Linke, the fat boy. While with Chattanooga, Linke consumed no less than 16 stogies per day, by his own admission. He cut that number in half when he joined the Nats, and has cut down again until he uses only two.

He tells of smoking in classrooms while attending high school. If the teacher happened to come near he merely pulled the cigarette into his mouth. If the instructor didn't move soon enough he had to chew the tobacco.

"Boy, them was the days," he grinned.

Mercer Football Star May Sign With Macks

Macon, Ga., Aug. 3 (AP).—The Evening News says today it has learned that Gerald McQuaig, Mercer University's sophomore full back, around whom Coach Lake Russell plans to build his 1934 back field, is en route to Philadelphia to talk terms with Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics.

McQuaig has been playing baseball in Daytona Beach, Fla., and is catcher and an outfielder and has built up a reputation as a strong hitter.

Armour's 142 Leads In Canada by 3 Shots

TORONTO, Ontario, Aug. 3 (AP).—Leo Diegel's game came completely apart today and cost him the lead in the second round of the Canadian Open Golf Championship. He has won the title four times.

From the record-breaking 65 of the first 18 yesterday, the Philadelphia professional tumbled to a terrible 82 for a total of 147 strokes halfway through the 72-hole medal play over the short par 70 Lakeview course.

Tommy Armour, of Chicago, who won the tournament in 1927 and 1930, inherited the lead with 69—73 for an aggregate of 142, chiefly on the basis of his opening-day round when he trailed only Diegel in brilliance. He was afflicted with the rest of the professionals today with the virus of 73's that swept the layout.

Trail by 3 Strokes.

Herman Barron, New York pro, and Wild Bill Mehlhorn, of Louisville, both added 73's today to opening 72's and trailed 3 strokes behind the pace-making Black Scot from Chicago, with aggregates of 145. The best round of the day, a 69, was shot by Jack Littler, Ottawa professional. Added to his 77 of yesterday, it lifted him to the 146 division with Fay Coleman, of Culver City, Calif., and Lighthorse Harry Cooper, of Chicago, both of whom shot 73's when par would have put them right on Armour's heels.

Al Houghton, professional at the Kenwood Club, Washington, D. C., shot 38-40—78 today, which, added to his 76 of yesterday, gave him a total of 164, with an outside chance of entering the money-winning circle.

Hagen Shoots a 79.

Putting Hurts Diegel.

A fumbling putter had much to do with Diegel's downfall today, and on top of that all his shots were constantly finding trouble. He was out in 40, five strokes over par, and came back in 42, seven over.

Most of the veterans who would have had a chance with Diegel falling down so badly tumbled with him, though not quite so hard. Jimmy Hines, New York professional, added a 76 to yesterday's 72 for an aggregate of 148; C. Ross Somerville, Canada's foremost amateur, took a 78 for 75-78—153; Ed Dudley, of Philadelphia, had 77-77 for 154, and in general scores rocketed all over the place.

Warneke Hero as Cubs Triumph Over Reds, 5-4

Chicago, Aug. 3 (AP).—Lon Warneke gained his fifteenth victory of the season today as the Cubs defeated Cincinnati, 5 to 4, in the series opener to keep pace with the Giants.

Entering the game in a relief role, Warneke, after permitting the Reds to tie the count in the eighth, scored the winning run himself in the last half of the frame on Tuck Stainback's single off Bennie Frey, fourth Cincinnati hurler.

George Downs Szabo After An Hour

By Bill McCormick.

ED "DON" GEORGE, recognized as heavyweight wrestling champion in the New England States, took a night off from performing draws with Jim Londos, recognized as heavyweight wrestling champion in most other portions of the world (including the Scandinavian), to pin Sandor Szabo, recognized as heavyweight wrestling champion in Hungary (or what used to be Hungary), before some 3,000 irrepressible wrestling fanatics at Griffith Stadium last night.

The blow that stunned Hungary (or what used to be Hungary) as it hadn't been stunned since Herr Direktor Schemulshmuss dropped his pince-nez in the royal goulash, came after 60 minutes of scientific tugging that was so devoid of the usual clowning as to be branded level by the unsuspecting, and was accomplished with a leg scissors around Szabo's head. The winner flipped his rangy legs around the Hungarian neck from a standing position, forced him to the mat, pinning him for a count so brief that the spectators were allowed to give their vocal cords their first real workout in a hearty and enthusiastic chorus of boos and berries.

Enter Ring Early.

The boys entered the ring early, following a preliminary that had been distinguished by a downpour of rain and the breaking of the overhead bulbs as they became short-circuited. George was dressed in a stunning black robe, baby-blue panties and an engaging smile. Szabo was garbed in a crimson robe, crimson trunks and an equally engaging leer.

For the first 10 minutes or so, they wrestled in a manner to delight the hearts of those who appreciate methodical mauling, if any, with Szabo looking very good on the right end of a half-nelson which he squeexed and squeezed with all his might and main. George started the fireworks shortly thereafter with a flying tackle, which found its broad mark, but he flattened in time to avoid the next of the series.

Shorn of the effusive growth of chin whiskers which last year made him closely resemble the remains of an overstuffed divan, Vanka Zelesniak held Mike Romano to a 30-minute draw that preceded the main morsel of mayhem.

DETROIT, Aug. 3 (AP).—Behind the one-hit, seven-inning performance of their slugging moundsman, Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the Detroit Tigers opened their series with Chicago here today by shutting out the White Sox, 14 to 0.

Today's victory was Rowe's eleventh in an unbroken string and his fifteenth for the season, as against four defeats. He added to his glory by getting a near-perfect day at bat, hitting a double and two singles in four trips to the plate.

The Tigers collected 16 hits off the successive offerings of Gaston and Kinzy, getting to the former for 13 during the 4 1-3 innings he worked. The Tiger attack was featured by such highlights as Greenberg's homer in the first inning with two men on base and a five-hit onslaught in the fifth which went for six runs.

Dykes Gets Single.

Jimmy Dykes' single over second in the seventh inning killed hopes of a no-hit game. At the end of this inning Manager Cochrane sent in Sorrell to relieve Rowe, and the latter held the Sox hitless for the balance of the game.

There was a new face in the White Sox line-up today, Dykes having put Charley Uhlir in at left field in place of the injured Al Simmons. Uhlir formerly was a semi-pro player in Chicago.

Miss Winthrop Upsets Josephine Cruickshank

Easthampton, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Two Eastern girls, Katherine Winthrop, of Boston, and Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., turned in surprising victories over two Western stars today to gain the final round of the ninth annual Maidstone Club invitation tennis tournament.

Playing excellent tennis in every department, the tall, slender Boston girl eliminated Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, the country's sixth ranked player, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4, in one semifinal. Mrs. Andrus staged a late rally to defeat Mrs. Mary Greef Harris, of Kansas City, 5—7, 6—4, 7—5, in the second.

Dempsey Promise to Appear Alleviates Ahearn's Anxiety

Promoter Fearful Lest Birth Conflict With Refereeing Here.

DOUBLE-BARRELED assurance was received yesterday by Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn that rain or shine, papa or not a papa, Jack Dempsey, the expectant father, will be on hand to referee at the Riding and Hunt Club Monday night as scheduled.

It seems that in the wee sma' hours of the morning, Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn, suffering from insomnia, tired of counting sheep and started counting the gate for the all-star card which generally is expected to draw a capacity house because of the presence of Dempsey. About the time Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn had counted the 2,486th customer through the turnstiles, he suddenly was struck by a horrible thought.

Suppose the Dempsey heir should decide to arrive and detain papa Dempsey in New York just at the time when Papa Dempsey was scheduled to be dragging the cash customers into the Riding and Hunt Club! Oy! Oy!

Matchmaker Ahearn dashed madly down the street and began telephoning Max Waxman, who is doing most of Dempsey's business while the old Mauler is busy buying toys and knitting baby clothes.

"Dot's hokay, Pel," responded Max, "Jakes Dampskey positivel vill be on hend as edvertised, Y'can depend hupon me und my Frand Jakes Dampskey for dis, und dun't bodder me no more in de meedle from de night."

China Will Send Team To Olympics at Berlin

Nanking, China, Aug. 3 (AP).—The National Amateur Athletic Federation of China today voted to send a team to the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin and also voted to enter a team in the Davis Cup International Tennis competition next year.

China will entertain the Far East Olympic games, held at Manilla this year, in 1938.

Alcazar Wins at 10-1.

Goodwood, England, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—William Woodward's Alcazar, carrying 107, today won the Chesterfield Cup, with O. V. Watney's Wychwood Abbot, 108, second, and R. F. Watson's Celestial City, 106, third. Twelve ran, including A. C. Bostwick's Mate, which carried 133, and finished fourth. Alcazar paid 10 to 1.

Hubbell Blanks Phillies, 2-0, For 15th

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3 (AP).—Carl Hubbell continued the stretch of shut-out pitching which followed his recent slump and blanked the Phillies today in a duel with Euel Moore, rookie, to give the Giants a 2-to-0 victory.

Hubbell gave only six hits as he registered his second straight shutout over the Phils and his fifth blanking of the season. The feat gave him a record of 22 consecutive scoreless innings. In between his triumph over Philadelphia Sunday and today's game he hurled four scoreless innings against the Braves. Yesterday's victory was his fifteenth of the season, against eight defeats.

Vergez Hits Homer.

Dizzy Dean Effective, Cards Down Bucs, 9-3

St. Louis, Aug. 3 (AP).—Dizzy Dean, back in pitching and batting form, led the Cardinals to a 9-to-3 decision over Pittsburgh here today.

The dizzy one marked up his nineteenth victory by the decision, scored two runs with a triple and a double, and let the visitors down with 11 scattered hits, compared to 15 gleaned by the Cards. After Paul Waner doubled in the first, Dean didn't allow another safe blow until the fifth.

'Larrupin' Lou' Pounds Single Also for 7th Straight Hit.

Young Pitcher Retires in 9th Inning After Cramp in Arm.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (AP).—Lou Gehrig did a mighty job of hitting today and Johnny Allen pitched with equal effectiveness to give the Yankees a 5-to-1 victory over the Athletics.

Gehrig poled his thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth home runs of the season, tying Jimmie Foxx in the fourth inning and passing him in the eighth in the major league home run derby. He also connected for a single, giving him seven straight hits in the last two days, and drove in four runs.

Allen's share was to limit the A's to seven hits and strike out 12 before he was forced to retire with two out in the ninth because of a cramp in his pitching arm. Every Athletic regular whiffed at least once.

Bradley's Bazaar Impressive in Win

Bazaar, with only a poor effort in the Kentucky Derby behind her this year, ran the distance in 1:24 2-5, and was second choice at 13 to 10. Slapdash, coupled with Fleam, was favorite at 4 to 5. The winning owner picked up $1,820 in prize money.

Lou Gehrig Ahead Of Ruth's Record

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Lou Gehrig not only took the major league home-run lead from Jimmie Foxx today when he hit his thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth circuit swats, but he went ahead of Babe Ruth's record pace of 1927.

When the Babe collected 60 homers that season to establish the major league record, he didn't hit his thirty-fifth until August 5, starting the spurt of 17 swats in one month that carried him to record heights.

Jockey Balaski Rides Roman Soldier to Three-Length Victory at Hawthorne

Hirsch Horse Captures 2d Straight

Bye Lo Finishes Second; Dancing Doll, Choice, Runs Third.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (AP).—The racing silks of Max Hirsch, of New York, were carried to victory at Hawthorne today when Roman Soldier, timely rated by Jockey L. Balaski, took down the purse by three length over a fast track.

Mrs. Roy Carruthers' Bye Lo was second. Dancing Doll, racing for the Audley Farm and the favorite, finished third in the 5½-furlong sprint.

A. B. Gallaher's Chief Cherokee acted as crusader rounding into the strentch bend, but the heavy impost of 118 pounds told on the juvenile and he faded out of the picture..

Roman Soldier then forged to the front and won as the rider pleased. It was the second consecutive victory here for the winner. Roman Soldier ran the distance in 1:05 and paid $9.48.

Khamseen Wins Fourth.

Narragansett Park, Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 3 (AP).—The winning surge of J. D. Mikel's Khamseen, 3-year-old roan son of Sir Greysteel, was stretched to four straight victories today when he won the Puritan $1,200 Purse event that featured Gansett's third-day program.

This former $1,500 plater, claimed from S. W. Labrot, closed at 4 to 1 and defeated the favorite, F. A. Griffith's Cutie Face, by a half length in the 6-furlong dash. The Calumet Farm's Dustina finished in the show position.

It was the second Mikel win of the day, for Playing On carried his colors to victory in the opener. T. F. Edwards' Liberty Oak, an 18-to-1 shot, won the second race and gave the crowd of 10,000 the best bargain of the day.

At the Post . . .

Hawthorne Race Track, Aug. 3.

Dear Al:

Be patient one more day. The boss has finally decreed that we may pass up this sun-baked merry-go-round, so Monday you may expect a line on the horses at Narragansett.

While I have been able to slip you one or more winners here daily, frankly, it has been guesswork. All the crystal gazers and voodoo docs in the business would be lost among these bang-tails.

JOE.

Second race—Infinity's last race does not count. Heiress is the one to beat, with Gunfire to peep.

Sixth race—The Shank Memorial Handicap is a very open race. There is no standout. The J. W. Parrish entry, Blessed Event and Ben Falt, has as good a chance as any. Navarod and Marmion at the weights are contenders. Both have a good chance to grab the heat.

Seventh race—Miss Corinne, Black Nose and Bichloride are the best of these overworked platers.

Eighth race—For the nightcap I am going to the consistent Morpheus. Come On won a surprise heat Thursday. Westko may show.

Martinsburg Releases Two Players, Signs Two

Martinsburg, W. Va., Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Baseball headquarters here today announced release of two members of the Blue Sox club and signing of two new players.

The players released are George Bradshaw and "Lefty" Braithwaite, both pitchers. The men signed are Raymond Jones, right-hand pitcher, and Howard Boltz, a catcher. Boltz was with the club earlier in the season.

Armstrong and Mitchell in Golf Final

Defeat Young and Coria in Municipal Tourney; to Clash Today.

SOUTH PARK, Pittsburgh, Aug. 3 (AP).—Art Armstrong, the Honolulu High School boy who would rather play football than golf, and Dave Mitchell, 26-year-old stoker salesman of Indianapolis, will battle it out tomorrow for the championship of the National Public Links Tournament.

Playing on a heavy course, soaked by rain and swept by winds during the night, these two conquered their opponents in semifinal matches and are survivors of the huge field of 184 that began play Monday.

Is Victor By 5 and 3.

The grinning Armstrong, who is only 17 years old, beat a game golfer from San Antonio, Tex., Lorraine Young, 5 and 3, in his 36-hole semifinal match and Mitchell turned back Joe Coria, of St. Paul, 2 up. Coria is the youngster who eliminated the 1933 titleholder, Charles Ferrera, in the third round.

Tomorrow's title-match will be over 36 holes.

Armstrong and Young played before a gallery of about 300 and the crowd appeared to bother the Texan, who was 5 down at the end of the first 18 holes. In the afternoon, Armstrong lost the first hole, taking 6 strokes on the par 5 hole, but then measured a 25-foot putt to go five up again on the second. He also took the third as Young 3 putted. The match continued until the fifteenth green, where Armstrong ended it with a birdie 3, and Young took a 4.

Joke With Each Other.

Mitchell and Coria went through the morning round wise-cracking with each other. It ended with Coria leading 2 up. Shooting par going out, in the afternoon, Mitchell won the second, third and fifth holes.

Most of the joshing between the two stopped after the third hole, where Coria tossed his brassie 20 yards after bungling his second shot.

For twelve successive holes then the two dueled along without either gaining one. On the final hole, Mitchell putted his third shot to within a foot of the hole. Coria putted from 20 feet and rolled past. He kicked Mitchell's ball to his 6 foot, 185 pound smiling opponent, conceding the hole and making the score 2 up. Had both holed out it would have been 1 up.

Ladino, Off Slowly, Spurts for Triumph

Detroit, Aug. 3 (AP).—Ladino, the 5-year-old son of Ladkin and Cuban Belle, beat a good field of sprinters at the Michigan State Fair Grounds today, although he carried more weight than any of the other contestants.

Ladino's victory was in the fifth race, one of eight claiming events on the day's card. Away to a late start, the gelding was pushed ahead by Jackey Young and got a head in front as the band of 3-year-olds and up entered the stretch. In a driving finish he beat Le Bruyere by a length, with Idle Along, rushing on a length and a half back, to take third money.

Grant, Parker Gain Tennis Finals

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Playing his cagiest tennis, Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, Atlanta's "mighty atom," outstroked blond, bespectacled Henry Prusoff, Seattle, Wash., giant, to gain his way to the finals of the Meadow Club invitational tournament today. Grant won, 6—4, 7—5, 7—5.

Showing a spectacular return to his form of last year, Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee and Spring Lake, N. J., joined Grant in the finals, besting Berkeley Bell, of New York and Texas, 1—6, 9—7, 6—2, 11—9.

Fighting for a chance at "first ten" ranking, the Seabright champion hawked the ball for the first set and seemed to have the 18-year-old marvel, who gained eighth ranking nationally last year, well on the run. Parker began to flash the strokes that made him a sensation a year ago, and after a bitter debate in the final set, broke Bell on the twentieth game to run out the match.

Don Budge, Oakland, Calif., and Gene Mako, of Los Angeles, advanced to the doubles final, defeating Parker and Grant, 6—2, 2—6, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3. In the other semifinal, the all-Southern team, Robert Bryan, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and John McDiarmid, Fort Worth school teacher, beat Prusoff and Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., 6—3, 6—3, 2—6, 6—4.

†Milky Way Farms entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WHITE GINGER, $29.64, $13.80, $12.40; †WHERE AWAY, $13.68, $8.78; ROSS, $21.12.

WHITE GINGER, lucky to secure ample room in early stages and under strong urging after reaching last three-eighths, began to improve his position fast entering stretch and was up in closing strides. WHERE AWAY had good speed from the start, came away under pressure in stretch, and weakened near end. ROSS was a strong factor from the start and held on gamely. REEL AWAY rallied after reaching the stretch and then faltered. OFFICIAL away slowly and in close quarters at far turn, made up ground on outside in stretch. JAWAPA went wild. BLACK RIVER was under strong urging from the start and weakened in last three-sixteenths. KNIGHT MAN was shuffled back. BROTHER LOU began slowly.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs (chute). Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:49½. Off at 3:50. Winner, J. O. Whitlow's ch. g. (4), by Lee O'Cotner—Fancy Field. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:19 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PRYOR, $12.86, $5.04, $3.76; BONNIE MARITA, $4.16, $3.20; RED WHISK, $9.56.

PRYOR, rushed to the lead on inside, was steadied around the turn and, holding on well, withstood BONNIE MARITA'S bid. Latter, away fast but unable to keep up, came to outside entering stretch and, continuing determinedly after making up much ground, was wearing down the winner. RED WHISK, under strong riding after a quarter, held on fairly well. GRAND PRINCE weakened. METEORIC, away slowly, raced wide in late stages. SISTER ZOE was outrun. FRISCO and PAT C. quit.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:17. Off at 4:19. Winner, J. Rakickas' br. m. (6), by Polymellian—All Aboard. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POLLYS POLLY, $28.54, $16.74, $6.22; VALDOSTA, $6.48, $5.72; WELL HEELED, $3.72.

POLLYS POLLY, close up from the start and forced to race wide much of the trip, slowly disposed of leaders and just lasted. VALDOSTA, brought to outside after saving ground on the turn, closed strong and barely missed. WELL HEELED forced the pace under light restraint, held on well and, but for bleeding, might have won. HOT SHOT saved ground throughout and weakened in final eighth. MIX UP, fractious at post but away well, lost some ground and failed to improve her position under mild pressure. SKIRL began sluggishly.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; allowances. The Brookfield. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:45½. Off at 4:48½. Winner, Corsicana Stable's ch. g. (3), by High Cloud—Honey Girl. Trained by A. G. Tarn. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:11 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WACOCHE, $9.48, $4.16, $3.02; †BRIGHT SHADOW, $3.80, $2.86; BROAD MEADOWS, $4.54.

WACOCHE, close to the pace, swerved out entering stretch, responded with determination to mild pressure after straightening up and was up in closing strides. BRIGHT SHADOW, displaying keen speed from the start, forced the pace under restraint, took command when called upon, but weakened in final 50 yards. BROAD MEADOWS, under steadying restraint, was blocked entering stretch and went well when clear. MINTON lost ground. WISE DAUGHTER, rank at post, took command under strong urging and began to weaken soon after reaching stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Five and a half furlongs. Purse, $1,000. The Ellerslie Handicap. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:16. Off at 5:18½. Winner, Max Hirsch's blk. c. CHIEF CHEROKEE	118	3	2	1½	1½	5½	6		Corbett	7.02

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROMAN SOLDIER, $9.48, $4.34, $2.98; BYE LO, $5.50, $3.82; DANCING DOLL, $2.80.

ROMAN SOLDIER, in close quarters soon after the start and never far back, was lucky to secure much ground on the turn, came through between CHIEF CHEROKEE and COUNTESS BINA in stretch, and was mildly ridden out. BYE LO, near middle of track throughout, closed well in a fine performance. DANCING DOLL, away slowly, was forced wide by COUNTESS BINA entering stretch and faltered slightly in late stages. COUNTESS BINA bore out on stretch turn and swerved sharply when tiring in final eighth. CHIEF CHEROKEE had good speed to stretch, where he tired badly.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 5:43. Off at 5:44. Winner, J. McGee's b. f. (4), by Snob II—Juvenescence. Trained by E. Trotter. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 4-5, 0:47 2-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:44 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JESTING, $9.88, $3.62, $3.28; FANFERN, $2.70, $2.38; NOAHS PRIDE, $3.20.

JESTING took command quickly, sustained her speed courageously and, withstanding FANFERN'S bid, came away in final eighth. Latter, under steady restraint for three-quarters, could not get to winner and weakened badly in last sixteenth, which aided winner in drawing out. NOAHS PRIDE, forced to lose some ground, held on gamely in an even effort. SPICSON bore out in stretch. OSCILLATION failed to keep up in stretch. GYRO was outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:09. Off at 6:10½. Winner, H. Gott' b. f. (3), by Rire Aux Larmes—Affectation. Trained by H. Wells. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:39 1-5, 1:51 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARCELLA H., $11.54, $5.42, $3.02; TINY KITTY, $6.40, $3.76; TECHNOCRACY, $2.28.

MARCELLA H., away slowly and badly outrun early, began to improve her position after three-quarters and headed TINY KITTY in final stride. Latter, well rated, came away in stretch, then weakened, barely failing to last. TECHNOCRACY, kept well up but forced to race wide, weakened in stretch. ROYAL LEON saved ground throughout and failed to keep up after seven-eighths. Other were outrun throughout.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward; maidens. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 6:35½. Off at 6:38½. Cronin Sees Clean Sweep as Nats Open Three-Game Series in Boston Today

Dave Harris Returns to Line-up

By Lewis F. Atchison
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BOSTON, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—Heartened by the return of big Heinie Manush, the league's leading hitter, and Dave Harris, who will perform in right field, "Frisco" Joe Cronin today predicted two extremely uncomfortable afternoons for the Red Sox, who are entertaining the Nats during their brief visit to this city.

"Frisco" thinks the Nats are going home with three consecutive victories tucked under their belts and the "putsch" for a first division berth well under way.

"Listen! This race has two months to run," he pointed out. "We're only 6½ games out of fourth place, and only 9 out of third. I honestly believe we'll beat out the Red Sox. We've got the stuff to do it. And if we can make up 6½ games, why can't we stretch it a couple more?"

Whitehill in Opener.

Getting back the first of these six depends on Earl Whitihill's whipping portside curves. The Earl has been designated to open the two-day, three-game series tomorrow. Al Thomas and Ed Linke will work the double-header Sunday.

Cronin is very emphatic and positive about the club's ability to wriggle into the top division. He thinks the acquisition of Pete Susko for first base has strengthened the team defensively and that Bolton, catching regularly, will soon find his batting eye and start busting a few to help the attack, which hasn't been too bad without him.

"If only we don't have more injuries," Cronin said, "we are going to surprise a lot of these other clubs. Remember what I said earlier in the season about this team having a lot to say concerning the winner, well that goes double now. We certainly aren't getting any worse and back on the home lot we'll give Detroit, Cleveland and the rest of them all the competition they can handle."

Will Use Bolton.

"Frisco" intends to stick by his decision to use Bolton throughout the remainder of the season, with Sewell helping out in double-headers. Ossie Bluege will break into the lineup more often, he intimated, assuming his old position at third, when the opposition uses a right-handed pitcher. This arrangement will be in effect tomorrow if Bucky Harris starts an orthodox twirler.

Alex McColl has been with 15 clubs in eight leagues, most of them in the Midwest.

Everybody but the batterymen, Cronin and Travis had an off-day today. The latter worked out for an hour, after getting two days' accumulation of kinks out of their systems.

Cliff Bolton confidently predicts he will bat well over .300 for the season.

Pennant Fever Grips Detroit as Tigers Lead League

With their team well on its way to what would be its first American League pennant since 1909, Detroit fans are reveling in an epidemic of "Tigercraziness," as this typical scene at the portals of Navin Field indicates. Manager Mickey Cochrane (lower inset) is being hailed as a new baseball "miracle man" for the fire and dash he has put in the team, while "Goose" Goslin (left) has been wielding his big bat potently and has inspired his younger mates with assurance of their pennant possibilities. Lynwood "Schoolboy" Rowe (right), his arm strong again, is being counted on for 20 or more victories.

6 Boats Primed For Gold Cup Test Today

Oefender, El Lagorto, Will Lead Field Seeking New Records.

BOLTON LANDING, N. Y., Aug. 3 (AP).—Six speedy craft, all tuned to mechanical perfection after hours of skimming over Lake George's smooth waters, tonight were ready for the thirty-first running tomorrow of the Gold Cup, America's premier speedboat trophy.

Withdrawal of three boats at the final moment left the field shy of Hotsy Totsy, owned by Victor W. Kliesrath, of South Bend, Ind.; Miss Saranac, owned by Edmund Guggenheim, of Sands Point, Long Island, and Delphine VII, the property of Mrs. R. T. Baker, of Hampton, Va.

Leading the field of the world's fastest boats is the 12-year-old defender, El Lagarto, to be driven by Owner George Reis, of Lake George, which set a heat record of 60.866 miles an hour at Detroit last year in winning the trophy.

Two other former winners, Jack Rutherfurd's Imp, 1929 title holder, and Horace Dodge's Delphine IV, which Bill Horn drove to first place at Montauk in 1932, also will seek the old, gold-plated stering silver vase.

With ideal weather predicted, the thousands of enthusiasts pouring into this little village tonight had hopes of witnessing the creation of new speed records on the 2½-mile course.

Baer Stories—By Gallico

By Paul Gallico.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3 (Spl.).—The theatrical tour of Max Baer, your new heavyweight champion of the world, has ended. It did a sensational business in this town, but was a flop everywhere else, including New York. If the company had packed them in at the Paramount in New York Baer would have received $8,000 a week and the tour would have extended for 30 weeks. But the run in New York was so disquieting that theaters on the chain around the country canceled in droves and Baer was paid only $5,000 per week. The tour ended here last night.

I met little Benny Rubin, the Jewish comedian who has been holding up the act all around the country, in the Santa Fe railroad station. He was bound for Los Angeles to see his little daughter. Both his hands were puffed and swollen. Both his arms were a mass of cuts and bruises, and he said that his whole upper body was black and blue—just from playing with Maxie. One of his ears had just escaped a cauliflower by skillful surgery. But his muscles are hard and he isn't afraid of any man in the world. For five weeks he has been pushing Buddy and Maxie around. We stood on the platform outside The Chief and he told me Baer stories.

Wants Friends Happy.

Benny said he could do anything to Baer on the stage but muss his hair or muss his clothes. Then he got mad and tough. But Baer couldn't stand having any one he liked sore at him. It breaks his heart to have a friend say, "Go on away from me now, and leave me alone. I don't want to talk to you any more." He did something that annoyed Benny in a restaurant and Benny gave it to him and walked out. The next day Max brought him a gold cigarette case inscribed, "To My Pal, Benny Rubin, from His Friend Max Baer."

Max and Buddy fight all the time and get into terrific arguments. Max hurts Buddy's feelings and the big 250-pound kid starts to pout and blubber. Then Max runs after him and puts his arms around him and kisses him and they make up. Ten minutes later they are fighting again.

Buddy, the Actor.

Some of the best stories are about Buddy, the kid brother, who until he joined Max's act had never been backstage in his life. The first day at the Paramount was his first experience. The big farmer-boy looked about him, wide-eyed and wondering. Everything was new and strange to him in this world of the theater.

He did his first turn and then went out into the street and looked at the sign over the Paramount. Then he came back inside, got hold of Rubin, and said, "Hey, you, I want my name in bigger letters on that electric sign outside." "Half an hour it took him to become an actor," Rubin said.

By the next show Buddy grabbed Rubin and said, "There's too much amber in that spot on Max when he's reciting that piece of his. Get hold of the electrician and tell him to put more white in it." At the end of the third show, in which Rubin had done a little clowning ex tempore and spoken a few lines not in the script, Buddy grabbed him and said, "Hey, you—the next time you switch lines, how about letting the rest of us actors in on it?"

Benny says when he left the theater Buddy stopped and bought all the papers to read his press notices and the last time he saw him he was bound for Forty-seventh street, to stand in front of the Palace Theater for a while with the rest of the hams.

Clowns for Crowd.

Max and Benny were resting in Asbury Park one day after the light. They were on the beach, and on the boardwalk above a crowd of some 2,000 or 3,000 persons gathered. Baer looked up and said: "Look, Benny, a crowd. Come on, let's do something!" Rubin said: "Nix; I'm laying off for a day. I'm tired. Why should I entertain?" So Baer got up and picked him up bodily and clowned around with him.

The crowd grew. Baer said: "I'm supposed to be a clown. We gotta do something for all these people." Some one produced boxing gloves and Baer made Rubin put them on. They roughed around, and Baer said, "Cross your right, Benny." Rubin didn't want to, but Baer whispered again out of the side of his face, "Cross your right!" Benny landed flush on Baer's mouth and cut the inside of his lip. For a moment Baer tasted blood, snarled suddenly, whipped out with a left hook and Rubin's ear started to go up like the stratosphere balloon. A doctor who knew his stuff drew the fluid out and saved the comedian from a genuine cauliflower ear.

In the last show here, Rubin got sore at Baer for roughing him around and the pair of them stripped to the waist in front of the audience and went to it, punching one another in the body. Rubin had both his arms cut by the slave bracelet that Max wears.

Bierman 'Beams' Watching Gophers In Grid Workout

Minneapolis (AP).—Bernie Bierman, Minnesota's head grid coach, who seldom smiles while he has football on his mind, "beamed" for a short time when his varsity eleven rushed over two touchdowns against the rookies to win 13 to 0 in a rough spring scrimmage game.

Led by Capt. Pug Lund, All-America half, and with last year's lineup intact with one exception—the same team that missed the Big Ten title by the margin of a wide goal kick—the Gopher regulars cut loose with a full assortment of polished plays to rout the second stringers.

But the "grim and silent" Bernie refused to be optimistic for long. He regained his composure even while watching Lund toss a pass to "Butch" Larson for a touchdown—one of last year's pet plays.

Lacking only Roy Oen, 1933 center and captain, the Gophers are working out a new one in the backfield, a variation of their "Z" formation. Bierman said he had no name for it. It is designed to take some of the pressure off Lund, who last year did practically all the kicking, passing and a major share of ball carrying.

Share Golf Honors.

Mrs. E. M. McClelland and Mrs. D. W. Bell shared top honors in yesterday's blind bogey golf tournament at the Manor Club. The winners each scored a 77 net apiece. Mrs. J. E. Nell and Mrs. L. G. Pray were second with 74s, while Mrs. Terney Ebert won the inside nine-holes competition.

Gehrig Scoffs At Records, But Look!

Usefulness to Club Is His Aim, but He Goes On Toward Marks.

By Jack Cuddy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3 (U.P.).—Locomotive Lou Gehrig, baseball's armor-plated paradox, who is slugging murderously toward a batting grand slam this season, scoffed at records today.

Then he went out and blasted two home runs to take the lead from Jimmy Foxx in the American League four-bagger race with a total of 35.

He drove in four runs, getting three hits and a walk in four tries, bringing his total runs driven in to 123—far above any one in either league. He boosted his batting average to .378. Only Heinie Manush, of Washington, with .395, has a higher average in the league.

Usefulness to Club.

"To me, records mean nothing," the Yanks indestructible first-sacker proclaimed. "The big thing in baseball is a man's usefulness to his club."

But what about that all-time record for consecutive games which Columbia Lou is still stretching? Including today's encounter, he has participated in 1,448 straight championship games. He started this string on June 1, 1925. To keep this record intact, apparently, husky Lou played in games with broken bones, mild brain concussions, lumbago, bumps, bruises and in spite of hell and high water.

"But that string doesn't mean a thing," insisted Gehrig. "It just happened. I never have played in a game when I was unfit. I never played when it was an effort. I like to play baseball, just as I like to eat. It would take something pretty serious to keep me away from the dinner table, and likewise it takes something pretty serious to keep me out of a game. Besides, I figure I owe it to the club to play as often as I can."

Just a Small Meal.

But what about a couple games in which he played only a small portion after injuries?

Similarly, Lou explained, if he happens to win the league's batting championship, drive in the most runs (as he did for the past four seasons) and top the circuit in homers, it will be just one of those things.

"Of course," admitted the broad-shouldered slugger, "every one likes to have a fair batting average. But it's the way club officials figure your value to the team that counts."

Long Lay-Off.

3 Ties Feature Annual Shoot In Virginia

Roanoke Team, Renner, Wilson Are Visitors in Final Tests.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., Aug. 3 (AP).—Three ties resulted today in events at the thirty-fifth annual shoot of the Virginia Trapshooting Association, now under way at the Cavalier Gun Club, Bird Neck Point. The Roanoke and Cavalier Club teams were deadlocked for first place in the team shoot. T. J. O'Connor, of Ocean View; T. G. Fletcher, of Richmond, and L. J. Renner, of Winchester, tied for high gun in the Virginia State doubles, while Renner and Homer Wilson, of Richmond, tied in the handicap shoot. In all instances extra shoots were held, the Roanoke team winning the team event, Renner taking the doubles championship and Wilson winning hte handicap event.

Six teams participated in the five-man shoot, Roanoke entering two and with the Cavalier Club, Winchester, Roanoke and Newport News having entries.

Roanoke Is Victor.

In the first shoot both the Roanoke team, composed of L. G. Richards, Dr. R. L. Mason, H. R. Cox, W. H. Bratton and A. J. Wright, broke 237 targets out of a possible 250, while the Cavalier team, made up of T. J. O'Connor, A. G. Backus, R. C. Gillam, Bob Tunstall and E. Cromwell, made a like record. In the shoot-off the Roanoke team won the trophy, breaking 112 birds out of a possible 125, while the Cavalier representatives were able to break only 110.

In the shoot off for the Virginia State doubles championship Renner was the victor, breaking 19 out of 24 targets, while Fletcher broke 16 and O'Connor 15.

The handicap event that went to extra rounds was won by Wilson, who made a perfect 25 to defeat Renner with a 23 out of a possible 25. M. D. Hart, of Richmond, was runner-up in this event with a score of 94. In the added event Wilson shot from the 25-yard line while Renner took his stand on the 23-yard line, the usual handicap for both shooters.

Moss Takes Title.

Among others of the day who took honors was E. L. Moss, of Richmond, who won the State professional championship by breaking 46 out of 50 birds. He also won the professional handicap shoot by turning in a 96 out of a possible 100. No other Virginia professionals competed.

High over all doubles for the day went to Walter Beaver, of Berwyn, Pa., grand American champion, who shattered 47 clay birds out of a possible 50.

Mrs. Martinez, Sara Moore To Clash

THE annual Women's Public Parks Tennis Championships will enter the semifinal round of play this afternoon on the Rock Creek courts when Mrs. Ruoth Martinez, the defending champion, faces her conqueror in the recent District tournament, Sara Moore, at 3 o'clock, and Mrs. Dorette Miller, seeded No. 2, meets Mary Ryan at 4.

Miss Moore is seeded No. 3 and Miss Ryan No. 4. The match between the District's No. 1 ranking player and her stubborn nemesis, Miss Moore, promises plenty of fireworks. In the District event the two struggled through three long sets before Miss Moore finally came through to win the third by the narrowest of margins.

Match About Even.

Mrs. Martinez's showing in the recent West Virginia State championships, in which she reached the final round, has made her something of a favorite to win her second Public Parks title, but Miss Moore's known ability to match the champion's play is considered to make the odds nearly even for today's catch. Mrs. Miller is once more hitting her usual stride and is expected to top Miss Ryan.

Yesterday's play was featured by the unexpectedly stubborn opposition with which Mrs. Martinez and Mrs. Bobsey Turney met in the doubles semifinals when Miss Ryan and Kay Johnson forced the top-seeded pair to split the only two sets played. The favorites took the first, 6—4, but dropped the second, 8—6. The third set will be played out today.

Miss Moore and Mrs. Miller advanced impressively to the finals with a 6—0, 6—3 win over Dorothy Towns and Elizabeth Judd.

Mack Spikes Rumors Tigers Will Get Foxx

NEW YORK, Aug 3 (AP).—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, laughed tonight at recurring rumors that he was about to sell his great first baseman, Jimmie Foxx, to the Detroit Tigers, or that he had had recent arguments with the home-run star.

"There is absolutely nothing to it," he said with a chuckle. "You mustn't worry about such rumors. You'll be hearing them for the next 12 months anyway, probably until 1936, but it's a safe bet that even then Jimmie Foxx will still be with my ball club."

Foxx, who was represented as eager to be traded to the Tigers, who are locked in a tight battle with the Yankees for the American League pennant, was spending the evening with his wife at a theater.

Mack, who last winter sold his star catcher, Mickey Cochrane, to to Detroit where he is now managing the Tigers, as well as Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg and Max Bishop to the Red Sox and George Earnshaw to the White Sox, has said repeatedly that he won't dispose of Foxx.

"I haven't changed my mind at all," he said tonight. "There's absolutely no reason for such rumors. I'm not selling any more players, and Foxx last of all. We have had no arguments of any kind."

The Post Sandlotter

PAUL MESSINK'S Hecht's Store team, left at the post in the second-series pennant race of the Department Store League, aims to regain its winning stride in its twin battles this morning against Lansburgh and Palais Royal on the South Ellipse. The first game will start at 10:30.

A double victory would put the Hechtmen back in the running for The Post Association title and within striking distance of the flying Kann's nine, which is out in front with a record of three wins against no defeats. Johnny Wolf, Augie Tamagni and Paul Messink will bear the pitching responsibilities for Hecht's in today's engagements. Charlie Vance is expected to get the assignment for Lansburgh's, while Jack Kaldenback will be on the firing line for Palais Royal.

Two changes were made by President Vic Gauzza affecting the games tomorrow in the National City Unlimited League. The Federal-Congress Heights tilt has been shifted to Congress Heights, and the Miller Furniture-Griffith's Blue Coals game has been moved to No. 4 diamond.

The Clarendon Juniors, champions in their class, are anxious to arrange a series of games with Johnny Fenlon's Fredericksburg team as soon as possible. Clarendon won the first half series in the National Capital League and remains undefeated in the second half play. Manager Henry Smith can be reached at 204 Clarendon avenue, Ballston, Va. Games during the week with local teams also are desired. Howdy Preston, whose phone number is Clarendon 2259, is handling the challenges.

Rinaldi Coalmen will play Navy Yard Nine at 3 p. m. today on the South Ellipse. Games with out-of-town teams are being scheduled by the Rinaldi management. Call Emerson 5662.

More than 100 kids were keenly disappointed yesterday morning when wet grounds forced postponement of several of the opening games of the Columbian Insect League. Joseph Cohen is directing play in this loop.

First place will be at stake in the Maryland Suburban League as the teams resume play this afternoon in a double-header on the University of Maryland diamond. Burt Shipley's College Park club has an opportunity to spurt far into the lead in its twin games against Animal Husbandry and the Beltsville teams. The first contest will start at 2 o'clock. The teams are now in a deadlock, each having won and lost one game.

Majestic Radio Tossers meet the Renroc team this afternoon on the West Ellipse at 3 o'clock. Lefty Jewott and Frank DiNenna will be the opposing hurlers. Nothing would please the Renrocs better than to bump off the Radio nine, and a real battle is in prospect.

Mount Vernon Sport and Cycle Store club seeks a game for tomorrow with an out-of-town team. Call Metropolitan 2735.

Heurich Brewers will visit Alexandria this afternoon for a game with the Fraternal Order of Eagles at 3 o'clock at Baggett's Stadium. The manager of the Eagles is confident the Brewer contest will put the Fraternal nine on edge for its crucial game with St. Mary's Celtics tomorrow in the opening of city championship series.

The Coast Guard Headquarters team has scheduled a game with the Tidewater Oil Co. of Alexandria for today at 5 o'clock at Baggett's Stadium. Hale or Lyons will be the probable mound choices for the Coast Guard nine. Games with Fort Myer on Tuesday and Rinaldi Coalmen on Friday on the Ellipse have also been added to the Guardsmen's schedule.

Crimson A. C. won from the Monroe Cleaners, 13 to 12, yesterday in a thrilling 11-inning battle.

Stocks Ignore Inflation Talk; Close Down

Market Settles Into Inertia as Sales Drop to 465,910 Shares.

New York, August 3 (AP).—Ignoring inflation talk that caused an abrupt decline in the dollar against foreign exchanges, the stock market sagged today in slow trading.

Cause of Dollar Loss.

The sharpest rise in the French franc, Dutch guilder, Swiss franc and other European currencies in weeks was attributed chiefly to selling the dollar from Paris.

Wall street heard that an inflationary interpretation had been placed upon Secretary Morgenthau's announcement that the Treasury would print silver certificates as fast as possible against its purchases of the meal, and also that Europe had been impressed by renewed inflation agitation in the United States.

In Wall Street, however, the inflationary significance of the silver program was minimized. Bar silver was marked up ⅛ of a cent an ounce to 46¾, duplicating the 1934 peak, but even metal shares sold off in the stock market.

Sales Volume Dwindles.

With volume dwindling to 465,910 shares, compared with 558,980 yesterday, the market settled deeper into inertia while traders waited for new incentive. Eyes were turned toward President Roosevelt on his return to the country.

A break of nearly 3 points in Chrysler, following publication of its midyear earnings report, showing that profits failed to keep pace with an expansion in business, helped to unsettle stocks, especially the motor group. General Motors lost more than a point. Auburn was an exception and finished a point higher.

U. S. Smelting, American Smelting and Cerro de Pasco moved fractionally to more than a point lower in face of the rise in bar silver and the dip in the dollar. National Lead extended its rally with a jump of 4 points.

Aviation Share Trading.

Aviation shares attracted a little buying on additional reports of plans for strengthening military air forces, including U. S. Army desires for a stronger aviation defense.

Douglas, United Aircraft and Curtiss-Wright A netted small gains, while Wright Aero, a relatively inactive issue, spurted more than 3 points. General movements were narrow and price changes inconsequential. The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 stocks dropped eight-tenths of a point to 70.7.

The weekly Dun & Bradstreet Trade Review said August had brought signs of a slow upward start in business.

Wool Market.

Boston, Aug. 3 (AP) (U. S. Dept. of Agri.). The effect of the reduction of asking prices on spot territory and other Western grown wools in the Boston market has not as yet been expressed in any increase in demand from manufacturers. The market remained very dull on all classes of grease combing domestic wools. Nominal quotations were steady at the revised ranges named by various wool houses earlier in the week. Members of the wool trade have adopted a waiting policy and were watching closely for any indications of the effect of the change in asking prices upon the demand for wool.

Goods Markets.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Cotton goods were firm today. Wide sheetings were slightly higher in consequence of large Government requirements. Sales of spots of wide 64 by 60s were made at 6¾ cents. Rayon weavers were reported trying to bring about further curtailment of production beyond August 25 to the extent of 15 per cent of machine hours worked. Silk goods were in moderate demand. The tone of the wool goods markets improved by revision of raw wool values. Burlaps were firm and quiet.

Robey's Review

Finance Economics Business

Growing Anticipation of Inflation Is Combination of Hope-Thinking on One Side, and Fear-Thinking on the Other Side.

By Ralph West Robey.

Few of the business analysts with whom I have talked recently take much stock in the growing fear of inflation. They say that we may have a shift in that direction before November, but that the odds appear to be against it. It is their view that the conclusions of those who at present are aroused on this point are based either upon wish-thinking or fear-thinking.

Among the former are the inflationists themselves—the Senator Thomases, the Committee for the Nation and the various speculators that are unable to carry their economic reasoning beyond their own self-interest. These hold that there is no alternative to a new outburst of monetary manipulation. They are urging the President to make a further devaluation of the dollar, and some of them even go to the point of pleading for out-and-out printing press money. Then of course we still have the silver lobby. They do not care what happens if the price of silver is driven up enough to line their pockets.

Views of Inflationists Important Politically.

The views of these inflationists are significant only as a political factor. Their arguments immediately fall to the ground upon examination. In addition we have had a year of experience in following their advice. We have increased the value of gold by about 70 per cent. And we have pumped, in effect, billions of dollars of printing-press money into the economic system through the spending program of the Administration.

One might assume, in view of business recovery having failed to come in spite of all of this, that the inflationists would begin to lose faith in their panacea. But inflationists never lose faith. They do not reason on the basis of past records. If they did they would not be inflationists.

The fear-thinking group reflects a more serious situation. Their conclusion is an outgrowth of the conviction that business will continue to get worse. They have given up hope of a seasonal upturn of trade this fall unless it is artificially created by Government action. And they think, in view of the election, that politically it is imperative for there to be such an upturn.

Believe Government Can Not Escape Positive Inflation.

As they see it the Government will be driven to positive inflationary action. The spending program as now constituted, they hold, will not be sufficient to turn the business trend. At most, it can do nothing more than hold business at about the present levels. And they doubt if it can do that.

Sometime before election, it appears to this group, the President will make a move for direct inflation. What it will be, they do not know. It may be a further devalution of the dollar. It may be the issuance of printing-press money. It may be more vigorous pushing of the silver program. It may be paying off maturing Government obligations by "greenbacks." They are unwilling to commit themselves. But they can not be shaken in the belief that further inflation is in the offing.

It would be foolish to say that there is not some reason for such a point of view. Business is on the down trend. And it is imperative that it improve before November. Nevertheless, I do not believe that there is an immediate danger of the type of inflation they fear. My reason for taking such a position is—and I recognize that it is far from conclusive—that the President has lost faith in monetary manipulation as a stimulant to business. I think he will try to find something else.

Bond Market Is Unchanged At 84.7 Level

Utilities Turn Fairly Firm; Sales Volume Rises to $8,034,000.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—The bond market held colse to a neutral line today and failed to move much either up or down. Better grade utilities were fairly steady, but considerable irregularity cropped out in other sections of the list.

Transfers aggregated $8,034,000, par value, compared with $7,192,000 on Thursday.

Secondary Loans Rise.

Reports from Europe indicating that some further inflationary moves by the Administration had been rumored in financial marts gave impetus to demand for second-grade and speculative bonds and there were numerous advances of a point or so in these groups.

Obligations of the Denver & Rio Grande, General Theater, Hudson Coal, International Great Northern, Wabash and Wisconsin Central, were actually higher.

Utility issues that improved included some of American & Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Laclede Gas, New England Telephone, Ohio Public Service and Western Union. A 3 to 4 point gain in Interborough Rapid Transit bonds followed renewed discussion of unification plans by the New York City administration.

Corporate Bonds Advance.

Many high grade corporate bonds were neglected and while a number of them advanced fractionally, such issues as Santa Fe 4s, California Petroleum 5s, Canadian Pacific 6s, Cleveland Union Terminal 5½s, Sinclair 7s, Standard Oil of New Jersey 5s and Wilson & Co. 6s, sold around ½ point lower. Great Northern 4½s declined 1½ to 68½ and Nickel Plate 6s yielded ⅛ of a point to 63.

Treasury issues and Libertys were uneven, there being 8 advances and 11 declines in this section ranging all the way from one thirty-second to seven thirty-seconds of a point.

French 7s advanced 2 points to 185 and Belgium 7s gained a point at 104¼. Other foreign bonds were quiet and narrow, including the Germans and Italians.

Curb's Prices Finish Mixed In Dull Session

Some Specialties Advance; Sales Volume Is Cut to 98,000 Shares.

New York, Aug. 3 (AP).—Curb shares closed narrowly irregular today after drifting in exceedingly dull dealings. The market started steady enough, but scattered selling appeared at the end of the first hour. The mild pressure lifted, in spots, in the late afternoon dealings. Activity was at its lowest in the fourth hour, when only 7,000 shares were traded.

A few specialties moved independent of the general trend. Parker Rust Proof finished up 3 points while Aluminum Co. of America, Canadian Industrial Alcohol B and Lynch Corporation closed to 1 to higher. Negligible changes were shown by Electric Bond & Share, Standard Oil of Indiana and Swift & Co. Waco Aircraft firmed slightly in sympathy with active buying of aircraft shares on the big board.

Gulf Oil and Hiram Walker yielded around a point each following their recent firmness. Fractional recessions appeared in Swift Internacional, Glen Alden Coal and Distillers Corporation-Seagrams.

Transfers approximated 98,000 shares compared with 110,000 yesterday.

(Associated Press.)

Chemicals—Because of severe competitive conditions in potash salts for agricultural purposes, local representatives of French and German producers have lowered prices to meet the recent reduction announced by a leading domestic maker.

Woolens—The market for fine quality woolen coatings, suitings, and dress goods was reported by brokers to be considerably more active than would appear on the surface. A few quality manufacturers were said to be running the larger part of their producing equipment without piling up more than a relatively small surplus.

Dyestuffs—A better inquiry for textile dyestuffs was reported despite the fact that silk mills are currently operating at a very low level and reports from that quarter were not encouraging to the trade. The many firm spots in the color market has led observers to believe that any improvement in demand would bring about an upward movement of prices on some items.

Stocks—Inflation talk was ignored and the market sank deeper into inertia. Declines averaged eight-tenths of a point. Sales volume dwindled to 465,910 shares.

Wheat — Profit taking caused wheat to turn downward ⅛ to ½ cent. Corn advanced. Oats declined. September wheat sold at $1.02¾; December at $1.04¾.

Cotton—Trading was quiet as prices declined slightly under realizing. The general market closed steady with drops of 12 to 14 points. October sold at 12.97; December at 13.07.

Rubber — Crude rubber was steady as the market rose 12 to 18 points. September sold at 15.09; October at 15.22.

Sugar — Raw sugar was 1 to 2 points higher. It sold at 3.30. Refined closed unchanged at 4.75.

Dollar—The United States dollar was slightly lower on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $5.04½ to the English pound; 6.61⅝ cents to the French franc; 39.00 cents to the German mark.

London, Aug. 3.—The stock exchange exhibited a cheerful tone today on the eve of the bank holiday. Investment buying improved gilt-edged securities and industrials while professional traders supported gold mining shares, transatlantic issues and rubber stocks. German bonds weakened. The market closed firm.

Paris—President Von Hindenburg's passing failed to shake prices on the bourse today in its first session since his death. Rentes, oil and gold mining shares improved. The closing was firm.

Berlin—Closed because of the death of President Von Hindenburg.

Wheat Yields Fractions in Profit-Taking

Early Rallies Attributed to Smaller Canadian Crop; Corn Gains.

Chicago, Aug. 3. (AP).—Succumbing to the weight of persistent profit-taking sales on price advances, the wheat market turned downward at the last today.

Rallies which in the end failed to hold were due largely to the fact that Canada's 1934 wheat crop was estimated here today at as low as 250,000,000 bushels, whereas a month ago the Canadian government figures indicated 350,000,000 bushels.

Besides, a next season repetition of this year's crop failure in the United States winter wheat belt was authoritatively predicted today unless there is a radical improvement of moisture supply within the next six weeks.

Wheat Closes Easy.

Despite strength in the corn market, wheat closed easy, ⅛ to ½ under yesterday's finish; corn, ¼ to ⅝ up; oats, ⅛ to ⅜ down, and provisions showing 2 cents to 12 cents gain.

This was the third day of extensive profit-taking sales in the wheat market here, and as a consequence all fresh advances were kept within fractional limits, despite encouragement which buyers received from Liverpool upturns attributed to apprehension over the changing world wheat crop situation, especially as regards North America. Increasing damage to wheat in Canada was reported as due to heavy toll being taken by drought, heat and grasshoppers. Drenching general rains over the prairie provinces were declared essential to check injury to Canadian crops.

Corn Market Gains.

Corn market gains resulted more or less from a renewal of talk that the loan value of corn would be raised to 65 cents a bushel from 45 cents. Officials at Washington deny such reports. The corn market today was also bullishly influenced by the fact that advices of crop deterioration showed no let up, and apparently further curtailment of an already small yield was in progress.

Rains noted at numerous places in Illinois, Indiana and Ohio were not regarded by traders as indicating general drought relief for the corn belt. Oats were without any broad trading interest.

The prospective corn crop of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Colorado was unofficially estimated today as 98,000,000 bushels, a drop of 240,000,000 bushels during July. Illinois and Iowa were figured as having each lost 40,000,000 bushels. Provisions advanced, responsive to upturns of hog values.

Grocers Fight Levies Except By Food Code

Virginia Wholesalers to Study N. C. Tobacco Problems.

Roanoke, Va., Aug. 3 (AP).—The Virginia Wholesale Grocers Association today adopted a resolution expressing opposition to being assessed by any code authority other than that of the food industry, named a committee to study the tobacco code in North Carolina, with a view of recommending a similar set-up for Virginia, and heard National code officials explain proposed amendments which will be submitted to the code authority in Washington Monday.

Appointment of a committee to study a plan of control for the tobacco industry in Virginia followed a discussion by Allen Davis, of Baltimore, secretary of the National Tobacco Code Authority. Those named to the committee were Henry Gunst, of Richmond; John G. Thomasson, of Lynchburg; H. D. Vance, of Covington; Clyde Davis, of Norfolk; C. F. Crist, of Harrisonburg; B. W. Stras, jr., of North Tazewell; J. R. Tate, of Danville, and B. F. Barrow, of Roanoke. Mr. Davis was named chairman.

C. H. Janssen, president of the National Food and Grocery Distributors Code Authority, and W. P. Johnson, representative of the National Wholesale Grocers Association, explained the food and grocery code.

Mr. Jansen said that the proposed amendments to the National code would make it more effective, and he drew the support of Virginia grocers on the ground.

"The code is here to stay," he said. "It is basically sound."

Mr. Davis spoke of the tobacco code's provisions for minimum prices, which, he said, have a distinct advantage in their flexibility. He declared the trade association must be the dominating influence in the tobacco industry.

Mr. Johnson urged the "thrashing out" of complaints of code violations locally wherever possible. He said only five code authorities were active in Virginia, which he termed "a disgrace" to the State.

Missing British Naval Secrets Found Intact

London, Aug. 3 (AP).—A box of naval documents, the disappearance of which created a sensation in England today, was discovered intact tonight.

The box apparently was misdirected by railway employes after it had been dispatched from London and discovered after a widespread search at Hepburn-on-Tyne.

While the admiralty minimized its value, other sources reported the box contained important papers pertaining to naval affairs.

The papers originally were dispatched by Messrs. Hawthorn Leslie & Co., of Hepburn, a naval construction concern. The fact that the firm's name was on the box was believed to have caused it to be sent on to Hepburn instead of being delivered to Portsmouth, where it was due yesterday.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Moving Day — By Harry J. Tuthill

GOSH! IMAGINE US RINGING THAT BELL SO LONG AND ALL THE TIME THE DOOR WAS UNLOCKED.
OH-H! LISTEN PEGGY... VOICES...
AND IF NEIGHBORS RANG MY DOORBELL THAT WAY AND TRIED TO TELL ME I COULDN'T HAVE LODGE BROTHERS MEET AT MY HOUSE, DO YOU KNOW WHAT I'D DO?
NOBODY SHOULD INTERFERE WITH ANY OTHER PERSON'S LODGE DUTIES. IT'S UN-PATRIOTIC AND...
MY THEORY IS...
OH OH! BOYS.... P-SS-T!
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N. Y.
PARDON THE INTRUSION, BUT IS GEORGE BUNGLE...?
GEORGE? YOU MEAN...? OH YES...
I'LL CALL HIM! OH GEORGE!
I'LL WAKE HIM UP.
PEGGY! JO! MY WORD, WHAT A SURPRISE TO SEE.....
OH HELLO DAD!
I'D LIKE TO SPEAK TO YOU PRIVATELY, GEORGE.
NEVER DREAMED SHE'D WALK IN. OLD GEORGIE WAS KIND OF STUNNED, TOO.
LISTEN, HELP ME FIND MY SHOES AND COAT.

JOE JINKS, Featuring Dynamite Dunn — Sitting Room Only — By Llanuza

BUT WHAT'S THE USE OF GOING ON WITH THE ACT IF THERE'S NOBODY IN THE AUDIENCE?
WE GOTTA, DYNA-MITE — SOME MIL-LIONAIRE PAID TEN THOUSAND BUCKS TO RESERVE THE WHOLE HOUSE! AUDIENCE OR NOT, THE ACT'S GOTTA GO ON!
—JINKS AND DUNN — YOU'RE ON IN TWO MINUTES!
SAY THERE ARE A COUPLE OF GUYS OUT THERE IN BACK!
AND THEY PAID TEN THOUSAND BUCKS TO SEE THE SHOW — IT MUST BE ROCKE-FELLER AND MORGAN!
THE TWO MEN ARE NOT ROCKEFELLER AND MORGAN — THEY ARE PETE HUMUS AND THE TERRIBLE PEPITO DIABLO

DIXIE DUGAN — Something Wrong — By J. P. McEvoy and J. H. Striebel

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN DIXIE'S LIFE SHE IS FACING THIS STRANGE SITUATION — THAT MEN HAVE IGNORED HER — NOT MERELY ONE MAN — OR TWO — BUT FOUR MEN AT A TIME —
IF I'D SUDDENLY DEVELOPED A BOIL ON TH' END OF MY NOSE — OR HAD TH' MUMPS — I COULD EXPLAIN IT.....OR THERE WAS A LOT OF STRONG COMPETITION.....BUT THERE ISN'T ANY — WE'RE TH' ONLY GIRLS HERE!
YOU MIGHT SAY THAT ONE OR TWO OF TH' BOYS PREFERRED BLONDES — OR THAT ONE OR TWO OF 'EM WERE SECRETLY MARRIED — BUT NOT ALL FOUR .....OR I MIGHT SAY THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH TH' THREE OTHER FELLOWS — BUT THERE ISN'T.....THEY'RE ALL PERFECTLY NORMAL HAPPY-GO-LUCKY, COLLEGE BOYS —

SIDNEY SMITH

Walt Mason, Himself

Among the Nudists.

I visited the nudist camp, and thought I there might find Apollo and the lovely vamp, the best of humankind. I thought that only handsome lads, and women fair to view would shed the clothing of their dads, and of their grandmas, too. "If man has spavins on his knees, or ringbones on his feet, he will not court the passing breeze in raiment incomplete. Nn man will face the public eye without a shirt or hat, if he's a most ungainly guy, too scrawny or too fat. And so these nudists, I expect, will all be straight and slim, with their dimensions all correct, and sound in wind and limb." I found the nudists in a glade, no garments did they wear; and some looked weary and decayed, and some had lost their hair. "Oh, come and join our happy band," I heard the leader cry; he had a swatter in his hand, with which he soaked a fly. Mosquitoes buzzed around his head, and ants crawled up his legs, and many painful things he said, while eating hard-boiled eggs. "Doggone the bugs," he cried aloud, in anguish and distress, "they crawl upon me in a crowd, and make my life a mess. But come and join our happy throng, from noxious clothing free, and life will be a grand sweet song —blank blank that blink-blanked bee!" I watched the dotards and the hags in all their antics queer, and I resolved to wear my rags at least another year.

DICK TRACY — Mortimer Joins Up

YEAH, LU — THIS IS MORTIMER. WHAT? YOU WANT ME TO COME DOWN TO DAN'S WATERFRONT DIVE? NIX! WITH THE COPS LOOKING FOR YOU, I SHOULD BE THERE, TOO?
LISTEN, YOU HORSE'S HEAD, I'M LETTING YOU IN ON THE BIGGEST THING OF YOUR LIFE! THIS IS A CHANCE FOR YOU AND I TO CLEAN UP ONE HUNDRED GRAND. WE TWO ARE THE ONLY ONES THAT CAN HANDLE THIS JOB!
THAT'S THE BOY! I KNEW YOU'D COME. I'LL BE LOOKING FOR YOU! (CLICK!)
BUT-LU.
WHAT A BREAK STEVE GAVE ME WHEN HE HANDED ME THIS LETTER TELLING ABOUT JUNIOR TRACY'S MOTHER AND THE TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLAR LEGACY THE BOY HAS! WOW! AT LAST, LU — YOU'RE IN BIG TIME!

POTOMAC PARK

By Carolyn Cox

Zena Mohme, Farm Credit Administration, takes the role of Wanda Mallory. In circle, Wanda, in desperate need of money, bails David. Will he see her frantic signal?

BROKE! Her purse so slim she dares not spend 15 cents on a sandwich and a cup of coffee, Wanda Mallory arrives in Washington with no prospect of a job . . . After countless discouragements, she finds work in a Government office.

ROMANCE beckons, in a chance meeting with a stranger in Potomac Park . . . and Wanda is lifted to new peaks and happiness. With appalling suddenness comes news of tragedy at home, and her world crashes about her. These are the swift moving highlights of the first chapter of the story.

EVERY WASHINGTONIAN will want to read this story of a plain girl who finds romance—not only for its dramatic plot, but because it holds the lure of familiar settings. Every scene takes place in Washington . . . Wanda's friends are typical of the men and women in Federal employe in the Capital.

"POTOMAC PARK" is illustrated with photographs posed by Government workers . . . Your friends may be among them. Be sure to read the first chapter of this engrossing romance . . . in the Magazine Section of tomorrow's Post.

WASHINGTON WAR ZONES . . . More than once the National Capital has been encircled by warring armies . . . In tomorrow's Post will appear the second of a series of weekly articles by Glenn I. Tucker, recounting the thrilling stories of battles that have been fought over this city . . .

IT TELLS of the British invasion during the War of 1812, when the King's men captured Washington and held a mock congress here. . . seated in representatives' chairs, they roared "Aye!" to Admiral Cockburn's thundered query, "Shall this harbor of Yankee Democracy be burned?" . . . Shortly afterward, the city was in flames.

The House of Starhemberg

For centuries the House of Starhemberg has been producing heroes when European crises arose . . . Now, with Hitler and Mussolini exchanging wary glances across the Alps, another Starhemberg takes the center of the stage. In an absorbing article, Robert Talley tells about Austria's dashing new vice chancellor, and how he was catapulted to eminence.
